Gunmen Kill Binaggio, Kansas City Overlord; House Inquiry Sought

Onetime Underling Of Tom Pendergast Found Dead With His 'Muscle Man'

Kansas City, April 6 (AP).—A burst of gunfire ended Charles Binaggio's North Side political power early today and took with him his top muscle-man, former convict Charles Gargotta.

The 41-year-old Binaggio's body, with four bullet holes in the head, was found slumped in a chair at a desk in the First District Democratic Club rooms on Truman rd. Gargotta's body, also with four bullets in the head, was sprawled on the floor near the front door.

There was a pool of blood at the feet of Binaggio, who had risen from a onetime underling of the late boss Tom Pendergast to become the North Side Democratic political chief and to contest the remnants of the Pendergast organization for its power.

Gargotta, 49, lay in blood. He had been struck from behind by one bullet. He had clawed wildly at a Venetian blind on a door, indicating he had fled in fear when the shooting began.

Photograph of Truman

Overlooking the gruesome scene were large photographs of President Truman and Gov. Forrest Smith. Binaggio in grasping for more political strength had supported Smith for Governor in 1948—and won.

He had challenged the Democratic leadership of the old Pendergast organization in doing so. James M. Pendergast, nephew of the late "Boss Tom," had supported another candidate and lost.

Some political observers indicated the killings would result in a new Democratic political lineup with opposing factions joining forces in the realignment.

There were few clews. No weapons were found in the club room and none was found on the two victims. Robbery was dismissed as a motive. Gargotta had 20 $100 bills and 4 $10 bills on him. Binaggio's expensive diamond-studded wrist watch had been untouched. There was $24 in his pockets.

Under Fire of U. S. Agencies

Both Binaggio and Gargotta had been under fire by Federal agencies. Heading the drive on the two was the Treasury Department's Internal Revenue Bureau whose specialty is developing income tax fraud cases.

Both men had been frequent witnesses before a Federal grand jury since it began investigating underworld activities here last September. In Washington today a Justice Department official said it was a fair assumption that both would have been called again.

It was known Government agents were working hard to trace both income and expenditures of the north side political chief and that of

Crime Quiz Plan Spurred

Rep. Short Links Slayings To Rivalry Over Senate Race

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

The Kansas City slaying of Charles Binaggio yesterday stoked the political fires in Washington and enlivened the ruckus over proposed congressional investigations of big-time racketeering.

These things happened at the Capitol:

1. Representative Short, Missouri's only Republican House member, charged on the floor that the Democratic political leader was "bumped off" because he was "in the way" of a Democratic senatorial candidate backed by President Truman.

2. Representative Macy (R., N. Y.) declared the murder of Binaggio and Charles Gargotta "conclusively proves the necessity for a congressional investigation of organized crime and its connection with political rings." He said a bill he introduced last month for such a probe was "smothered by the Democratic leadership who feared the results of such an investigation would be used to the disadvantage of the Democrats because it was sponsored by a Republican."

3. Senator Kefauver (D., Tenn.) continued to press for his proposed all-out racketeering investigation despite a road block in the form of a rival and much more limited probe by a second committee. Kefauver said the Judiciary Committee, which has approved his resolution, intends to go far beyond a probe of gambling information, which the rival Interstate Commerce Committee will consider, beginning next Tuesday.

Kefauver said:

"We are more interested in the criminal aspects of Nation-wide criminal operations. We want to look into the alleged corruption influence upon local officials."

It was this wide-open angle of the Kefauver probe plans which apparently brought the Democratic leadership roadblock. The Party Policy Committee here will make some decision next Wednesday, Majority Leader Lucas said yesterday.

Macy referred to the roadblock by quoting from a story in yesterday's Washington Post in which an Administration spokesman was quoted as saying:

"This investigation would be wide open, and made to order for their (the Republicans') purposes. There isn't any doubt in my mind that they would try to use it to the disadvantage of the Democrats."

Macy called the statement "a new low in American politics" and "an admission on the part of the Democrats that they would have much to fear from a Congressional investigation, particularly in the Kansas City area."

Denham Sees Chaos Under NLRB Change

Flood of Lawsuits Feared by Counsel If His Job Is Abolished

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Robert N. Denham, general counsel to the National Labor Relations Board, yesterday warned that "utter chaos" might result from President Truman's Reorganization Plan No. 12.

The President's proposal would abolish the independent office of the general counsel and transfer his duties to the five-man NLRB and its chairman. The plan becomes effective automatically on May 12 unless specifically rejected by either house of Congress.

Denham declared the plan would combine in the board the investigation, and judicial determination of Taft-Hartley unfair labor practice cases.

Should this happen, Denham said, a "substantial number" of the parties found guilty by the board will rush to the courts to test the legality of NLRB decisions. For two years, Denham asserted, effectiveness of the management-labor law will be "seriously impaired" until the issue is settled in the Supreme Court.

Fears "Utter Chaos"

Then, should the court hold Plan No. 12 illegal, "utter chaos would prevail," Denham said. "The work of the board . . . would be illegal and void. In effect, enforcement . . . of the law against both labor unions and management would be completely nullified."

Denham made the statement before the Senate Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments, which is holding hearings on a resolution by Senator Robert Taft (R., Ohio) rejecting Plan No. 12.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.), a committee member, demanded to know whether Denham's prediction of a flood of law suits was a veiled threat. Denham denied any such implication. He said "some of the Nation's best lawyers" told him they would seek such court action if Plan No. 12 goes into operation.

Denham said he had refused an invitation to appear before a House committee considering Plan No. 12 two weeks ago because he had no

Below Freezing Forecast in Suburbs; Weekend Moderate

Freezing weather was due to chill the District early today, with a 26-degree low predicted for the suburbs.

Warmer temperatures were forecast for the weekend, beginning this afternoon.

The mercury should hit 70 degrees both Saturday and Sunday afternoons, the Weather Bureau said, giving comfort to the thousands of visitors expecting to come to Washington to see the cherry trees in bloom.

While showers might mar activities, forecasters doubted whether the District would get more than an hour's rain either day.

Late forecasts for Washington called for fair weather today with diminishing winds. From the predicted overnight low of 32 degrees, the Weather Bureau said the afternoon high should rise to a point between 55 and 60.

The high yesterday was 45 degrees at 5 p. m. and low was 36 at midnight.

Beyond the Metropolitan Washington area, predictions were for 20 degrees in Western Maryland and 25 in the eastern portions of the State.

In Virginia, the forecast called for lows of 28 to 34 degrees in the Navy Employe Shoots Wife And Himself

Couple in Critical Condition; 2 Notes Hint Domestic Woes

A Navy machinist and his wife were in critical condition last night after, police said, he shot her and then turned a pistol on himself.

They are Claude O. Foy, 42, of 1816 22d st. se., and his wife, Vivian, about 35. She was in Casualty Hospital, with a bullet wound in her head, physicians said, and he was at Gallinger Hospital, with a bullet in his head.

They were found by their 13-year-old son, Robert, a Kramer Junior High School student, who heard shots while he was in a basement workshop repairing toys for a relief agency. A daughter, Betty, 17, an Anacostia High School student, was absent at a sorority picnic when the shooting took place.

Two Notes Found

Lieut. Richard Felber and Detective Sergt. Walter M. Cook said two notes were found in a wallet on a dining room table, but refused to disclose the contents in detail. They said the notes indicated domestic trouble. They said one, apparently the first, was written in pencil on onion skin paper, and the second, apparently written as an afterthought, was scribbled on yellow foolscap. One note directed disposition of property.

Johnson Suggests House Impeach Judge Waring

By The Associated Press

Suggestion was made in Congress yesterday that Federal Judge J. Waties Waring of Charleston, S. C., be impeached, and the House learned this is being considered by Judiciary Committee members.

Representative Johnson (R., Calif.) suggested impeachment proceedings be started after Representative Rivers (D., S. C.) told the House Waring has made "incendiary racial" speeches in several cities, including Washington and New York.

Representative Bryson (D., S. C.) of the House Judiciary Committee explained that "cognizance" has been taken of the conduct of the judge and said study of the matter is being made.

Waring is the judge whose 1947-48 orders opened the South Carolina Democratic primary voting and party to Negroes.

100 Believed Dead In Train Wreck; Over 200 Injured

Rio De Janeiro, April 6 (AP).—A little wood-burning passenger locomotive plunged through a bridge today and dragged perhaps 100 persons to death in the flooded Tangua Dos Indios River.

The police chief of Tangua said more than 200 were injured, 40 of them in wooden coaches which were jackknifed by the crash but stopped short of the river.

The train was jammed with persons who planned to spend the long Easter weekend at mountain resorts.

East Capitol St. Bridge Measure Passed by House

The House approved and sent to the Senate yesterday the bill to speed construction of a new bridge over the Anacostia River at East Capitol st.

The East Capitol st. bridge plan, center of a sharp dispute among official agencies, cleared the House without opposition when the bill was unexpectedly called to a vote by Representative James C. Davis (D., Ga.).

Choice of the East Capitol st. site for the next bridge crossing of the Anacostia was made by the District Commissioners against the wishes of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The planning agency wanted the bridge located at Massachusetts ave. se.

Jap Subs Attacked U. S. Coast Many Times, Ex-Skipper Says

Tokyo, April 6 (AP).—The former captain of a Japanese submarine says his and other submarines made numerous wartime trips to the United States Pacific Coast and used their airplanes and guns in attacks all the way from Alaska to Southern California.

The submarine veteran is Meiji Tagami, 47, now skipper of an American-owned ship operating between Yokohama, Guam and Okinawa.

Tagami was interviewed in the presence of Alfred E. Keith of Boston, superintendent of maintenance of the Tokyo ordnance center, and two Japanese former admirals.

He says his submarine, the I-25, and four others started the war by lying oustide Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, to watch for possible escaping American vessels.

The other submarines had brought in on their decks the midget submarines that penetrated Pearl Harbor.

Tagami said the submarine flotilla was ordered to chase an American aircraft carrier erroneously reported to have escaped from Pearl Harbor during the attack.

"All five went all the way to the United States coast," he declared. "The I-17 fired on California near San Pedro about December 20, 1941.

"My submarine lay outside the Golden Gate and we heard Christmas programs on the San Francisco radio stations."

In June, 1942, his submarine and the I-26 returned to America.

The captain said he surfaced at the mouth of the Columbia River and fired 17 rounds with his deck guns at what he believed was a submarine base at Fort Stevens. At the same time, he said, the I-26 fired on installations on Vancouver Island, Canada.

He said neither attracted return fire.

His third and last trip to America began August 15, 1942, when the I-25 sailed alone to the Oregon Coast.

"This time we carried special incendiary bombs . . ." he said. "We surfaced at dusk, and at dawn launched our plane on two flights inland about 25 miles. We were seven miles offshore. One flight was in the vicinity of Cape Blanco and the other about 25 miles south of there.

"The pilot dropped four bombs. He said one pair may have started a forest fire, and we were sure the second two did. We took the plane back aboard within view of a lighthouse."

On the return trip, Tagami said, he sank one of two United States submarines he spotted in daylight just below the Aleutians, and escaped from the other, which fired machine guns at his periscope.

Samuel Eliot Morison, American naval historian now in Japan, said planes from Japanese submarines made reconnaissance flights over Seattle in 1942 and over Hawaii in 1943, but Tagami had no news of these activities.

Organic Unity Sought

Lewis Accepts Murray's Plan To Attain Labor Cooperation

John L. Lewis gave his full backing yesterday to CIO President Philip Murray's proposal for establishment of a joint committee of all organized labor to act on economic, legislative and political issues.

The response of the United Mine Workers president was the first direct reply Murray has received to the suggestion which he directed to leaders representing the vast majority of American labor.

AFL President William Green said in New Orleans Wednesday that he will consult with Murray when he returns to Washington. President A. J. Hayes, of the International Association of Machinists, the world's biggest independent union, also was interested.

Murray also directed his proposal to the heads of the biggest railway brotherhoods.

Should the committee be established, it would be a big step toward merger of the country's big unions.

Lewis wrote Murray that the proposal would be referred to the UMW's executive board at an April 18 meeting. He said the union's executive officers will recommend that the board "authorize participation."

In offering his proposal, Murray said that a standing joint committee with power to "pursue a common program" for all labor is the only way to defeat "the powerful industrialists and their reactionary spokesmen in Congress."

Murray also recommended that the committee work to achieve the "organic unity" of all unions.

It was this latter suggestion in

Far Eastern Expert Charges Senator Is 'Willing Tool' of China Lobby in U. S.

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Senator Millard E. Tydings told Owen Lattimore yesterday that on the basis of a complete and detailed summary of its files, the FBI put him "completely . . . in the clear" of accusations that he was a Communist, a Russian spy or was connected with espionage in any way.

The flat statement from the Maryland Democrat, chairman of the special Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee investigating the charges of Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.), came at the end of a day-long session with Lattimore on the stand.

Tydings said his statement represented the "universal opinion" of the four members of the subcommittee that heard the FBI summary.

Lattimore Replies to Charges

Lattimore, whose testimony revealed why he rates as one of this country's greatest authorities on the Far East, had spent the day taking up each of McCarthy's charges against him, and each piece of evidence that McCarthy had adduced in their support.

Lattimore's discussion of them was directed to support his claim that the lot of them were "base and unfounded lies." McCarthy now knows his accusations are lies, Lattimore implied, and is getting a "bad case of weak knees" about them.

Then Lattimore went on the offensive himself. He presented evidence designed to show that the Wisconsin Republican is the "willing tool" and "simple dupe" of the China lobby in the United States, "regurgitating their own fantastic and discredited venom."

Statement by Tydings

When Lattimore finished his statement and a long cross-examination, mostly from Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), Tydings spoke up. He recalled McCarthy's accusations against the Johns Hopkins University professor, and said:

"We have been told that if we had access to certain files that this would be shown.

"I think, as chairman of this committee, that I owe it to you and to the country to tell you that four of the five members of this committee, in the presence of Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, had a complete summary of your files made available to them.

"Mr. Hoover himself prepared these data. It was quite lengthy.

"And at the conclusion of the reading of that summary in great detail, it was the universal opinion of all the members of the committee present and all others in the room, of which there were two

VA Suspends Medical Firings; Prepares to Expand Instead

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

The Veterans' Administration not only has suspended its plans for the lay-off of 4800 medical employes but it has set the stage for an expansion of its Department of Medicine and Surgery.

The agency, however, will follow through on its plans to fire 3000 administrative employes next week. Several hundred are in this city.

Administrator Carl R. Gray yesterday wired his key officials to suspend the medical firings. He did it after spending two days with the Senate Appropriations Committee. His order is reported to have the support of influential members of Congress who agreed to back his request for more funds to retain the medical staff.

At the same time, VA halted its plans to give 30-day layoff notices Saturday to 600 doctors, dentists and nurses. Most of the other 4200 medical employes had already been given notices and they would have gone off the payroll next week if Gray hadn't intervened.

Gray has asked the Budget Bureau for $2,190,000 to keep the 4800 medical employes on the payroll through the remainder of this fiscal year, a request said to have been given White House clearance.

In addition, Gray told the Senate Appropriations Committee that Congress will have to add about $17,000,000 to the VA budget to keep the 4800 employes on during the 1951 fiscal year which begins on July 1. Also, the committee was told, several new hospitals will be ready for use soon and more than 2000 additional employes will be required to staff them. So, instead of firing medical workers, VA may be hiring them.

In his testimony and in conferences with individual members of Congress, Gray is said to have absolved Congress of any responsibility for the planned medical firings. He and his staff assumed full responsibility for the announced personnel cutback which brought forth hot criticism from medical groups and members of Congress.

A year ago the Congress gave VA's medical department every penny it requested, and the 1951 budget now before the House specifically states that none of the reductions recommended should apply to the medical program. Furthermore, Congress voted a last-minute deficiency of nearly 25 millions before it adjourned last fall, and top VA officials promised at that time that no sizable layoff would be necessary during this fiscal year.

Dulles Named As Consultant To Acheson

Hatchet Is Buried By Truman in Calling Republican to Serve

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

President Truman buried a political hatchet yesterday by bringing John Foster Dulles back into the Administration as a consultant to Secretary Acheson.

The President and the Secretary enlisted Dulles, the foremost Republican authority on foreign affairs, in a frank attempt to restore and strengthen bipartisanship in foreign policy.

Dulles promptly accepted, saying it was his "duty" in view of the seriousness of the cold war with Russia and the need for national unity. He had been out of Administration counsels since running for the Senate in New York last fall, although he had been a delegate and an adviser at international conferences since 1945.

His appointment yesterday recalled President Truman's nonpartisan gesture in November, 1948, of making Dulles the acting head of the American delegation to the United Nations at Paris shortly after the presidential election. Dulles had served as adviser to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey during that campaign, and probably would have been Secretary of State if Dewey had won.

Lehman Not Objecting

Yesterday Dewey said in Albany that the Dulles appointment was a good thing for the country." Senator Herbert H. Lehman (D., N. Y.), who defeated Dulles in the free-swinging New York campaign last year, also issued a statement saying he had always urged nonpartisanship in foreign policy.

Lehman said he could not and did not object to Dulles' return to the State Department if the President and the Secretary thought it useful in the national interest. Acheson had consulted him about it by telephone earlier in the week.

The return of Dulles not only reopened a channel of State Department contact with the Republican Party, blocked in recent months by the illness of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.); it also gave Acheson new top-level help which he badly needed.

The Secretary now has three

All-Air War Game Set in Carolinas, Virginia April 22

Airline and private pilots, it was learned yesterday, have been warned to exercise "extreme caution" on all flights over the central Carolinas and parts of Virginia from April 22 to May 7.

They were told that this will be necessary lest they run afoul of 600 Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps planes which will "saturate" the area in the first completely airborne war games ever staged by the United States.

Jet fighters and bombers will fly daily to and from the maneuver area from Langley Field, Va., at prescribed altitudes in order to interfere as little as possible with scheduled airline traffic.

General Norstad has pictured the Carolina "airhead" as an island captured by airborne "aggressor" forces and to which "every fighting man and every pound of equipment and food" in the "liberating" force must be carried by air.

New, High-Content Uranium Deposit Found in Arizona

By The Associated Press

Three new types of uranium minerals with an extremely high content of the stuff that goes to make A-bombs have been discovered in Yavapai County, Arizona and it is hoped they will lead to larger deposits, it was announced yesterday.

The United States Geological Survey identified the minerals as Andersonite, Swartzite and Bayleyite. Survey geologists said they contained from 30 to 40 percent uranium. The Atomic Energy Commission will buy ore running as low as two-tenths of one percent uranium.

"The deposit is extremely small," the survey said. "But larger deposits may be found."

31 Nations Sign Pact on Status of World's Missing

Lake Success, April 6 (NYHT).—Thirty-one nations signed a pioneer world convention here today, aiming to provide for internationally recognized declarations of death of the 10 to 20 million persons missing as the result of World War II and persecutions then and since.

The agreement seeks to enable widows to remarry, heirs to get property and orphans to be adopted without any more legal controversy throughout the world.

John Maktos of the State Department signed for the United States, but emphasized the pact must be submitted to the Senate for ratification by a two-thirds majority.

Col. R. S. Chhatari of Pakistan said that perhaps one million persons have disappeared in Pakistan and India alone as a result of communal friction in the last two years.

Five-Point Program

Truman Asks Jobless Pay Rise, Coverage of 6 Million More

President Truman yesterday asked Congress to approve at this session a five-point program raising unemployment compensation benefits about 20 percent and extending them to an additional six million persons including civilian workers of the Federal Government.

Mr. Truman said in his 3500-word message that the need is urgent and the cost would be reasonable.

The President urged Congress to act this year because he said State Legislatures will have to enact their own laws to fit any new Federal requirements and most of the State law-making bodies will meet in 1951. The program would involve increased State appropriations.

The special message was dispatched here by courier plane from the "Little White House" in Key West, Fla., where the President is vacationing.

It calls for legislation to carry out recommendations Mr. Truman made in his State of the Union, budget and economic messages to Congress in January.

Once more Mr. Truman told the lawmakers the jobless should have benefits for 26 weeks, ranging up to $30 a week for single people and more for those with dependents. He said benefits averaged about $20 a week last year—"not enough to preserve a minimum standard of living."

Benefits now vary in the different States from $15 to $27 for

D. C. May Probe 1949 Gallinger Bill

The District Health Department was yesterday asked to investigate a 15-month-old bill for streptomycin supplies for Gallinger Hospital.

The bill, according to District Auditor A. R. Pilkerton, arrived Tuesday, asking $1184 for 200 vials of the drug which reportedly were furnished to the hospital on January 15, 1949.

Dr. Philip A. Stebbing, hospital superintendent, promptly explained that the unpaid bill was uncovered in the current special study of hospital supply records prompted by recent court testimony of lost letters, missing requisitions and a "shortage" of some 4000 vials of streptomycin at Gallinger.

The District auditor's complaint came in a letter to District Commissioner John Russell Young. Citing receipt of the long-delayed bill, the auditor wrote:

"It is useless for the auditor or the Commission to attempt to improve the accounting system for the District of Columbia if the heads of the department are allowed to operate the agencies on this basis."

Commissioner Young forwarded the complaint to Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, District health officer, whose department has been studying the hospital's accounting system.

Dr. Stebbing said that besides the drug bill, a few other minor unpaid bills have been found.

Huber's Idea

Soldier Home Purchase by U. S. Urged

An Ohio Congressman yesterday offered his "fair way" to solve the problems of Soldiers' Home.

The lawmaker, Representative Walter B. Huber, (D., Ohio), proposed that, instead of taking the land by present partitioning, the Government should buy it up, and help the soldiers move elsewhere.

His proposal to draft such enabling legislation follows recent action of the Army, General Services Administration, Veterans' Administration and the Bureau of the Budget in lopping 148 acres off the 460-odd acres of Soldiers' Home land.

Under the redevelopment plan, the District would get a 47-acre section as a site for its proposed 23-million-dollar Washington Medical Center, and Veterans' Administration would get 44 acres for a veterans hospital and another 39 acres to accommodate all VA activities handled here.

The Soldiers' Home, refuge for disabled and retired enlisted men, would be paid for the land taken, and be permitted to spend its own reserve fund towards a $13,500,000 building additions and improvement program.

Representative Huber said the partitioning plan is "probably in the public interest," but that the soldiers should be given more consideration. He proposed that several sites equal in size to their present tract be found for them, one close to Washington, and another in Arizona. The nearby one, he said, would be for those of the more than 1500 soldiers domiciled here who would not want to sever local ties.

House Passes Housing Measure With 4-Billion Fund Increase

The House approved without opposition yesterday an expansion of almost 4 billion dollars in the Federal housing program.

The measure provides special aids for veterans housing, including a new 150-million-dollar program of direct loans for former GIs.

Administration leaders expected Senate passage early next week to send the compromise legislation to President Truman. They expect, too, that the President will sign it although it is far from what he recommended.

The House stamped its final approval on the measure just before the members took off for a 12-day Easter holiday.

Before the compromise bill was worked out Wednesday by a House-Senate Conference Committee, however, both houses had rejected Mr. Truman's proposal for a two-billion-dollar co-op home building program for middle income families. However, the new bill provides special considerations for veteran housing co-ops.

The bill provides 2250 million dollars additional authority for the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) to carry on its program of insuring home mortgages.

U. S. Rejects Israel Request for Arms

By The Associated Press

The United States has tentatively rejected Israel's request for heavy American weapons such as artillery and tanks.

Informed Government officials said yesterday, however, there is still a possibility Israel may be allowed to buy light arms and perhaps some surplus Air Force jet fighters.

The National Defense Department has ruled, these officials said, that there are not enough heavy American weapons to meet the Israeli request and at the same time arm Western Europe and other Communist-threatened countries.

The Israeli government submitted a detailed request for American military aid to the State Department about three months ago. The new Jewish state said the military supplies were needed to bolster its defense and not for aggressive purposes.

The State and Defense Departments are now agreed, officials said, that it is more important to American foreign policy to send "high military potential" items such as 155 mm. howitzers to the Atlantic Pact countries.

Israel had requested howitzers, medium-range artillery, tanks and numerous other weapons of the type that are scheduled to be shipped under the one-million-dollar arms aid program to shore up the defenses of eight western European nations.

Even before deciding whether to allow Israel to purchase considerable amounts of light military supplies such as guns, ammunition and halftracks, officials said it probably will be necessary to request additional information from the Israeli government on the present state of its armed forces.

The Israeli government, for security reasons, until now has declined to furnish such data and has denied American officials access to Israeli military bases.

The United States in the past has allowed Israel to buy quantities of small American arms from private concerns on the assurance that they would be used for internal defense only.

Government officials familiar with the situation said these factors played a part in the rejection of the request for heavy equipment:

1. Israel has the most powerful military force in the Middle East at present.

2. In the opinion of American officials Israel is in no danger of attack from its Arab neighbors—even though Britain is suppliyng such countries as Egypt, Hasemite Jordan and Iraq with some military equipment.

The Israeli government and some American Congressmen have denounced Britain for sending arms to the Arabs. The State Department has taken the position that such shipments are small and intended only for internal security measures.

The Exact Instant—Marshall Mars Explodes . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Assoiated Press WIREPHOTO from Navy

Senate Committee Indorses Pace, Symington Nominations

Budget Director Frank Pace, jr., was approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee to be the new Army Secretary yesterday shortly after he testified he would deal "promptly and efficiently" with any subversives.

The committee also approved the nomination of Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington to be chairman of the National Security Resources Board which is responsible for defense planning.

Their nominations now go before the full Senate.

Pace told the Senators he is fully aware of the "world-wide conspiracy" directed from Moscow and assured them that "no pressure" could keep him from doing his duty.

The statement was prompted by an observation by Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) a bitter Administration critic, that there has been "a good deal of talk" about subversives and bad security risks.

"Personally, I believe 90 percent of the stuff is true," he added.

He then asked Pace if he expects to run the Army "without fear of pressure" to protect persons dubbed "security risks."

The nominee said that while he had no reason to believe any such pressure would be brought, it would have "no effect" if it were. He also pledged himself to continue to protect the "civil liberties" of Army personnel.

Retiring Army Secretary Gordon Gray, who will make a survey of Europe's probable post-Marshall Plan needs before assuming the presidency of the University of North Carolina, "earnestly" supported Pace's nomination.

Bridges said he thought Pace would be a "very able" secretary.

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) another sharp critic of many administration policies, said Republicans and Democrats alike could not have received Symington's nomination with "more respect and confidence."

Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.), Republican floor leader, added that he was "extraordinarily happy" to indorse Symington.

Symington said he has no business interests that could influence his judgments in purchasing commodities for strategic stockpiling—one of the principal jobs of the Resources Board.

U. S. Refuses to Return Fugitive Czech Fliers

Prague April 6 (AP).—The United States told Czechosolovakia today it will neither surrender eight crewmen who diverted three Czech domestic airline planes to west Germany March 24 nor punish American officials who questioned all aboard.

Demands of the Communist government for these American actions were rejected in notes from the United States Embassy.

The fliers who engineered the escape were described by the embassy as legitimate political refugees who have been given asylum in the United States zone of Germany "in accordance with humanitarian principles." The Czech government said they were wanted for kindapping and other crimes.

Of the 84 Czechs aboard the twin-engined planes, which landed unheralded at the United States air base at Erding, 26 in all decided to stay in Germany. The other 58 have returned to Czechoslovakia. They charged American officials used "Nazi Gestapo" methods in questioning them.

The planes will be released as soon as an investigation of all aspects of the case is completed, the embassy said.

The United States note pointed out several cases in which Czechoslovak police have held American citizens incommunicado for several days and in one instance—the arrest of two American Mormon missionaries—for more than four weeks before releasing them.

U. S. Rejects Envoy Charge

NYHT News Service

The United States rejected categorically yesterday the charge of the government of Guatemala that Ambassador Richard C. Patterson, jr., has interfered in Guatemalan domestic affairs.

The State Department served notice of the rejection on Dr. Antonio Goubaud-Carrera, the Guatemalan ambassador, in an interview with Thomas C. Mann, head of the Department's Middle American office.

Dr. Goubaud-Carrera had asked the department two weeks ago to recall Patterson on grounds the American ambassador had "intervened" in the touchy Guatemalan political life.

Rejection of the Guatemalan charge—which failed to cite instances or evidence—did not necessarily mean that Patterson will continue physically on the job in Guatemala. The ambassador came to the United States last week for a medical checkup. The State Department said that until his medical treatments have been concluded, the embassy in Guatemala will be headed by Milton K. Wells, charge d'affaires.

If Patterson's treatments are extended, it might enable him to retain the ambassadorship and to remain in this country. This would enable the State Department to protect United States' prestige in the case, and at the same time to avoid an unwanted diplomatic clash at a delicate moment.

Von Dachenhausen Put On Board of Assessors

District Commissioners yesterday named George A. Von Dachenhausen, a tax examiner in the assessor's office, to replace Kenneth W. Spencer on the board of real estate assessors. Spencer was recently appointed to the District Public Utilities Commission.

A District employe for nearly 20 years, Von Dachenhausen was promoted from a $4950- to a $6400-a-year job.

Nationalists Again Raid Chinese Coast

Taipei, Formosa, April 6 (AP).—A new Nationalist amphibious raid 20 miles from Red Shanghai was disclosed today by Chinese Nationalist headquarters.

It said the raiders stormed ashore near Nanhwei March 30, destroyed 200 Communist junks and captured 14, along with guns, grenades and other booty.

The raiders' intention was to forestall a Communist invasion of Chushan Island, main Nationalist sea and air base for the blockade of Red China. The landing was preceded by a sea battle in which 90 troop-laden Communist junks were sunk.

All signs point to early Communist attempts on Chushan, Quemay and another try at Hainan which is being strongly reinforced by troops from Formosa. Work on Formosan defenses was being speeded amid a general feeling that events were moving toward an imminent climax.

Republican Named Foreign Consultant

JOHN FOSTER DULLES

Dulles Named Acheson Aide

experienced advisers drawn from outside his department and free of administrative burdens. The other two, in addition to Dulles, are:

Philip C. Jessup, professor of international law at Columbia, who agreed at President Truman's request last week to stay as Ambassador-at-Large; and John Sherman Cooper, former Republican Senator from Kentucky who was sworn in last week as a consultant to the Secretary. Still other Republicans are expected to join the State Department before long, notably in the field of foreign economic policy.

Department's Statement

The State Department announced yesterday that Dulles would "advise Secretary Acheson on broad problems in the field of foreign affairs and on specific lines of action which this Government should follow."

"His work will not be confined to any specific area of the world," the statement said. "His broad background and wealth of experience qualify him for consideration of problems in Europe, the Far East and other areas of the world, as well as problems affecting the work of the United Nations.

"Mr. Dulles, whose cooperation has been extremely valuable to the department in the past, will assume his duties in about two weeks, after completing a brief vacation."

Dulles will have an office in the State Department, although his work may take him abroad for long periods as it did in past years. His salary as consultant will be at the rate of $11,000 a year. It had not been decided yesterday whether he would accompany the Secretary, with Jessup and Cooper, to the forthcoming meeting of the North Atlantic Council in London.

Sees "Grave Threat" by Soviet

At his home in New York, Dulles told reporters he had accepted his new post because the danger from the Soviet "threat" was as grave as "any we have ever faced in a shooting war."

"It is time," he declared, "to rally from a frustrating confusion that has its roots in mistakes of the past rather than in circumstances of the present.

"It is a time when all who love freedom, here and elsewhere, must find unity behind policies which rise above the ever-mounting level of the despotic danger.

"President Truman has recently confirmed to me that bipartisanship is the policy of the Administration and that partisan considerations will not, under any circumstances, influence his conduct of the foregin policy of the United States.

"Secretary Acheson in his recent California speeches discussed the nature of Soviet-American tensions in terms that were profound and enlightening and with which I am in full accord . . . Secretary Acheson tells me that the President and he believe that I can help them to find the policies and to achieve the unity we need.

"I feel that it is clearly my duty to respond."

Refers to Yalta Parley

He explained to reporters that in mentioning "mistakes of the past," he was referring especially to the decisions on China at the Yalta conference of 1945. He said one of the first things he would do in his new job would be to "start familiarizing myself with the status of the Japanese peace treaty; that has been shrouded in a great deal of mystery."

Asked whether he still intended to run for the Senate against Lehman for the full term in November, Dulles said no commitment on this point had been sought or given. He said circumstances next November might or might not lead him into another political campaign.

Dulles said he expected to meet daily with Acheson on policy matters, giving his advice and counsel.

He recalled that he had worked closely with four other Secretaries of State, but thought his new job "will be broader in scope than any position I've had before."

Ross Errors On Dulles Keep Capital Dizzy

Reporters and officials in the capital were still dizzy last night from a series of apparent fumbles and bumbles by Press Secretary Charles K. Ross and others in the President's entourage at the winter White House.

Late Wednesday night reporters at Key West, Fla., asked Ross about stories that John Foster Dulles was about to be appointed Ambassador-at-large. "It is not so," said Ross, and reporters took this to be a flat denial.

Yesterday Ross explained that he was only denying the Dulles appointment as Ambassador at Large; the appointment, made yesterday morning, was really as a consultant to Secretary Acheson. The reporters were told next that Philip C. Jessup's post as Ambassador at Large was still open, and that the President was still trying to find a "successor."

This, too, required hurried telephone calls from the State Department to Key West, since Jessup is still Ambassador at large, nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Last night the State Department issued a statement intended to clarify Jessup's status.

It said, with the President's concurrence, that Jessup was "Ambassador at large for the time being" but that the question of a successor "is under consideration."

This did not explain whether (1) Jessup intended to go back to his teaching post at Columbia University after a few weeks, or (2) he would be shifted from his present post as Ambassador at large to take Dean Rusk's former job as Deputy Undersecretary of State.

Reporters trying to keep their box score, chalked it up as no hits, no runs and at least three errors.

Foster-Parents Lose Custody Of Child Actress

Hollywood, April 6 (U.P.).—Mr. and Mrs. Otto Michel lost custody today of their foster-daughter, 9-year-old Actress Lora Lee Michel, when a judge decided she needed a new environment to make her a normal child.

After a brief hearing in Juvenile Hall Superior Judge A. A. Scott made Lora Lee a ward of the court. He said she would be placed with a well-adjusted family to give her a normal home life.

Her foster-mother, Mrs. Lorraine Michel, 55, was acquitted last month of charges she mistreated the girl and kept her on a sub-standard diet to keep her small for $100-a-day movie roles.

Judge Scott said he believed Lora Lee, adopted by the Michels in Texas five years ago, needed a new environment to repair damage done by "the glamor world of the movies."

Uneasy Truce Follows Revolt in Makassar

Jakarta, Java USI, April 6 (AP).—An uneasy truce prevailed in the East Indonesian capital of Makassar today. Rebel troops still held the port and the next move apparently was up to the federal government.

Capt. Andi Abdul Aziz, leader of the revolt in which 15 federal soldiers were killed in a 45-minute clash yesterday, defied a summons to come to Jakarta to "report," dispatching a written memorandum instead.

Premier Diapari of the East Indonesian State government in the Celebes also failed to heed a similar summons. Instead, he sent his minister of information, W. J. Ratulangi.

Lieut. Co. A Makoginta, commander of the Federal forces in Makassar, was the only one of three officials summoned to Jakarta who returned on the special plane sent for them. Mokoginta was a prisoner for a time of the 150 rebels, but was released.

Ratulangi said the State government condemned the action of the rebels. He said both State police and the forces of Aziz were in Makassar, but were not cooperating.

Premier Diapari offered to resign but State President Sukawati refused to accept.

A ship with 900 Federal soldiers aboard was still halted 24 miles off Makassar, awaiting instructions. Dispatch of the troop as an occupation force in East Indonesia sparked the revolt.

Brooke's Arrival In D. C. Peaceful

After a stormy reception by cat-calling pickets in New York, Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, was greeted peaceably at National Airport yesterday by the British Ambassador.

Brooke

On his arrival at Idlewild Airport at 2:30 p.m., about 200 Irish-Americans booed and denounced the Ulsterman as a "race-hater and bigot."

They were surrounded by a heavy detail of police and State Department security agents as they loudly protested Sir Basil's defense of Irish partition.

The pickets, many of whom had waited since 5 a. m., were members of several Irish-American groups. They wore red, white and blue armbands and carried posters with such inscriptions as: "There will always be an England while we can deal from the bottom," "Race-hater and bigot—get out," and "Sir Basil Brooke, the 1950 Hitler."

When the minister's chartered plane reached National Airport at 4:24 p. m., standing by were the British Ambassador, Sir Oliver Franks, and his wife, to greet Sir Basil and Mrs. Brooke. A half dozen State Department security officers, two city detectives and two policemen were ready to protect the party.

There was no disturbance, and the visitors went to the British Embassy for a quiet dinner with the Ambassador, Mrs. Franks and a few guests.

He will spend the weekend "sightseeing," a spokesman said, after he presents a memorial to the Defense Department today at 3:45 p. m., commemorating the first American troops to land in Europe during World War II.

Sir Basil told reporters in New York he hopes to visit with servicemen who stayed in Northern Ireland. He will go to Canada May 11 for a fishing trip, returning home June 16.

About the New York demonstration, he said, "As in my country, this country is quite free and the people are free to speak as they like."

Buckeystown Priest Offers House Prayer

A Maryland priest yesterday offered the opening prayer in the House of Representatives in an observance of Pan American Day.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph F. Thorning of Buckeystown, Md., prayed for the safe arrival here April 12 of President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla of Chile.

Tomb Yields Eggs Hidden 50 Centuries

Cairo, April 8 (U.P.).—Egyptian archeologists scored early in the Easter egg hunt today by uncovering two eggs which probably were hidden 5000 years ago.

The discovery was made in unearthing ancient Egyptian tombs at Helwan, 15 miles south of Cairo.

The tombs yesterday yielded six bodies buried for at least 50 centuries.

Archeologist Zaki Saad carefully picked up the pair of eggs from a casket containing the skeleton of a bird.

"I never heard of eggs being found before in such archeological excavations," he said.

The eggs were not discolored and "looked like new." They were small, like all Egyptian hens' eggs. The bird skeleton, however, resembled that of a falcon.

Near the bird casket Zaki uncovered the bones of two dogs. Earlier he had found Monkay graves. These were discovered close to the grave where archeologists found a man's body wrapped in a piece of fiber matting with grass rope wound around the matting to keep the body and the matting together.

The matting and the rope had remained intact for 5000 years of burial in the sand.

In the same grave archeologists found earthen jars filled with food. The contents long since had disintegrated, but traces remained.

In another grave archeologists detected evidence of an old-time robbery. The grave belonged to the Second Dynasty, a later period. It was made of great slabs of limestone measuring about 12 feet long and 6 feet wide and about 18 inches thick. But the grave was empty.

Zaki said he believed that after two unsuccessful attempts grave robbers managed to break in and ransack the contents.

The plunderers had left nothing in the graves except some flint knives and beads.

Good Friday services in Christian churches today will recall Christ's three-hour agony on the cross at Calvary.

Business firms and Government agencies have been asked by the Committee for the Three Hours Observance of Good Friday to allow their employes time off to attend religious services. Some stores will be closed.

Policemen have been asked to give special consideration to those attending the three-hour rites. They were requested not to give overtime parking tickets to persons parked near the churches while attending services.

Yesterday was Maundy Thursday, the anniversary of Christ's Last Supper with the Disciples.

In Protestant churches special services of Holy Communion were held. At Roman Catholic churches, the Blessed Sacrament was placed on an altar of repose aside from the main altar, where it remained throughout the day and night and was visited by faithful Catholics.

Noon Rites for Military

In addition to church services today, there will be rites at noon at the military installations in the area and at the Pentagon Building, Navy Annex and Department of the Interior auditorium.

Frigid Weather Forecast Here

Tidewater; 25 in the Great Valley, and 20 in mountainous regions.

Seventeen degrees was forecast in low valleys around Hancock, Md., but experts at the Orchard Experiment Station there believed damage would not be great since peach trees "are just beginning to show pink."

The Weather Bureau said it would be "impracticable" to set out smudge pots before early morning since winds are due to reach 20 and 25 miles an hour before daylight.

On the 3000-acre orchard of R. S. Dillon at Hancock, experimenters planned to try a defroster that uses an airplane engine complete with propeller. Mounted on a truck, the device is designed to drag down warm air above the trees and spread it over the blossoms. Smudge pots will be used in conjunction with the engine.

The same cold weather—due to frigid air from the Hudson Bay region in Canada—covered an area from the Western Plains states to the Atlantic Coast yesterday. In northern New Hampshire, several communities threatened by swollen rivers hoped the cold weather would ease the threat.

Patrick Henry Stamp Requested by Burton

Representative Burton (D., Va.), introduced a bill yesterday providing for the issuance of a special postage stamp in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the death of Patrick Henry.

The stamp would be placed on sale at Brookneal, Va., a day before it is made available to the public elsewhere.

ICC Upholds Arnold Fare Rise of 5 Cents

Passengers traveling the Arnold Bus Lines between the District and nearby Virginia soon will be paying five cents more on each cash fare.

A five-cent increase on most interstate cash fares, recommended last February by Interstate Commerce Commission Examiner J. J. Williams, was upheld yesterday by the full ICC.

The fare boost was suspended after the examiner's decision when the Arlington County Board filed an exception to the ruling.

Passengers on the line, officially the Washington, Maryland and Virginia Coach Co., will begin paying higher fares upon at least one day's notice from the company. The boost will probably be effective no later than Monday, it was indicated.

The increase applies to cash fares between Washington and zones one through five, where fares now range from 15 to 35 cents.

In addition, tokens will be 6 for $1, instead of 8 for $1.

However, the commission agreed with the examiner that fares between the District and zone six, which includes the towns of Fairfax and Oakton via Chain Bridge rd., should remain at their current 40-cent rate.

Yesterday's ruling does not affect the present 10-cent rate between the District and the Pentagon, Navy Arlington Annex, and Arlington Farms.

Nor does it change current intrastate fares. A hearing on the company's request for a 5-cent increase within the State will be held in Richmond at 10 a. m. next Monday by the State Corporation Commission.

Yesterday's report was signed by ICC Commissioners Clyde B. Aitchison and J. Haden Alldredge, with Commissioner Walter M. W. Splawn dissenting.

The majority agreed with the bus company that the fare increase was necessary to pay a recent wage award to meployes, provide additional needed employes, pay some company officials now serving without pay, and provide a return on investment to stockholders.

desire "to appear as an advocate either for or against the President's plan." He accepted the Senate committee's bid, Denham explained "to clarify certain matters of fact" which have come up in the hearings.

Says Board Caused Jitters

The general counsel charged the board—which unanimously favors Plan No. 12—gave thousands of small employers the jitters because it failed to establish a clear-cut policy as to what businesses come under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The NLRB had no one policy on this matter, Denham asserted, but many policies inconsistent with one another, and changing from month to month. He suggested Congress could help by defining as precisely as possible the area within which the board must and must not assert Federal jurisdiction over cases.

Denham charged that in at least one instance the board has ignored a decision of the Supreme Court.

Under questioning by Senator Humphrey and Senator Irving M. Ives (R., N. Y.), Denham maintained he never failed to cooperate with the board, even though he was at times reluctant to do so because he felt the board's ruling was wrong.

The general counsel agreed with his interrogators that he had the nonappealable power to determine which complaints of unfair practices to prosecute, but he insisted he had never taken an arbitrary or capricious position in this matter. He suggested that the District Courts be authorized to decide whether or not the general counsel's ruling against accepting a complaint was arbitrary.

"No Czar," Says Herzog

Earlier, NLRB Chairman Paul M. Herzog presented—as he had previously before the House Committee—the board's unanimous support for the President's plan.

Herzog took sharp issue with Senator Taft, who has testified that Plan 12 would make the NLRB chairman "twice the czar" the general counsel has been alleged to be. He gets none of the general counsel's policy-making powers, Herzok argued; these go to the board. He only gets the administrative and bookkeeping functions of the general counsel, Herzog contended.

"If we thought otherwise, neither my collegues nor I would be here today to support the President's plan," Herzog said. "Having seen what we have of one-man-rule, we would be the last to want to see it perpetuated in any form."

Paul Styles, of Atlanta, newest member of the board, who came up through the ranks, and Frederick J. Lawson, assistant director of the Budget, testified in favor of the plan. Bethel B. Kelly, of the Board of Commerce, and Theodore R. Iserman, labor relations and counsellor credited with having helped write the Taft-Hartley Act, testified against the proposals.

single persons and coverage extends from 12 to 26 weeks.

Mr. Truman told Congress that when weekly benefits are raised, unemployment insurance taxes should be applied to a greater portion of a worker's pay because wage levels have gone up.

The amount of the annual wage subject to tax should be raised from $3000 to $4800, the President said.

The over-all amount of this tax ranges up to 3 percent of covered payrolls. Of the 3 percent, the Federal Government gets three tenths of 1 percent. The States get the remainder, ranging up to 2.7 percent, depending on each State's laws. In many States the tax is lower than the 2.7 percent.

House Democratic leader McCormack introduced legislation to carry out the program.

Employers generally pay the tax, but there is an exception in two States, where employes also are called to pay small portions. Some States also have merit reduction plans whereby employers who have excellent ratings for maintaining a standard level of employment numerically get reductions or rebates from the States in recognition of their records. The States were given wide latitude in making their own laws to complement the Federal statute.

Mr. Truman made these recommendations:

1. Extending coverage to an extra six million workers, including employes of small firms, civilian employes of the Government, some 200,000 industrial workers connected with agriculture, and some 500,000 people employed on a commission basis.
2. Establishing Nation-wide minimum levels for amounts and duration of unemployment benefits to correct their "inadequacy."
3. Adequate methods to provide benefits for workers who move from one State to another.
4. Revision and improvement of Federal laws, and State laws, too, covering fraud and disqualifications.
5. Improvements in the financing of unemployment insurance, partly to help States whose funds are threatened with exhaustion. At present, Rhode Island and Massachusetts are nearest the bottom of the barrel.

The President estimated if his recommendations for more coverage, higher benefits and longer duration had been in effect last year, benefit payments would have been 850 million dollars larger.

posed scale is said to be identical for similar jobs with the new wage level approved recently at the Government Printing Office.

However, a number of C-M employes are dissatisfied with their new ratings and their proposed pay and hearings on the proposed scale will begin Tuesday before the Treasury wage board.

The C-M employes were taken out of the Classification Act and placed under the Treasury board for salary-fixing purposes. Classifications and pay rates were changed for all employes involved in the process. Unhappy employes are urged to appeal while they have the opportunity.

CAPITOL HILL: Subcommittees of the Senate Postoffice and Civil Service Committee yesterday failed to take action on: (1) the bill to give World War II veterans in the postal service credit toward automatic promotions for time served in the military forces; (2) the bill to boost the salaries of postmasters and supervisors, and (3) the bill to limit apprentice jobs in Government to veterans.

NOTES: At State, longevity promotions have been given to Flora L. Parker, Elma V. Waldron, Minnie Mahler, Esther C. Janson and Rebecca del Davidson. Also, Mary A. Fuerst has retired after [illegible] years of service . . . James G. Laden will run for reelection as president of the AFL's American Federation of Government Employes . . . At Interior, William F. Kubach is retiring as comptroller of the Reclamation Bureau and W. Darlington Denit is in line to succeed him.

New York, April 6 (U.P.).—A census taker was arrested today and charged with stealing a check from a mailbox while taking the census. Julius Wilson, 27, was accused of trying to cash a tax refund check for $200.82 which he took from an apartment house mailbox.

CHARLES BINAGGIO — CHARLIE GARGOTTA

Gargotta, his right-hand man who had lifted himself up by muscle and violence.

Only last February Miss Blanche Howard, a county employe and close friend of Gargotta, was cited for contempt in giving allegedly evasive answers to the grand jury. Her testimony showed she had banked or spent around $50,000 in the last four years, although her weekly salary averaged $35 to $40.

When she had emerged weeping from the grand jury room, both Binaggio and Gargotta hovered around. It was Binaggio who helped her out of the Federal building and his driver and bodyguard, Nick Penna, drove her away.

Some police detectives expressed the belief out-of-town gangsters might have done the double murder because "no one in Kansas City is tough enough or brave enough to pull such a job."

Other detectives discounted the theory, saying they were sure neither Binaggio or Gargotta would be talking to strangers at night without protection nearby and that it was doubtful if either would let a stranger get behind him.

Governor Smith called on four law enforcement agencies today to end gang killings in Kansas City.

"Gang killings must be stopped in Kansas City," the Governor said in a telegram to J. L. Milligan, president of the Kansas City Police Board. In Missouri the Governor appoints police boards in major cities and he technically controls the police departments.

Smith also ordered Col. Davis Harrison, head of the State Highway Patrol, to take direct charge of the case under his, the Governor's direction. Smith also called on the FBI and the attorney general's office to help.

Binaggio frequently visited the State capitol and the Governor. Once Gargotta accompanied him. On most of the trips he was evasive about what he was doing. He frequently called at the Governor's office. He generally entered by the front door and left by a rear one. Recently a newsman saw Binaggio leaving by the back door and this caused Smith to order better security on the dapper Northside politician's visits.

The Kansas City Star said the slaying of Binaggio likely would materially change the Democratic alignment here. It said it could mean a get-together of warring factions as represented by the Pendergast organization and Binaggio's North Side group.

"It is known that an approach was made recently through a representative of the North Side faction with those in the Pendergast organization looking toward getting together," the newspaper reported. "It did not get any place. The feeling between Jim Pendergast and Binaggio was sharp and it has been no secret that Pendergast would not deal with Binaggio, who formerly worked with the Pendergast group."

Binaggio's bid for political expansion began in 1944 when he supported Truman's close friend, the late Mayor Roger T. Sermon of Independence, for Governor and failed. He was back two years later with a show of power but it also brought Federal and county grand jury indictments. Then the ballot boxes were stolen from the election board's vault in the courthouse and that ended that.

Today's slayings brought to 19 the number of unsolved slayings here in the last five years. Some of the victims had had no gangland connections; others were on the fringe of the underworld.

A special county grand jury tried a year ago to bring about a solution of some of them. It was called soon after Wolf Rimann, golf club manager with coin machine and liquor interests, was shot down in a brazen mid-day spot killing on a downtown street.

But even though high rewards were offered and witnesses promised secrecy, the jury quit without enough evidence to return an indictment in any of the cases.

Rep. Short Links Killings to Senate Race

to link the double slaying with Democratic Party politics, it was far from clear that the deaths were directly connected with politics.

One Democrat, who declined to be quoted, said he felt the slayings were the result of Binnagio's failure to "deliver" on promises to "open up" either Kansas City or the State of Missouri to interstate syndicate operators. He indicated Binaggio was their man, as has often been charged, and that he was murdered for getting too deep into politics and not paying enough attention to his main "job."

That Binaggio was a figure of importance in Democratic politics was generally admitted although he was reported to have been losing his grip, or to have already lost it, as a result of a Federal grand jury investigation in Kansas City. The Justice Department announced last night the investigation will continue. Both slain men testified several times, the last time in February.

One of the big thrills of Binaggio's life, certainly, must have been the night of September 29, 1949, when he attended a dinner in honor of William M. (Bill) Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Binaggio was a member of the executive committee which sponsored the dinner for Boyle, a native of Kansas City. The tremendous feast was held in the Kansas City Municipal Auditorium.

The gangster-politician was late arriving at the auditorium, and for good reason. He had been testifying before a grand jury, which, on President Truman's orders, was inquiring into charges of a link between politics and the underworld.

Binaggio, at the dinner, sat almost directly across from Attorney General J. Howard McGrath. Other high-ranking Administration officials were all around him. Up on the stage were President Truman, Vice President Barkley, and the hero of the evening, "Bill" Boyle.

Attorney General McGrath and the others from Washington obviously did not know Binaggio. It was pointed out, too, that the Boyle dinner was pretty much a civic undertaking, attended by at least some Republican friends of Boyle.

Representative Short's speech on the House floor attempted to weave a close connection between the slaying and Democratic politics.

Short said he had been reliably informed that Binaggio was backing Tom Hennings, one time Congressman, for the Senate seat of Senator Donnell in this fall's election. Short said the Pendergast organization, which first made Harry S. Truman a national political figure by backing him for the Senate, was behind State senator Emory Allison.

"Mr. Binaggio was in the way," said Short. "So, what happened? He was bumped off."

When his speaking time ran out, Short was given an additional 30 minutes by Representative Cannon (D., Mo.). At this Short commented.

"You are hoping you will give me enough rope to hang myself. I think I have unravelled enough rope to hang it onto you guys this coming November."

Police Crash 'Tea' Party, Arrest Three

The cold tea business was altogether too good at the Mai Fong restaurant, 717 H st. nw., according to Capt. Howard Covell of the First Police Precinct.

As a result, three persons were jailed early yesterday after a raid on the place, and are free on $500 bond each awaiting a jury trial April 24.

The three defendants were booked as Tse Jow, 56, the alleged proprietor; Hazel H. Henderson, 38, 242 34th st. ne., a waitress; and Jimmy Soohoo, 25, of Alexandria. The three are charged with keeping and selling whisky without a license.

Capt. Covell said an under-cover man had made buys in the place recently. The method, he said, was for a "customer" to buy a cup of cold tea for 50 cents. That made him eligible Covell said, to buy a pint of whisky for $3.

Lieut. David McCutcheon, with four other policemen, armed with a search warrant, raided the place at 1:30 a. m., arrested the trio, and confiscated several bottles of whisky. Date for the jury trial was set when the defendants were arraigned in Municipal Court.

Lewis Backs Murray Plan

particular which was said to have intrigued Green. The CIO frequently has proposed joint action for political purposes, but the AFL has stated that "organic unity" must precede any other common action.

It has been six years since any big effort was made toward a merger of the AFL and CIO. The discussions have bogged down over who were to be top officers in any merger setup.

But Green said he thought the time was ripe for unification because of changes in the international situation, a change in the feeling of union members toward unity and the CIO's purge of Communists.

The latest "unity bid" in the labor field came from Lewis. He recently suggested to Murray that the UMW and the CIO United Steelworkers Union, which Murray also heads, draft a mutual aid treaty for "common defense."

8-Month to 2-Year Term Given Voisine

Former Mayor William W. Voisine of Ecorse, Mich., yesterday was sentenced to eight months to two years in the federal prison in Milan, Mich., for perjury before a Congressional committee.

He was convicted Monday on a charge that he falsely told a House investigating subcommittee in 1948 that he did not take overpayments for steel in the shortage days after the war. The committee was looking into the gray market sales of steel.

The 52-year-old Voisine was the owner of the Wayne Sheet Steel Company.

Four government witnesses testified they made secret payments totaling $325,000 to the one-time mayor or to Edward C. Sauve, a business associate.

Voisine was convicted under a District of Columbia statute which carries a penalty of two to 10 years for conviction.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff told a reporter that Congress, in passing a law setting up indeterminate sentences, gave judges power in effect to lessen the minimum sentences.

The maximum sentence, he said, could not be less than the minimum provided by the statute involved, or as in this case, two years. The minimum, he added, could not be less than one-third of the two-year statutory minimum, or 8 months.

$1000 Bond Each

2 Men Held On Charge of TV Theft

Two men were held yesterday under $1000 bond each for grand jury action on a grand larceny growing out of alleged theft of television sets. The charge covers theft of one set.

The defendants are Louis T. Sedgewick, 41, of 609 Lamont st. nw., shipping clerk for the Joseph M. Zamoiski Co., 2122 24th pl. ne., and Willie A. Grubbs, 37, of 904 Hamlin st. ne., former driver for an express company.

Police said that since 1948 Sedgewick has juggled inventories of the Zamoiski firm to cover shortages of at least five television sets, and then sold them through Grubbs. Sedgewick has denied the charges, police said, but Grubbs admitted them and said he and Sedgewick realized $1000 through the sales. They were arraigned in Municipal Court where bond was set and they were ordered held.

Woman Wins Dismissal in Larceny Case

A larceny indictment against a Brookeville, Md., woman was dismissed in Montgomery County Circuit Court yesterday after her attorney argued it placed her in double jeopardy.

The woman, Miss Margaret D. D'Ana, 29, was indicted on information by Murray Pfeferman, of 203 East Indian Spring dr. Silver Spring, that she had removed a quantity of fixtures from a home she traded him in a transaction for the Brookville farm where she now lives.

The indictment was dismissed by Judge Stedman Prescott after Miss D'Ana's attorney, Barnard T. Welsh, pointed out that a case covering the same charge is now pending before the Silver Spring Police Court.

In Police Court, Pfeferman charged last month that Mrs. D'Ana had removed a medicine cabinet and kitchen cabinet from the house at 203 Garwood st., Silver Spring, after completion of the real estate deal.

Judge William Wheeler reduced the charge from larceny to theft, but reserved his verdict pending further investigation. He said yesterday he is not determined whether the taking of the fixtures constituted larceny by the woman.

Deferred Posting Statute Offered In House Measure

Representative Sid Simpson (R., Ill.) yesterday introduced a bill to give District banks the benefit of a nationally recognized deferred posting statute.

It lets the transactions of one day be finally posted in the banks' books during the next day. It gives the banks 24 hours leeway in which to revoke acceptance of checks.

Simpson said he introduced the bill at the request of Francis G. Addison, jr., representing the District Bankers' Association. Addison said the legislation is recommended by the American Bankers Association and has the indorsement of the District Bankers' Association.

Addison said the proposed District law is similar to those in 41 States. He said the deferred posting plan is also recognized in Federal Reserbe Board regulations.

The bill was referred to the House District committee of which Representative Simpson is ranking Republican member.

Myers' Trial Recessed A Day

Illness of Defense Attorney James J. Laughlin yesterday postponed the abortion death trial of Ralph W. Myers until 9:45 a. m. today in District Court.

Myers is charged with performing the abortion that killed Mrs. Nina Jean Campell, 20-year-old mother of two, on January 4.

Senility Begins at 30, Psychologists Report

London, April 6 (AP).—Senility—old age, to you—begins at 30.

That's the finding of a study of age and dexterity by the applied psychology unit at Cambridge University and reported today in the British Medical Journal.

"The laboratory does not suggest that foolishness begins to arrive at 30, but it does suggest that after that age the faint shadows of senility are approaching," the report said.

Card Game Slayer Gets 15 Years to Life

Hazel Cunningham, 25, 1021 New Jersey ave. nw., yesterday was sentenced to serve 15 years to life for the second-degree murder of Catherine C. Morrow, 24, 1216 U st. nw., on December 10. The latter was fatally shot during a card game argument.

Eddie E. Poe, 33, 1742 8th st. nw., was sentenced to serve 5 to 15 years in jail for manslaughter in the fatal beating of his common-law wife, Aretha Flowers, 30, August 7.

District Court Judge Alexander Holtzoff meted out both sentences.

Judge F. Dickinson Letts sentenced two men to prison for violations of the Harrison Narcotics Act.

Oscar Bryant, 38, 618 S st. nw., was sentenced to serve from 28 months to seven years on two counts of illegal possession of heroin hydrochloride. On the same charges Joseph S. Beard, 38, 75 Pierce st. nw., was sentenced to serve from 16 months to four years.

The "weekend burglar" of Woodward and Lothrop, Joseph G. Albert jr., 28, Seattle, Washington, was given a one to three years sentence by Judge James W. Morris. Albert was charged with stealing $2716 worth of goods from the store when he spent the weekend of February 25 inside the store.

Judge T. Alan Goldsborough suspended a sentence of 20 to 60 months against Leola M. James, 32, 1127 G st. ne., on charges of aborting a 35-year-old divorcee last November.

But the judge told Mrs. James "You are going to have to account for your horrible sin when you reach the white gates of Heaven."

Line to a Fisherman

If you're casting about to improve your catch—here's an angle:

Have the wife cook your fish in Sauterne wine. Then serve it with glasses of Sauterne, well-chilled... and see how guests go hook, line and sinker for wine-and-fish.

There's no catch to the cost, either. Sauterne wines of California cost only a few cents a glass. So reel in a few bottles, soon.

U. S. GOVT. GRADING IS FOR YOUR PROTECTION!

Grading is done by experts who look inside each egg with a strong light and compare what they see with government standards. Eggs that meet the standards are labeled Grade A, Grade B, and so on. Eggs whose quality does not measure up are discarded. Grading is your most reliable guide to quality.

Every egg we sell is graded. And to protect their quality we take special care to keep them cool. That's why you will find eggs in the refrigerator at the store.

Grading plus special care means you can be sure of quality eggs every time at Safeway. Try them.

Perry Loses Move to Bar Ex-Wife's Suit

District Court Judge Edward A. Tamm yesterday denied a motion by Leslie S. Perry, legislative agent for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to restrain his first wife from suing his present wife, the former Ruth Weyand, NLRB attorney.

The decision paves the way for litigation brought by Mrs. Olive J. Perry against the present Mrs. Perry for alienation of affections and criminal conversation.

Judge Tamm held that an agreement between Perry and his first wife did not govern her right to proceed against the present Mrs. Perry.

Col. Tilley Court-Martial Is Continued

A hearing of defense arguments in the court martial of Col. Ralph C. Tilley, accused of bigamy and harboring an alien, was continued to May 1 at Fort Myer yesterday.

The delay was granted by Brig. Gen. Robert W. Brown, law officer of the court, on a defense motion. The Pentagon colonel's lawyer, George J. Banigan, said five depositione needed as defense exhibits have not yet arrived from La Stezia, Italy, home of the woman Tilley is accused of marrying bigamously.

Before granting the motion for delay, Brown overruled another defense motion that the colonel be acquitted on both counts on which he is accused. Banigan, a New York attorney, contended the prosecution had not proved its case in arguments heard last November.

The colonel, charged under the 95th and 96th articles of war, is accused of marrying an Italian girl, Jonilde Bruno, while serving overseas, although he already had a wife in this country. He also is accused of bringing her unlawfully to this country.

Colonel Tilley is now living with his first wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Louis Tilley, in Falls Church. The Italian woman he is accused of marrying is living at Boyd's Md., with her 18-month-old son.

Four Policemen Up on Charges Before Trial Board

Four police privates will face a departmental trial board at 10 a. m. today on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer.

The four are John Roy, now of the Eleventh Precinct; Burtell M. Jefferson, now of the Ninth Precinct; Daniel R. Gonzales, now of the Fourteenth Precinct, and Joseph D. Thornton, now of the Tenth Precinct.

The charges arose out of a fracas in the Fifth Precinct station early on March 13, after Private Roy, with Private Jefferson as a passenger, was picked up for speeding. Both were off duty and in civilian clothes. Private Roy still faces the speeding charge, scheduled for hearing in Municipal Court on April 20. All four were suspended after the fracas, but the next day were restored to duty and transferred to other stations.

447 Deaths Reported In Smallpox Epidemic

Rangoon, April 6 (U.P.)—Authorities said today that 447 persons had died in a smallpox epidemic that has raged for five months in Burma. They said the epidemic was now under control.

Mother Bears Son, Hikes to Doctor

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

MRS. JOYCE CHAPMAN, 17-year-old Oroville, Calif., housewife, bore a son unassisted, then wrapped the 3-pound 6-ounce child in a mackinaw and walked more than a mile to a doctor. She left a note for her husband, Jack, 22, a miner, before the hike through the hills. Mrs. Chapman said she was listening to a radio program on painless childbirth when "all of a sudden I felt my child move—I heard a cry and there he was."

It was her first child

A retired Washington realtor left his son a life income of $200 a month, in a will filed for probate yesterday, and more if he "is deserving and gainfully employed." The estate was valued at $151,916.

Albert C. Thorn, who died March 9 at 71, provided that after his son's death, the estate shall be divided equally between the D. C. division of the American Cancer Society, the D. C. chapter of the American Red Cross, the D. C. Tuberculosis Association, the warden and vestry of the Epiphany Parish, St. Joseph's Home and Orphan Asylum and the Little Sisters of the Poor.

The will filed in District Court provided $200 a month and hospitalization costs to Albert C. Thorn, jr., 3603 Brandywyne st. nw.

The will directed the trustees to pay to the son the balance of the estate income, in excess of $200 a month, only "if my said son is deserving and is gainfully employed."

College Group to Give Temperance Pageant

The 2½-hour program, including a cast of 70, will be sponsored by the Washington Missionary College chapter of the American Temperance Society. Principal speaker on the program will be John A. Buckwalter, editor of "Listen," a temperance magazine of the Seventh-day Advantist Church.

Youth Surrenders On Speeding Charge

A youth, who police said led them a merry 20-mile chase last August at speeds of more than 70 miles an hour and then escaped, surrendered yesterday to Prince Georges County police in Hyattsville.

The driver, 18-year-old Marvin F. "Snooky" Dodson of 4319 48th st., Brentwood, Md., was freed on $1000 bond for a hearing April 13. He will be tried on charges of exceeding 70 miles an hour, turning out lights to avoid arrest, driving on a revoked permit and failing to obey lawful orders of a police officer.

Police said Dodson operated a "souped up" 1935 touring car during the wild chase.

Streetcar Passenger Injured in Collision

One person was slightly injured early yesterday in a collision between a truck and a Capital Transit streetcar at Rhode Island ave. and Wallace pl. ne.

Treated at Leland Memorial Hospital and released was Eugene Bay. 31, 6611 Patterson st., Riverdale. one of 32 passengers on the street car. Police said the accident occurred when the truck, operated Oscar I. Crump, 33, of Muirkirk Md., made a left turn in front of the street car, operated by John J. McKenna, 25, of 1344 Bryant st. ne.

Physician Faces 4 Suits In Auto Case

Four suits, totaling $155,000, have been filed against Dr. Robert R. Morris, director of the Montgomery County Mental Hygiene Clinic, for damages arising from a four-car crash that caused the death of a 17-year-old girl.

The 34-year-old psychiatrist was found guilty of reckless driving in the case Wednesday by a Montgomery County Circuit Court jury. He was freed on other charges—manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident. The crash occurred last April.

Morris is scheduled for sentencing Tuesday.

Named as codefendant with Norris in three of the suits filed in the Circuit Court was Edward K. Peoples, 18, of Youngwood, Pa., driver of the car in which the victim was riding.

The suits were filed by Miss Nancy Pratt, of Rockville, administratrix for the estate of Miss Juliette Ann Fleck of Youngwood, the victim, in the amount of $50,000; by Edward H. Fleck, and Mrs. Julia Mae Connolly, Miss Fleck's parents, for $25,000, and by the Misses Charlotte Krampe, of 3220 Connecticut ave. nw., Katherine Hall Imperial, of 2022 California st. nw., and Katherine Hubbard, of 2230 California st. nw., occupants of another of the autos, for $25,000 apiece.

In the fourth suit, Morris was sued for $5000 by Peoples, a minor, and his father, Robert G. Peoples.

Cripple's Car Stopped for Want of Tag

The District's auto tag law is interpreted literally and enforced rigidly, a State Department official unable to walk discovered yesterday.

Halted by Traffic Officer B. E. Carroll in the 2600 block K st. nw. early yesterday was Damon D. Davie, 518 3d st. ne., a State Department messenger who was driving his boss to work.

Davie is employed as valet and chauffeur by Dick Fitzpatrick, 29, of 4830 N. 22d rd., Arlington, news editor in the State Department's International Press and Publications Division. Fitzpatrick has lost the use of both legs and uses a wheelchair.

Davie and Fitzpatrick were escorted to nearby No. 3 Precinct Station, where police refused to accept Fitzpatrick's $25 check as collateral for the charge against Davie—driving with 1949 tags.

While Fitzpatrick sat outside the station for about an hour, Davie was detained inside. He called Mrs. Fitzpatrick, who cashed a check, drove to the station, posted the collateral and drove her husband to his office in their car.

Fitzpatrick said he has retained Joseph A. Barry to represent his driver in court today. He will argue that Davie had applied for a license March 20, without including the title of his car. At the license division's request, he mailed in his title March 27.

Davie's money order receipt for the $10 fee was attached to his windshield with scotch tape, Fitzpatrick said.

Police Likely To Vacate School in July

Metropolitan police probably will be able to comply with a Board of Education request to vacate the temporary fourteenth precinct station house, in the Davis School, by July 1.

This was the opinion yesterday of Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police. He said indications are that the new $175,000 fourteenth precinct building, now being erected at 42nd st. and Benning rd. ne., will be finished by July 1, and ready for occupancy.

Since the precinct was created and staffed in 1948, headquarters have been in a temporary building, which is an annex to the Davis School, at 44th and H sts. se.

The Board of Education voted Wednesday to ask the Commissioners to ask police to vacate. The request was a part of the board's emergency program to relieve overcrowding in schools in the Southeast area.

Major Barrett said yesterday he had not been informed of the request officially. But he said that all brickwork for the first floor of the new station building is complete and the second floor is now under construction. He said work is slightly behind schedule, but he expects completion by July 1.

"If the Borad of Education wants that school building," he said, "I want them to know we appreciate the use of it. It has helped us give the people of that area better police service."

Leaps From Eiffel Tower

Paris, April 6 (U.P.).—An elderly woman leaped 900 feet to her death today from the Eiffel Tower. She was identified as Marie-Jeanne Galantier, 68-year-old antique dealer from the Latin Quarter.

2 Girl Students Set $1,000,000 Junior High Fire

Rock Island, Ill., April 6 (U.P.).—Two 14-year-old girls confessed today they set a one-million-dollar school fire so they could "miss a few days of school."

The girls were caught last night after they bet a group of boys 25 cents they could set a similar fire in another school.

The boys raced to police when they found the girls had set fire to Lincoln Grade School. It caused only slight damage.

The earlier fire on December 11 destroyed Central Junior High School, where the girls were students.

Police said they readily admitted their guilt. They were charged with arson and released in $2000 bond each.

Youth Surrenders On Speeding Charge

A youth, who police said led them a merry 20-mile chase last August at speeds of more than 70 miles an hour and then escaped, surrendered yesterday to Prince Georges County police in Hyattsville.

The driver, 18-year-old Marvin F. "Snooky" Dodson of 4319 48th st., Brentwood, Md., was freed on $1000 bond for a hearing April 13. He will be tried on charges of exceeding 70 miles an hour, turning out lights to avoid arrest, driving on a revoked permit and failing to obey lawful orders of a police officer.

Police said Dodson operated a "souped up" 1935 touring car during the wild chase.

GSI Must Pay District Taxes, Board Rules

The District Board of Tax Appeals yesterday ruled that Government Services, Inc., is neither a charitable organization nor a civic league and must pay District taxes.

Effect of the ruling, if it stands, is that $19,305 in taxes paid under protest last year will remain in the District's till. Attorneys for GSI said they had not received copies of the ruling and could not say whether they would take the case to court.

GSI, which operates lunch rooms in Government buildings and various recreational facilities, had protested the personal property and income tax levied against it last year. It claimed to be a charitable organization and a civic league—a nonprofit organization operated exclusively for community benefit.

The same question was decided eight years ago in favor of GSI, its attorneys said. Lawrence Koenigsberger, the one-man tax appeal board, said that ruling had been made by a predecessor and that the record of the case does not indicate GSI's organization at that time.

Koenigsberger ruled GSI is not a charitable organization because those benefiting from its activities "were not objects of charity, and its profits were not devoted to charity, although it donated portions of its net profits to welfare and recreational organizations." The fact that no individual profits from its activities is not sufficient to constitute it a charity, he ruled.

Koenigsberger further held GSI is not a civic league because "instead of using its profits for the benefit of its customers . . . it had permitted them . . to accumulate to the extent of over $1,400,000."

Sesqui Chorus Of 200 Voices Planned Here

Paul Callaway, prominent Washington conductor, has just been engaged by the Sesquicentennial Commission to form a chorus to perform in Washington throughout the Sesquicentennial Year.

Callaway is conductor of the combined Washington and Cathedral Choral Societies as well as organist and choirmaster of Washington Cathedral. He has been widely hailed for his notable direction of outstanding choral works. Both his Cathedral Choir and his combined choral societies have appeared in recent months with the National Symphony.

In announcing Callaway's appointment, Emerson Meyers, director and professional music for the Sesquicentennial, said the new Sesquicentennial Chorus will perform in special concerts in the new amphitheater now under construction in Rock Creek Park. They will also appear at various official events throughout 1950.

On special occasions, the chorus will be augmented by full orchestra.

Callaway plans to build a chorus of about 200 voices. Auditions for membership will be held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings, April 10, 11 and 12, from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m., in the Arts Club, 2017 I street, nw. Callaway emphasizes the fact that every Washington interested in doing choral work is welcome at the auditions.

Rehearsals for the chorus will begin as soon as the quota is filled. They will take place throughout the summer in an air-conditioned auditorium.

Logan Circle Traffic Time Under Study

District traffic officials are making further studies at Logan Circle to determine if signal-light timing changes have solved traffic problems there.

The Department of Vehicles and Traffic earlier this week reported on the time required for traffic to pass the circle at rush hours.

Assistant Engineer Commissioner L. E. Cox said the department will also furnish time-delay figures—showing the times required to move a similar distance on streets leading into the circle.

If the figures show it takes much longer to move around the circle than travel a corresponding distance on 13th st., further corrective action should be taken at the circle, Cox said.

Highway officials have considered cutting 13th st. through the circle—either in a straight line or in bowlegged fashion around the statue—to reduce congestion. Plans have been held up awaiting results from the changes in traffic-light time put into effect last month.

Finn Premier Pledges Friendship to Russia

Helsinki, April 6 (U.P.)—Prime Minister Urho K. Kekkonen today said Finland will fight on the side of Russia "if necessary" against any aggressor who tries to attack the Soviet Union through this country.

He urged the Finnish people to adopt a friendlier attitude toward the Soviets.

Fairfax Government Study Group Planned

The Fairfax County supervisors have agreed to appoint a non-partisan commission to look into the advisability of changing the county's form of government.

In approving a proposal by a citizens' committee that the study group be named, the supervisors also asked that the citizens themselves submit a list of nominees for the proposed study commission be named.

Under the proposal advanced by the committee, headed by Manning Gasch, of Prospect Hill, the commission would be composed of 21 members. It would include three representatives from each of the county's six magisterial districts aand three members at large.

Gasch said his committee would compile a list of "40 or 50" names, from which the supervisors will be asked to select 21 at their next meeting April 19.

An impartial study commission was proposed, Gasch said, in view of a recent movement to bring about a referendum on a proposal to change to the county manager form of government in the county. He said his committee felt the public should be fully informed on alternative forms of government available before voting on one specific form.

The committee, which would be asked to make recommendations to the supervisors as to whether a change in government is needed, also would be empowered to employ an administrative expert to assist in the study, Gasch said.

State Road Leg To Be Built At Urbana

Baltimore, April 6 (AP).—The State Roads Commission announced today it would stand by its original choice of a site for the Urbana interchange on the new Washington National pike.

Restudy of the cloverleaf location in view of protests have convinced the commission experts that the initial selection of the Urbana interchange was sound.

Residents of the Frederick County town had asked the commission to move the cloverleaf away from the community.

The agency announced it would advertise for bids in a few weeks for construction of the interchange and another one at Hyattstown as well. The commission will also ask bids for building another five-mile leg of the new super-highway.

The road will replace present U. S. 240 between Washington, D. C., and Frederick.

A commission spokesman noted in a statement that objections to the cloverleaf site were not agreed on any alternative locations.

Some wanted it moved toward Frederick, others proposed a shift toward Hyattstown. A third suggestion was placement of the interchange some 2000 feet to southwest. This, the spokesman declared would have "completely changed the line of the highway for a considerable distance."

Its resurvey, the commission concluded, led to the conclusion that it "can find no justification for a change in the original plan."

The proposed changes, it explained, would add to the cost of the project or cause considerable delay in its construction apart from greater expenses.

Aggressive Policy Aim Of GOP Head

I. Lee Potter, Arlington County's newly elected Republican committee chairman, yesterday promised county GOP members a change "from a passive to an aggressive policy."

Potter

Potter, unanimously elected by 200 persons at a Wednesday night GOP convention in the Thomas Jefferson School, said he hopes to build an organization which will end an attitude characterized by the question, "Whom can we get to run?"

A member of a county contracting concern and former union printer, Potter narrowly missed election to the County Board in 1948. He was defeated last fall as Republican candidate for the House of Delegates. He is 39 years old.

He succeeds Edgar W. Pumphrey, county chairman since 1948, who withdrew his nomination Wednesday night shortly before balloting began. Pumphrey was later indorsed by the group for Eighth District GOP chairman.

Adm. L. O. Colbert

Geodetic Survey Head To Retire

Rear Admiral Leo Otis Colbert, 66-year-old skipper of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, will launch a new career today after 42 years on deck.

Adm. Colbert

He expects to devote most of his time to his two grandchildren, Daniel A. Doherty, jr., 3, and Delphine Ann Doherty, 3 months, who live with the Colberts and their daughter, Mrs. Daniel A. Doherty at 4408 29th st. nw.

The director's new duty will be chiefly that of a male parent, since the children's father, a Marine pilot, was recently killed in an airplane crash.

A testimonial gathering for the admiral's retirement from active service with the Survey will be held at 4 p. m. today at the Commerce Department auditorium. Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer will be principal speaker.

Admiral Colbert, a native of Cambridge, Mass., entered the Coast Survey service in 1907. He was navigator, executive officer and commanding officer of various Survey ships operating in the coastal waters of the United States, Alaska and the Philippines.

After serving with the Navy in World War I as a lieutenant commander aboard the USS Northern Pacific, he became director of coast surveys at Manila.

In the 1930's he commanded the survey ship Oceanographer, which first disclosed the many submarine "valleys" of the northeast Atlantic continental shelf.

As chief of the Survey's division of charts here from 1933 to 1938 he figured prominently in completion of 87 aeronautical charts and a series of special charts for long-distance flying.

A second daughter, Mary Lou, is the wife of Lieut. Comdr. Ray A. Neale, jr., USNR pilot, formerly of Washington. They live in Corpus Christi, Tex.

Mrs. Neale herself was a WASP pilot for 20 months during the war. But the admiral says any trips he may take to "visit old friends" will probably be on the water.

Former Senator White Reported Resting Easily

Former Senator Wallace H. White (R., Me.) was reported yesterday to be "resting easily" in George Washington University Hospital.

White, who is 72, retired from Congress in January, 1949. He entered the hospital Saturday for rest and a checkup. He suffered a heart attack and was in the same hospital for several weeks last year. Mrs. White said her husband "was just overtired."

D. C. Emergency Committee Named

The District Commissioners yesterday created a permanent committee to deal with emergencies like last winter's soft coal strike.

The committee will consist of three District officials—director of weights, measures and markets; health officer, and purchasing officer. Named as associate members were presidents of the Board of Trade and the Merchants and Manfacturers Association.

Creation of the committee was recommended by J. Thomas Kennedy, director of weights, measures and markets, and chairman of the fuel coordinating committee that dealt with this year's coal shortage.

The "temporary" coordinating committee, dissolved by yesterday's action, consisted of a Board of Trade representative and a local businessman in addition to Kennedy.

Kennedy said the new committee will start work on preparing plans to go into effect whenever an emergency arises.

AP Refuses Florida Curb On Track News

Tallahassee, Fla., April 6 (AP).—The Associated Press today advised State officials that withholding flash results of horse races from its wires in Florida at the request of State officials would be accepting a form of censorship.

The State Utilities Commission wrote to new services at the request of Attorney General Richard Ervin, who said holding flash results off Florida news wires would eliminate all possible outlets which might be "directly or covertly used for bookmaking."

The Associated Press in reply said "as far as we know there has been no evidence at any time that racing news moving over the wire of the Associated Press reaches bookmakers or is used for any purpose that is illegal under the laws of Florida."

Associated Press General Manager Frank J. Starzel told the State board that "while what is involved here may seem of small importance to the commission, insofar as the subject matter is concerned, the action suggested is, in principle, a form of censorship, which if applied to racing news, can be applied to all other news."

Soldiers' Home

The plan to partition a part of the Soldiers' Home grounds to provide for the new District medical center is a sensible solution to a long vexing problem. The Soldiers' Home tract is some of the most valuable land in Washington. It lies athwart the northeastern section of the city, diverting traffic and blocking expansion. The new plan will not harm the real needs of the Soldiers' Home, but it will open up a part of the area to constructive use.

Washington desperately needs the modern medical center. It will combine the facilities of Emergency, Episcopal and Garfield Hospitals, and has hitherto been held up for lack of a site. Similarly, the location on adjoining land of the new veterans' hospital and the new regional office will permit use of the medical center staff. This convenience will provide the best medical facilities for veterans. Not the least of the advantages is the fact that the extension of North Capitol st. and Illinois ave. through the grounds will help relieve traffic bottlenecks.

It is, of course, a pity that this plan could not have been consummated before the Veterans' Administration went through the lengthy negotiations for the Nevius tract in Arlington; indeed, the VA now looks a bit silly. At any rate, the Nevius land has been purchased by the Federal Government. It is an admirable site for Government buildings and in our opinion there ought to be no thought of selling it back to private individuals—though the Government might well consider a payment to Arlington County in lieu of taxes.

It is impossible not to sympathize to some degree with the complaint of the old soldiers at the home that they are being imposed upon. For the most part, however, these protests seem to us to be based upon misunderstanding. In the first place, title to the land is vested not in any individuals, but in the United States. The commitment of the Government is to maintain a home for retired enlisted men, but not to devote to that purpose any particular land. Moreover, the 10 cents a month which Regular Army soldiers pay toward upkeep of the home has had nothing to do with the purchase of the land and covers only about 40 percent of the operating expenses. The remainder of the money comes from fines and forfeitures imposed by courts-martial. It is this fund, which aggregates some 37 million dollars out of which new buildings will be constructed.

Secondly, only 148 acres of the 500-acre tract are involved. This land is now largely unused except for a cow pasture—indeed, it provides some of the most expensive forage in the United States. The remaining 352 acres should be adequate to provide a pleasant environment for the 1500 inhabitants of the home. As a matter of fact, the integrity of the Soldiers' Home will be a lot more secure through these reasonable concessions to progress.

Delhi Talks

What may be an easement in the razor-edged conflict between Hindu and Muslim is reported from the meeting in New Delhi between Premiers Jawaharlal Nehru and Liaquat Ali Khan. A so-called "bill of rights" for minorities has been agreed upon, together with—what is more important—machinery to carry the bill into effect. The news seems too good to be true, for the deterioration in the private relations between Hindu and Muslim, coexisting with the tension in official relations, had lately been so rapid as to make a subcontinental explosion look imminent.

What brought the Prime Ministers together were the sanguinary riots and flight and counterflight of people in the northeast corner of the subcontinent, viz, the Bengals. In the partition after the British quit, Bengal was divided—the eastern part is now Eastern Pakistan and west Bengal is part of India. Never since that time has this great, rich, and overpopulated area enjoyed any tranquillity. The Hindus of west Bengal have been killing their Muslim neighbors, and Muslims have been killing their Hindu neighbors in Eastern Pakistan, and the inward and outward trek in recent months has taxed the resources of the states of both countries—trying to cope with a wild world.

It would be foolish to apportion the blame for this tragic state of things as between the two communities. A condition of fear is at the bottom of it, and this is expressed by a desire to kill lest one be killed. This was the only conclusion that could be arrived at in the case of the mutual slaughter which disfigured the days immediately after the partition in the Punjab. But a real responsibility rests upon the warmongers in both countries, notably the press. They are fomenting the existing cold war between India and Pakistan into a full-scale shooting war. However, if the stringent measures now contemplated are enforced by both governments, the rest of the population may be given a chance to live and let live.

In all the circumstances, the two Prime Ministers have shown great courage as well as the beginning of statesmanship in meeting in New Delhi. Nehru in particular has been running a daily risk of assassination, for the worst fanatics are hangers-on of his own, the Congress, party. They are called the Hindu Mahassabha, which has never reconciled itself to partition and which enjoys toleration in high places in Nehru's own government. That the bigots of this group want war cannot be gainsaid. Now that Nehru has shown his determination to handle the minorities problem firmly, perhaps he will use his great authority to contribute to the settlement of outstanding issues between the two governments, notably Kashmir.

A Man Stands Up

Owen Lattimore, an American fighting like an American in the open, came before the Tydings Subcommittee yesterday and defended himself against slander. There was not a point in the allegations made against him by Senator McCarthy from the protection of the Senate floor that he failed to rebut with vigor and evidentiary detail. There was not a single poisonous slur by hidden, anonymous defamers that he did not expose and ridicule. His performance was not so much a defense as an attack. The position of United States Senator, he said, "carries with it a responsibility which this man Joseph McCarthy has flagrantly violated." And he enumerated the violations.

> He has violated it by impairing the effectiveness of the United States Government in its relations with its friends and allies . . . He has violated it by instituting a reign of terror among officials and employes in the United States Government . . . He has without authorization used secret documents obtained from official Government files. He has vilified citizens of the United States and accused them of high crime, without giving them opportunity to defend themselves . . . He has invited disrespect to himself and his high office by refusing to live up to his word. Twice on the floor of the Senate he stated that any charges that he made under the cloak of immunity, he would repeat in another place so that their falseness could be tested in a court of the United States. He said that if he should fail to do this he would resign. He has been called to repeat his charges so that they could be tested in a court action. He has failed to do so. And he has not resigned.

Dr. Lattimore revealed the sordid operations of the "China lobby" back of Senator McCarthy which the Department of State has been too timorous or too circumspect to lay bare, even in answer to newspaper inquiry. He showed the striking parallelism between Senator McCarthy's charges and the propaganda of this lobby. He disclosed the planned campaign to destroy anyone who challenged this propaganda. He made plain how the Senator was "being used as the simple dupe of a group of fanatical persons who have been thoroughly discredited." And he unmasked the motives of this band of paid and unpaid propagandists and stooges—a band that is a cabal, with influence not only on Capitol Hill but also in key posts of Government.

But the most important part of what Dr. Lattimore said to the Senate subcommittee yesterday was not said in his own defense. It was said in defense of the ancient right of Americans to speak their minds on public issues without having their patriotism impugned. This is a right that is something more than a personal privilege. Its preservation is a matter of the highest utility to the Nation. It is an indispensable factor in a system of government by the consent of the governed. Dr. Lattimore's concluding words on this subject deserve restatement:

> I say to you, gentlemen, that the sure way to destroy freedom of speech and the free expression of ideas and views is to attach to that freedom the penalty of abuse and vilification. If the people of this country can differ with the so-called China lobby or with Senator McCarthy only at the risk of the abuse to which I have been subjected, freedom will not long survive. If officials of our Government cannot consult people of diverse views without exposing themselves to the kind of attack that Senator McCarthy has visited upon officers of the State Department, our governmental policy will necessarily be sterile. It is only from a diversity of views freely expressed and strongly advocated that sound policy is distilled. He who contributes to the destruction of this process is either a fool or an enemy of his country. Let Senator McCarthy take note of this.

Senator Tydings' decision to hold future hearings in executive session is a wise one. It is time for the Senate of the United States to cease giving the protection of its immunity to contemptible personal abuse of the kind Senator McCarthy has launched. It is time for the Senate to put an end to a corruption of the democratic process undertaken in its name.

Bad Budget News

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder admits that March income-tax returns were disappointing. As a result of the poor revenue showing to date, some experts predict that total tax receipts for the current fiscal year will be more than a billion dollars below official estimates. Since expenditures are also running below budget estimates, Mr. Snyder concludes that the 1949-50 deficit may not show any marked divergence from the $5.5 billion deficit anticipated by the President when he sent his budget message to Congress. However, if the reduction in current expenditures is due simply to a time lag in outlays, as seems probable—not to real savings—next year's expenditures will be increased by the amount of the deferred spending and the 1951 deficit will rise in consequence.

With the financial outlook apparently going from bad to worse, it is to be hoped that Congress will be spurred to greater efforts to eliminate nonessential expenditures and that it will think twice before voting for tax reductions that would put the Treasury still deeper in the red.

Gordon Gray's Job

Not a little misunderstanding has been created by Mr. Gordon Gray's new assignment. As Special Assistant to the President, Mr. Gray has been instructed to "advise and assist in coordinating and stimulating the activities of the various Government agencies which can contribute to the solution of the problem of the dollar trade gap." In other words, a consistent foreign economic policy is required with the view of hastening the return to a world economy—a return which is frustrated by the existence of this dollar gap problem.

Logically the first step should be the formation of interdepartmental groups to study and suggest solutions—within the framework of the over-all objective—of issues about which differences of opinion exist. For example, the Treasury does not see eye to eye with the ECA on the question of a European payments union. It fears that a special payments system of this kind might delay rather than hasten a return to universal currency convertibility. Moreover, not all our officials are convinced that the trade gap can be closed by taking more imports instead of permitting exports to drop. Another question that calls insistently for study is the extent to which we should let the merchant vessels of other nations do our carrying trade. There is also the problem of stockpiling to consider. Should we speed up the buying of military stocks? Can we afford to build up nonmilitary stockpiles as a means of stimulating exports from aided countries? Moreover, we have not yet faced the question of how much we can afford to spend in building up the military strength of the countries of western Europe.

These and many other problems must be settled by the United States before we can present a united front to the world and chart a course of action that will enlist public support. Mr. Gray's chief duty will be that of guiding discussion and impressing the study groups with the need to keep constantly in mind the facilitation of the return to a world economy. It is important, too, to give the widest possible publicity to the discussions of alternative plans for dealing with the numerous special problems that call for solutions. For an informed public opinion is the best possible insurance against shortsighted decisions that would sacrifice the interests of the Nation as a whole for the benefit of pressure groups. Programs must be formulated, too, with due regard for their cost to the American people. Our resources are not inexhaustible and in our efforts to strengthen the economy of other countries we have to guard against excessive outlays that would lower our own standard of living.

Mr. Gray is confronted by a challenging task that will require intensive study. In the limited time at his disposal before he takes up his new duties as head of the University of North Carolina, he cannot hope to achieve much in the way of positive results. But if the work of coordination is off to a good start, it is to be hoped that a competent successor can be found to take up where he leaves off and "mobilize the resources of the Government and the experience and thinking of the people in charting our course."

Mr. Dulles' Appointment

Once again the press has been taken for a ride and confidence shaken in official statements by the way the appointment of Mr. John Foster Dulles as special consultant to Secretary Acheson was handled. The news was denied at Key West within 12 hours of being announced. Such deception makes for bad public relations; but, having said this, we hasten to add that the news itself is eminently good. Mr. Dulles before he made his sally into the legislative branch of Government had done yeoman service for the State Department. He has knowledge and negotiating skill, and, above all, he commands confidence in the Vandenberg wing of the Republican Party on the Hill, so that he will be able to do a lot to repair the fissures in bipartisanship.

It had been thought that Mr. Dulles had burned his bridges back to association with the State Department when he ran for the Senate. The Lehman-Dulles campaign was neither elevated nor edifying. Perhaps Senator Vandenberg inspired the appointment, but the fact that the President has invited Dulles to return is an indication that in this respect Mr. Truman has risen above the bitterness of partisanship. That also applies to Senator Lehman; the New Yorker's gesture to his opponent was generous and high-minded. As to Mr. Dulles, his decision to help Secretary Acheson reflects credit on his own sense of public service. The people are the gainer, for, aside from his technical qualifications and his prestige with the Republican Party, Mr. Dulles has a vision and a faith which he expresses affirmatively in his contributions to the conduct of foreign affairs.

Although she sang throughout her life
Of more than eighty years,
She never found a song to match
Her rapture or her tears.
She never, never struck the chord—
She never learned the art
Of singing the ecstatic song
Which lay within her heart.

Blood And Loyalty

The news that the Civil Service Commission has appointed Harry W. Blair to the Loyalty Review Board is most disheartening. The commission presumably took this step in the knowledge of the well-publicized decision which the Circuit Court of Appeals handed down in the Dorothy Bailey case on March 22, 1950. In the course of his dissenting opinion in that case, Judge Edgerton quoted the following remarkable colloquy between the same Mr. Blair, then a member of the Fourth Regional Loyalty Board panel which heard the Bailey case, and Miss Bailey:

"Mr. Blair: Did you ever write a letter to the Red Cross about the segregation of blood?

"Miss Bailey: I do not recall.

"Mr. Blair: What was your personal position about that?

"Miss Bailey: Well, the medical—

"Mr. Blair: I am asking yours."

Thus, a man who apparently regards an individual's views on segregated blood banks as a test of loyalty to this country has now been rewarded by promotion to the top loyalty board. The person or persons responsible for the egregious blunder which this appointment represents should promptly be made to answer for it.

Ending Division

I wish that all the people who are loosing storms of divisive and destructive emotion in this country, could be required to read Benet's The Devil and Dan'l Webster through, immediately they enter their offices of a morning, for a period of three days straight. What made this Republic great, was a unifying appeal to the pride and love and constructive emotions of multitudes of our ancestors, none of whom was individually perfect.

And I wish they for a month could be required daily to study the flag of Iwo Jima, and to repeat over and over while viewing it, "On all those beachheads no one was Social-Democrat, economic royalist, or whatnot: all were Americans, pulling together in a united effort."

For the heritage of Washington and Lincoln and Marshall was a great unifying heritage. No one can stop the 150 million of us even in 1950; provided we help one another, instead of knocking each other out.

Irish Partition

Mr. Roy A. Dunham, in his letter of April 1, thinks that the Irish people should have ignored the bandit hand of England on Irish soil and aided the English to fight off the Nazi bandit. Anyone with the most elementary knowledge of Irish history knows of the hundreds of years of persecution and oppression by the British in their gentlemanly handling of their Irish cousins.

In 1921, when the Irish Free State Treaty was signed, the principle of self-determination, which was denied to the Irish for so long, suddenly became important to the British brethren. They decided to apply it in the case of a small minority in Ireland, a minority which they themselves had created in the plantation of Ulster. First, it was necessary to establish this minority as a majority. They accomplished this by cutting Ulster in two parts, and assigning one part to the new Irish Free State. In the part which remained, and to which they gave the name Northern Ireland, the pro-British group was a majority. In other words, a minority of the people of Ulster, who were an even smaller minority of the people of Ireland, were used as a means of preserving British control over part of the country.

Even today two of the six counties which were separated from the Irish Free State have Irish Nationalist representatives in the British Parliament, despite gerrymandering and suppression of free speech by the puppet government of Northern Ireland. If a plebiscite were taken in the six counties, county by county, it is doubtful that three of them would voluntarily remain within the so-called United Kingdom. And if England were to discontinue subsidizing the puppet government in Northern Ireland, national unity would be achieved peaceably and within a short time.

The discharge petition (petition No. 15), which when a sufficient number of signatures has been obtained will bring about a vote on the Townsend Pension plan, now has 194 signatures of our Congressmen. This means that only 24 more signers are needed.

McCarthy's Election

If the quasi-Senator McCarthy is obnoxious in his wanton assault on good and loyal men and women, why not put him out of the Senate?

In 1946 when he was a circuit judge the soldier vote in Wisconsin undertook to elect him United States Senator.

The State constitution in Article VII Section 10 says: "Each of the judges of the Supreme and Circuit Courts . . . shall hold no office of public trust except a judicial office, during the term for which they are respectively elected, and all votes for either of them for any office, except a judicial office, given by the Legislature of the people, shall be void."

In short McCarthy was never legally elected to the United States Senate. A majority of the Wisconsin Supreme Court overruled the State constitution and declared him elected.

McCarthy should never have been seated. Look at his biography in the Congressional Directory. He held back the facts.

Plane Production And Obsolescence

In your March 31 editorial, "Eisenhower's Choice," you cast doubt on the need for increasing present production of military aircraft. You particularly question the use of arbitrary obsolescence factors.

Obsolescence factors are not so arbitrary as you suggest. For one thing, they may vary by types. To illustrate hypothetically, the factor may be four years for fighters, six years for bombers, and still longer for antisubmarine planes and transports. The critical factor in obsolescence is this: how vital is it that the particular model be certain of surpassing the performance of any opposing weapons the enemy may prove to have? In the case of fighters, whose primary reason for existence is ability to surpass the enemy's best fighters, we can take no chances on falling behind and obsolescence must be accelerated. Fighters must always lead development and, of course, bombers must follow closely if they are to survive in combat.

In the case of antisubmarine patrol planes, only a small proportion need be operated within range of enemy fighters, so high speed is needed for only these few; the rest can be old, provided their special equipment is up-to-date. But even in the cases of antisub planes and transports the pace of technical development brings rapid increases in range and capacity which eventually make retention of old planes a false economy, aside from the increasing costs of maintenance as planes age.

More critical than obsolescence, however, is our ability to sustain quantitatively a high level of combat operations from the very beginning of war. What is here involved is this: On our present peacetime planning basis, if we apply an average obsolescence factor of five years to the planes in our combat groups, we must replace these planes at the rate of between 25 and 30 percent per year, after making allowance for crashes, etc. But if war should start tomorrow, the replacement requirements of these same groups would rise immediately to perhaps 20 percent per month, or 240 percent per year, against the same basis. It would take us probably two years, however, to raise our new production rate by this multiple of 8 or 10, even if our factories are not bombed or sabotaged.

Under these circumstances, what are we to do during the first year of war? We have two alternatives. We can use up the planes in our initial groups until they are reduced to the dozen groups that our production can actually support in combat. Or we can use our combat groups sparingly, for two or three missions a month, to hold down the loss rates to levels which the factories can support.

Neither of these alternatives will win us control of the air. We can avoid them only by greater production of airplanes. We must produce airplanes not only to replenish losses and obsolescence in our peacetime groups, but to build and constantly replenish a war reserve of equally modern planes, whose function is to cushion the immediate increase in loss rates until the slower increase in production fills the gap.

To maintain a war reserve of aircraft does not mean that we must build thousands of planes which will never be flown. Our new planes can be flown for two or three years in combat groups, then overhauled and placed in war reserve for two or three more years.

In relation to our production, our air services are maintaining an overinflated establishment. In relation to their establishment, they are underproducing. We may take our choice of solutions, but one way or another we must bring them into balance for true and realistic economy. We will not again have the two-year lead from 1940 to 1942 to get our factories speeded up. The only answer is high production now, and building up of modern storage reserves.

Truman And The Kerr Bill

By Marquis Childs

Veto In Doubt

THE BEST information is that President Truman will sign the Kerr natural gas bill. In fact, a message to explain this action is even now in an early drafting stage.

The President will say that he is most reluctantly putting his signature to the measure that exempts independent producers of natural gas from regulation by the Federal Power Commission. He will lean heavily on the section in the act requiring the FPC to make a continuing study of gas prices and to report to the White House if an abrupt rise should occur.

Mr. Truman is not expected to decide finally until he returns to Washington from Florida. During this interval, trade unions, consumer groups and just plain citizens will continue to bombard him with reasons why he should not sign the bill.

First and foremost is the conviction that it will mean greatly increased rates both for householders and industrialists. Allied with this is the argument that it is a bonanza for a few very large oil companies with extensive gas reserves. That was the line taken by Fair Dealers in their vigorous opposition to the Kerr bill on the Senate floor.

It is possible, therefore, that the President will be persuaded in this interval to reject the measure. Opponents have by no means given up and they are pouring telegrams into the White House.

THE FORCES behind this move to take natural gas out from under the regulatory umbrella are powerful within the Democratic Party. They have contributed too much oil in the way of campaign funds to keep Democratic machinery turning.

Most conspicuous is Oklahoma's Senator Bob Kerr, himself. He has a booming voice, a smile like a Neon sign and a command of the Bible rivaling that of a fundamentalist preacher, all effective weapons in congressional warfare. In the Oklahoma Legislature he was an effective representative of oil and gas interests in his region. And he deserves full marks for this initial triumph in Washington.

All-out support came from Speaker Sam Rayburn, Senator Tom Connally and the other Texans in Congress who wield so much authority. Rayburn went through all sorts of maneuvers to insure final passage in the House.

Signing the bill, the President is certain to come in for a political backlash. The theme running through the whole debate was that this is "special interest" legislation. And Harry Truman in that whistle-stop campaign became the self-appointed foe of the "special interests." Campaign oratory may come bouncing back at him.

WHAT POINTS this up is the final vote on the Kerr bill. Twenty-two Republicans voted against it as contrasted to only 16 Democrats. If the pairs are counted of Senators not present but recorded on one side or the other, the total Democrats against is 21. Twenty-eight Democrats were recorded as voting for it on the floor and 3 others were paired for it, making more than a majority of the 54 Democrats.

Among the Republicans voting against it were the two ultraconservatives, Senators Kem and Donnell, from Truman's own State of Missouri. Donnell is up for reelection this year and he can be expected to make much of presidential approval of this handout for the "big boys."

As is almost always true in these matters, the issue was not quite the simple contest between the public and the "interests" that it was represented to be. At least two of the largest pipeline companies were working almost as hard in opposition to the bill as were the Fair Dealers.

They were fighting it because the measure, in contrast to the Moore-Rizley bill advanced by Republicans in the Eightieth Congress, exempted only the "independent producers" and not producers that also owned pipe lines. At a critical moment the pipeline companies are reported to have amassed a phalanx of 40 lobbyists in the Mayflower Hotel to try a last-minute blitz on doubtful Senators. It was one of those happy occasions when the cynical could protest their moral virtue while at the same time privately responding to the plea of a lobby.

When he finally signs—if he signs—the President will use that contrast with the Republican measure as a further justification for his action. But this will sound a little thin, particularly when the campaign oratory gets going next fall.

Census Invasion

Today we are being numbered, classified, segregated and investigated just as are the criminals of our penal institutions. The sacred precincts of our homes and firesides are being invaded by a horde of political termites, prying, spying, snooping. Under the thinly veiled pretext that the national census requires answers (the penalty is jail for refusing to give the answers) about the most intimate details of the private affairs of the owners and occupants of the once sacred precincts of the homes so entered.

This is a dictatorial administration's first move against personal liberty, an intolerable violation of the privacy of the American home, an outstanding example of Germany's Hitlerism at its very worst.

Matter Of Fact

By Stewart Alsop

Johnson And The Air Force

THE FACTS about American air power, in its relation to the national security, are really very simple. The basic, overriding fact is this. Defense Secretary Louis Johnson has reduced American strength in the air by approximately one third in the year of the Soviet atomic bomb. Moreover, even before the Johnson slash, the level of American air strength was already, in the unanimous opinion of the experts who have studied the problem, too low.

These facts are unpleasant, but they can be quite easily proven. As Mr. Walter Lippmann has pointed out, the most accurate measure of air power is not dollars or air groups, but "airframe weight"—the weight of aircraft annually procured by the Air Force. And the figures on airframe weight speak for themselves.

In fiscal 1949, the last pre-Johnson fiscal year, the Air Force was permitted to order just under 34,000,000 pounds of air-frame weight. In fiscal 1950, Johnson, succeeding James Forrestal, froze congressional appropriations and sliced savagely into Air Force procurement. Air-frame weight was slashed down to a bit over 21 million pounds, with a slight increase envisaged for 1951.

In other words, behind a smokescreen of bluster about "trimming fat," Johnson has reduced American air power by more than a third. The full meaning of this fact can only be understood, moreover, if it is borne in mind that the 34 million-pound level of aircraft procurement for fiscal 1949 represented a conscious and calculated risk.

AIR FORCE Secretary Stuart Symington repeatedly and passionately protested that the level of aircraft procurement was dangerously low. Nor was he merely reflecting a service viewpoint, for his protest was supported by the conclusions of both the Finletter Commission and the Congressional Air Policy Board, which sifted all the facts and heard the country's leading air-power experts.

Nevertheless, Forrestal overruled Symington. This was before the Soviet Union exploded its atom bomb somewhere in the Siberian fastnesses. At that time, planning was based on the optimistic assumption that the Soviet Union would not have a stockpile of atomic bombs before 1953.

Acting on this assumption, Forrestal took the calculated risk of holding aircraft procurement down below the recommended level. But he expected the level of American air power to be increased from year to year, and he was fully aware that the fiscal 1949 level was the absolute minimum response to the threat of Soviet aggression.

Consider what has happened since. Johnson replaced Forrestal. And the year which has seen the Soviet atom bomb, the more hideous prospect of a Soviet hydrogen bomb, the loss of China, the threat to all Asia, the remilitarization of eastern Germany, and the culmination of a massive rearmament effort in the Soviet Union, has also seen American air power slashed by a third.

Surely there can only be one answer to the question: Has Johnson been right to reduce drastically American air strength? In fact, there are many signs that Johnson is now preparing to answer the question himself, as quietly as possible, in the negative. Yet the harm which Johnson has done cannot be quickly or inexpensively undone.

THE AIRCRAFT procurement increase recommended by General Eisenhower and embodied in the Vinson amendment probably represents about all the aircraft industry, throttled back by the Johnsonian "economies," can carry in the immediate future on a peacetime basis. Thus all that can be done immediately is to try to regain the low level of American air power which existed before Johnson took over and began to lay about him with his meat ax.

The question of the longer future remains. It is impressive that both the Finletter Commission and the Congressional Air Policy Board, working independently, reached very similar conclusions. The Finletter Commission did not base its findings primarily on air-frame weight, but the Air Policy Board did.

"The Air Policy Board devised two plans, both based on the assumption that the Soviets would not have an atomic stockpile before 1953. Plan A represented an ideal—an Air Force capable of a sustained offensive and defensive effort from the outbreak of a war. This plan called for eventual annual deliveries of 86 million pounds. Plan B was more modest, calling for annual deliveries of 45 million pounds. This plan was designed to "prevent the loss of a war on the outset of hostilities."

It may be that this country cannot afford an Air Force capable of sustained defense and long-range attack, although this is hard to believe. But it is downright impossible to believe that the United States cannot afford an Air Force capable of preventing "the loss of a war upon the ouset of hostilities." And surely it is not militaristic to hope that we may even be able to do a little bit better than that, nor hysterical to doubt the wisdom of Johnson's sharp reductions in our inadequate air strength in these times.

Non-Red Oath Signers Seen Action-Proof

By The Associated Press

The Justice Department indicated yesterday it saw little chance for court action against labor leaders whose non-Communist oaths were referred to it by a skeptical NLRB.

The National Labor Relations Board asked the Department to investigatigate affidavits signed by "left-wing" union officials, after some of the labor officers had publicly announced resignations from the Communist Party in order to take the oath.

The affidavits are required under the Taft-Hartley Act before unions can use NLRB machinery for collective bargaining or the handling of labor complaints.

About 50 affidavits have been questioned by the NLRB during the last several months. The department has said repeatedly these cases are still being investigated to see if perjury prosecutions seem indicated.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) recently complained the department has been lax in pressing the inquiry. Assistant Attorney General James M. McInerney, head of the criminal division, said yesterday the wording of the oath hampers any court proceedings.

Since the oath is entirely in the present tense, he said, it is simply an affirmation that the signer was neither a Communist nor a supporter of violent action against the Government on the date of signing.

McInerney told a reporter such an oath makes no reference to what the maker of the affidavit may have been on the previous day, or what he might become the day after.

House Committee Flying to Hawaii For Red Probe

Members of the House Un-American Activities Committee completed plans yesterday for a three-week trip to Hawaii to investigate Communist activities,.

A six-member subcommittee, headed by Representative Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.) will leave by plane Saturday and begin hearings in Honolulu Monday.

"It is folly," Walter said, "to assume Russia has overlooked any opportunity to plant subversive agents on militarily important Pacific islands."

FBI Files Clear Lattimore, Tydings Says

more, that there was nothing in that file to show that you were a Communist or had ever been a Communist or that you were ever in any way connected with any espionage information or charges.

"So that the FBI puts you completely, up to this moment at least, in the clear."

Tydings' visit to the FBI was made before McCarthy handed additional evidence about Lattimore to the FBI earlier this week. Nevertheless, taking into account that further information. Tydings' statement is still accurate, The Washington Post learned on good authority last night.

After the hearing, and pressed by reporters for comment, McCarthy said:

"Either Tydings hasn't seen the (FBI) files, or he is lying. There is no other alternative."

McCarthy said he did not know what sort of a summary Hoover had compiled for the committee, "but I know what is in the files." He said he was "absolutely" still standing on his charges against Lattimore.

"Completely . . . in the clear"

Hearing Room Jammed

The hearing on McCarthy's "key case," the one on which he has vowed he would "stand or fall" for all the rest of his charges, unfolded before a packed Senate Caucus Room audience.

A score of Senators besides those on the subcommittee were present for part or all of the day. On one side of the chamber sat the Dilowa Hutuktu, or "Living Buddha" of Mongolia, a brown, wizened man swathed in maroon robes, whom Lattimore has reportedly rescued from the Communists in Mongolia.

Facing the witness throughout the morning session was McCarthy, sitting behind Chairman Tydings. Behind him were such figures as Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Mrs. Morris Cafritz. Dawdling at the entrance to the room was John Maragon, key figure in the "five percenter" investigation.

Letter of 1943 Figures

Next to Tydings' blunt clearance, made almost at the end of the hearing, the day's most dramatic incident centered around a letter that Lattimore, then head of Office of War Information operations for the Pacific, wrote to his opposite number, journalist Joseph Barnes, in New York, in June, 1943.

This was the letter, though it was classified as secret, from which McCarthy had read excerpts on the Senate floor a week ago. As McCarthy read the fragments, they painted a picture of Lattimore instructing Barnes to recruit Communist Chinese employes for the OWI.

They indicated that Lattimore told Barnes not to hire anyone sympathetic to or connected with the Chinese Nationalist (Kuomintang) Government, and told him to put his trust in a Dr. Chi, whose son, McCarthy pointed out, is now slated to be Chinese Communist representative to the United Nations.

Full Letter Produced

Senators Tobey (R., N. H.) and Lehman (D., N. Y.) demanded at that time that McCarthy put the whole letter in the record. McCarthy refused.

Yesterday, Hickenlooper pulled out a copy of it, passed it to Lattimore to find out if he had written it. Lattimore looked at it, said he was the author, and added that he would like it in the record if it could be declassified.

Much discussion ensued, until Tydings jumped in, and said, as the audience applauded, he would take it upon himself to declassify it. It was thereupon read into the record.

It turned out to be 2000 words of extremely careful instructions to Barnes on how to employ Chinese personnel in OWI to give that agency maximum security.

Told Tie-ups of Chinese

Speaking from an intimate knowledge of equally intricate Chinese politics of the time, Lattimore told how various Chinese in this country were tied up either with the Communists, the warring factions inside the Nationalists, or the Wang Ching-wei (Japanese puppet leader in China) faction.

The problem, Lattimore went on, was to get employes who would have no pipeline to any of them, through which to feed intelligence and secret data about United States policy. The best people to choose, then, were those who were not affiliated with any of the three groups.

He said the rallying point for these unaffiliated Chinese was a group of stockholders of a Chinese paper in New York, the New China Daily News. These were mostly Chinese laundrymen, and—in consequence of being small businessmen—were most impervious to Communist infiltration.

Lattimore warned Barnes, however, that there might be some Communists in their ranks. He went on:

"We have to be extremely careful about our Chinese personnel. While we need to avoid recruiting any Chinese Communists, we must be careful not to be frightened out of hiring people who have loosely been accused of being Communists. We have to be at least equally careful of not hiring people who are pipelines to Wang Ching-wei or to one or other of the main factions within the Kuomintang, the political party which controls the Chinese government, as if it were itself the Chinese government."

Lattimore explained that the Dr. Chi referred to was a trusted and close confidential advisor to Dr. H. H. Kung, now reputed to be a behind-the-scenes power of the pro-Nationalist China lobby in this country.

The slight, baldish, mustached Lattimore—his wife and his lawyers beside him, his son and his parents a few feet away—read his statement in a quiet voice, but with the skill of an experienced lecturer, which he is.

Epithets Returned to Senator

His voice went through all registers of sarcasm and anger when, in the course of only a small part of his 42-page statement, he gave McCarthy back to his face some of the epithets McCarthy had bestowed on him and others.

In passing, he said that what McCarthy had done was to have "flagrantly violated" his responsibilities as a Senator, indulged in "irresponsible publicity," made the United States Government a "laughing stock" to Communist governments, instituted a "reign of terror" among employes of this Government, used secret documents without authorization, "vilified citizens," refused to live up to his word, and ended up by playing "McCarthy" to someone else's "Edgar Bergen."

Repeatedly, Lattimore rubbed in McCarthy's promise, twice stated on the Senate floor, to resign if he ever refused to say in an unprivileged forum, where he would be expected to suit for libel, what he said in libel-proof Senate proceedings.

"I think that I would be the instrument of a great service to the country if the Senator should resign," Lattimore cracked.

Denial is Categorical

In a categorical denial that he is or has even been a Communist, sympathetic to Communist aims, or a spy, or connected with espionage, Lattimore said he was well aware that he was under oath and aware of the risks of trial for perjury.

He taunted McCarthy first, for being slow to find that he, Lattimore, was a key case, and second, for them watering down his accusations.

He pointed out that the first time McCarthy accused him, it was merely for being "pro-Communist," and that he was not among the "Big Three" of McCarthy's original "81 cases."

But then, Lattimore recounted, McCarthy told reporters he had found "the top Russian espionage agent in the United States" and identified the man as Lattimore.

Changes in Stand Cited

But ultimately, a week ago in a speech on the Senate floor, he called Lattimore only "one of" the top Red spies in the country, and, said Lattimore, McCarthy went on to suggest that "maybe the best way to describe me was as a 'bad policy risk'; and the poor fellow ended up . . . by saying 'I fear in the case of Lattimore, I may have perhaps placed too much stress on the question of whether or not he has been an espionage agent.'"

Lattimore took up one by one the various pieces of evidence McCarthy had brought against him.

1. The nearest McCarthy came to charging an act of espionage, Lattimore noted, was to report that he took a trip to Pt. Barrow, Alaska, in May, 1949, where he took pictures. McCarthy said, "It would be interesting to know where the pictures are today."

Lattimore handed them to the subcommittee, with the sardonic remark, "They are all intact, and none of them has been sent to Russia or given to secret agents."

And, he said to the subcommittee, "I hope you will enjoy the pictures of Eskimo children, dog sleds, huts lined with whalerib, natural beauties and sunsets."

Emminent People in I.P.R.

2. A Red general said in 1935 or 1936 he was getting good intelligence from Mongolia through the Institute of Pacific Relations, which had been taken over by Communists. In connection with this, Lattimore's name was mentioned.

In answer, Lattimore referred to the highly respectable backing and composition of the I.P.R., then and now, and the emminent people who run it, then and now.

Further, he said, one of McCarthy's other allegations said flatly that Lattimore was not a Communist in 1936. McCarthy can't have it both ways, Lattimore said, and added he thought the Senator's informants ought to make up their minds.

3. A former Communist, Freda Utley, charged that in 1936, in Moscow, Lattimore was getting instructions from the Soviet government on the policy line for the I. P. R. to follow.

Lattimore answered that he had come through Moscow in 1936, at a time when the Russians were angry at him for publishing, in the magazine he edited, uncomplimentary remarks about Stalin, and had insinuated he was a Japanese agent.

His only contact with Russian officials, he went on, was when Ambassador Bullitt thought that his views on Inner Mongolia, and his conviction that Soviet views on the matter were wrong, were so important that they should be told to the Russian Foreign Office. So he had a conference with a Foreign Office official, in Bullitt's presence.

4. A charge that he was instigator of pro-Russian student uprisings in Peking.

Lattimore presented letters from the American Ambassador, the American Military Attache, and the head of the Chinese National Library, all in Peking at the time in question, saying the accusation was, in effect, nonsense.

5. Two persons arrested in the Amerasia case for unlawful possession of secret Government documents were at Lattimore's house the night before their arrest. They were allegedly secretively going over a bunch of documents.

Lattimore presented letters from people who were at his house for a Sunday picnic before the arrest. Lattimore and the two men, John S. Service and Navy Lieut. Andrew Roth, were described as working on galley proofs of a book written by Roth and about to be published. The material in the book had been cleared by U. S. Navy security officers.

Main Charge Based on Views

Lattimore said he got some "wry amusement" from the fact that McCarthy stated his informants included many acknowledged former Communists.

"Perhaps that status gives them a special right to criticize those of us who do not happen to be Communists, ex or otherwise," Lattimore said.

But—and this was the heart of Lattimore's testimony—the real charge against him involved his views on China. And its origin, he insisted, came from McCarthy's "Edgar Bergen," the rich pro-Chiang Kai-shek China lobby in this country.

Two of its leaders, McCarthy said, are the lobbyist of the National government of China, William J. Goodwin, and a wealthy importer of Chinese textiles, Alfred Kohlberg.

They are part of "a bitter and implacable and fanatical group of people who will not tolerate any discussion of China which is not based upon absolute, total and complete support of the Nationalist government in Formosa," Lattimore said.

"Unaccepted Recommendations"

At great length, Lattimore described his own views about China. He told how he warned of a situation arising that would let the Communists come to power. Far from being heeded, he said, or from being the "architect" of American Far East policies, he is only the author of books and memoranda that are "a crowded catalogue of unaccepted recommendations."

His analysis of the China situation he conceded, may have been right or wrong, "but if anybody says that it is disloyal or un-American, he is a fool or a knave."

Is it possible, Lattimore asked, for anyone, including American Government officials, to oppose further aid to the Nationalist Government of China without being disloyal to the United States, or pro-Communist?

Gen. Marshall's View Cited

McCarthy's charges are understandable, Lattimore said, "only on the theory that he believes that anyone is disloyal whose opinions on China policy during the last nine or ten years parallel or support those of the Government of the United States.

"In the latter category the Senator would have to include Gen. George C. Marshall, General Stillwell, and presumably the various Secretaries of State, Messrs. Hull, Stettinius, Byrnes and Acheson."

McCarthy, who had turned down offers to ask Lattimore questions through the person of some member of the subcommittee, sat frowning through Lattimore's statement. At the end he said Lattimore had not explained away the fact that his views paralleled the Communist policy for China "down to the last comma."

McCarthy told reporters he would repeat his charges against Lattimore in an unprivileged place, provided, however, that the Government would agree to make available the various FBI and loyalty files on Lattimore.

In view of Hoover's adamant position against disclosing FBI files, particularly for court use, it seemed clear that McCarthy would not repeat the charges in a non-immune place.

McCarthy is due to tell Tydings next Tuesday the names of witnesses he wants to have subpenaed for appearance next Thursday, to back his charges against Lattimore.

Meantime, Tydings said he will arrange an appointment at the FBI for Hickenlooper to see the Hoover analysis of Lattimore's files. Hickenlooper was absent when the rest of the committee visited the Justice Department last week.

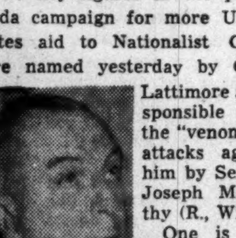
President Satisfied With Senate DP Bill

Key West, Fla., April 6 (AP).—A presidential spokesman said that the displaced persons bill passed by the Senate today was satisfactory to the Administration.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told a news conference that the measure was passed "in very good shape from out point of view."

Two Men Named as 'Dupers' of McCarthy

Two key figures in the propaganda campaign for more United States aid to Nationalist China were named yesterday by Owen Lattimore as responsible for the "venomous" attacks against him by Senator Joseph McCarthy (R., Wis.).



Goodwin

One is William J. Goodwin of Roslyn, N. Y., a registered lobbyist and foreign agent with a stormy background of Wall Street finance, Christian Front activitiy, Tammany Hall politics and big time public relatioss.

The other is Alfred Kohlberg, wealthy New York textile importer with a $1,500,000 yearly stake in China, and financial angel of the American China Policy Association.

Lattimore described them yesterday as members of a "bitter and implacable and fanatical group of people who will not tolerate any discussion of China which is not based upon absolute, total, and complete support of the Nationalist government," a group of which McCarthy "has been and is the instrument or dupe."

Goodwin admits sending McCarthy his lobbying letters which are on file with the Justice Department. Although McCarthy denied yesterday to a Post reporter even knowing Goodwin, the latter said McCarthy has been his guest at dinner.

McCarthy admitted yesterday he knew Kohlberg but refused either to confirm or deny that Kohlberg had supplied him with material. Kohlberg also refuses to say that he has or has not given McCarthy material, but Kohlberg was reported to have told an associate that he has supplied the Senator.

Justice Department records show that Goodwin has contracted for $65,000 in less than two years from the Chinese Nationalists "to explain to leaders of thought in the United States, including members of Congress . . . the danger of the Communist movement" and to seek for China "large measures of American support and material aid."

With this money Goodwin gives intimate dinners—some of them costing as much as $640—for Congressmen. Senator McCarthy has been at the dinners when the Far Eastern situation was discussed, Goodwin's attorney, J. Paull Marshall disclosed yesterday.

Last September, when the mainsprings of the China lobby were first revealed by The Washington Post and the St. Louis Post Dispatch, Goodwin described the number one item on his agenda as a campaign to "get Acheson—kick him upstairs or out."

Goodwin ran for Congress from New York in 1936 and was supported by the Christian Front movement of Father Charles E. Coughlin, "a very fine organization of which I have never been ashamed," according to Goodwin.

In 1941 Goodwin incorporated the American Rock Party in New York City and ran for mayor as its "dove of peace" candidate, his candidacy indorsed by Coughlin.

In 1944 Goodwin became treasurer of the American Democratic National Committee, a "beat-Roosevelt" organization which was later investigated by the House.

He is currently working for the Chinese News Service.

Kohlberg has been an importer for 34 years, specializing in embroidered articles. He is a regular visitor to China and stayed with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in Formosa last July.

In an interview last September he admitted that the American China Policy Association is "my baby," and that its literature was printed on the presses of Alfred Kohlberg, Inc., and paid for by Kohlberg.

Kohlberg said he was "intimate" with such pro-Nationalist figures as Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), General Claire Chennault, the Chiangs, Mme. Chiang's brother-in-law, H. H. Kung, and Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) for whom he said he once worked.

Kohlberg said that he had contributed $1000 to Senator Bridges' 1948 campaign.

After his most recent trip to China, Kohlberg said he made a report which was published from Bridges' office, at Bridges' request.

He is the publisher of Plain Talk magazine, and in that position said he "sat on the Hiss story" for two years.

Kohlberg describes his position on China as "very simple."

"Either we are against the Communist government in China, or 108,000 Americans died in vain during the last war in the Pacific."

Kohlberg could not be reached last night for comment.

Goodwin, in Washington since Tuesday, left the city yesterday at 5 p. m. Through his attorney he said he would be "most happy" to testify before the subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing McCarthy's charges. He said he "believes he will be helpful in bringing out the true facts in this entire situation."

4 More Stores Planned Here By Food Fair

By S. Oliver Goodman

Food Fair Super Markets of Washington has launched an expansion program which contemplates the opening of four more food stores and a warehouse-office building.

Bernard N. Siegel, vice president and general manager, reported yesterday that the program will be completed by the end of this year. Estimating cost is in excess of $750,000.

In the tentative order of their openings, the new retail units are located as follows:

Wheaton, Md., late in May; Belle View Gardens, south of Alexandria, in August; Langley Park, at University lane and New Hampshire ave. extended, in September; Willston, at Lee blvd. and Seven Corners, in October.

The new warehouse and office building, Siegel said, will be located at 16th st. and West Virginia ave. and is expected to be ready for occupancy by December 1. The building will have more than 42,000 square feet.

Food Fair Super Markets, incorporated in 1932, operates eight stores at present in the metropolitan Washington area. Gross volume in 1949 approximated $7,500,000, an increase of 30 percent over 1948, Siegel said.

Average area of the four new stores, now under construction or in the blueprint stage, will consist of 10,000 to 12,000 square feet of floor space and 3000 to 6000 square feet of storage space. Ample auto parking space also will be provided.

HOLIDAY TODAY: Securities and commodity markets will be closed today for Good Friday. However banks and building-loan associations will be open as usual. Stock and commodity exchanges will resume trading Saturday for the short session.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, April 6 (AP)—Grain prices ended lower after a session of lazy price swings today. Volume fell off sharply from other days this week and the market never made a large move in either direction.

The market opened steady, dipped a bit in mid morning, came back to around the previous close and then fell off again in the closing 15 minutes. Wheat and rye set new lows for the day on the late selling.

Wheat closed ¾-⅞ lower, corn was unchanged to 1 cent lower, oats were ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher, rye was 1½ to 2 cents lower, soybeans were ⅛ lower to ¼ higher and lard was unchanged to 5 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Chemical, TV Shares Lead Fresh Surge

New York, April 6 (AP).—The stock market pounded ahead for gains of fractions to around 3 points today.

At the closing bell the price level reached the crest of a rise that started back in mid-June and hit a peak since August 1946.

The market started off pointing upward and never changed direction. Progress was slow but had a relentless quality to it. Final prices were at or just under the best of the day.

WHAT STOCKS DID	Thurs.	Wed.

Declines	200	380

Chemical, radio-television, steel and motor issues dominated the trading and scored the sharpest gains.

Heavy trading accompanied the rise. Business stepped up to an even two million shares from 1,430,000 yesterday which was the lowest in a couple of weeks.

Labor news was evidently the spark that touched off the strong surge of buying. The United Automobile Workers (CIO) announced that it had submitted a new plan for settlement of the 72-day-old strike against Chrysler and the company accepted it for study.

Immediate response to this information was a forward lunge by Chrysler common and a show of strength in General Motors.

Interest in the motor division soon died away. Leadership was taken over by the chemicals and TVs and soon higher prices popped out all over the place.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .7 of one point to 76, a high since this level was matched on August 21, 1946. The industrial group paced the rise, trailed by rails and utilities. The rails, incidentally, just missed hitting a new 1949-50 high, but the industrials and utilities did.

Chrysler gained a full point at 67½, less than a point under its 1949-50 high. General motors and Studebaker were up fractionally.

In the TV division, Zenith Radio shot ahead 2½ to 67⅛, Philco 2⅝ to 45⅛ and Radio Corp. (one of the most active issues), ⅞ to 18⅞. Emerson Radio and Admiral each advanced more than a point.

American Cyanamid raced in front of the chemicals with a rise of 3⅛ to 61½. Up one or more were Allied Chemical, Dow Chemical, duPont, Eastman Kodak, Heyden Chemical and Monsanto.

Big Board Votes 4-Month Closing On Saturdays

New York, April 6 (AP).—Governors of the New York Stock Exchange today voted to close the exchange on Saturday four months this summer instead of two.

The vote reversed a decision recently reached to shut down on Saturday only two months. The two-month closing inspired wide-scale opposition among the members of the exchange and a poll of members was taken by the Board for guidance.

The board did not take any action on a proposal to extend the hours of trading beyond 3 o'clock p. m. (EST), nor to cut down on the number of holiday closings. A special committee appointed by the board has polled the membership on these questions and the results are now being studied.

By today's ruling the exchange will be closed on Saturday during June, July, August and September.

New York, April 6 (AP).—Cotton futures registered losses of 5 to 50 cents a bale in quiet preholiday trading today. More than 500,000 bales of May futures remained to be liquidated, with first notice day coming up April 25.

Government Study Asked in County

A call for a nonpartisan citizens committee representing civic, business, progressional church, labor, and other groups to promote "study and action" for good government in Prince Georges County was sounded last night.

The call came in a resolution passed unanimously by the Prince Georges County Civic Federation, at a meeting at the County Service Building at Hyattsville. The resolution criticized the recently passed Sothoron bill to reorganize the county government as "hastily" prepared and passed, and said it indicates awareness by present county governmental authorities of "critical failure" of the county government.

The measure also reiterated the Federation's demand for an impartial survey of the county government before it is reorganized. The survey, under the Federation's plan, would be made by the Bureau of Public Administration of the University of Maryland.

In another slap at the Sothoron bill, passed by the last session of the Maryland legislature as an emergency measure, the Federation passed a resolution demanding a referendum on the portion of the bill creating a full-time County Commissioner. The bill was introduced by Mrs. Irma Bogdanoff, a member of the Federation at large.

Mrs. Bogdanoff pointed out that the full-time commissioner will administer an eight million dollar business, and should be a nonpolitical figure on whose ability voters could pass.

Mrs. Georgia Benjamin, chairman of the Federation's citizenship committee, distributed pamphlet copies of a series of articles by Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer on Prince Georges County school and governmental problems which appeared in The Washington Post.

Five Points

Davies Lists Ways to Tell A Liberal

The Rev. Dr. A. Powell Davies, minister of All Souls (Unitarian) church and a liberal himself, last night laid down five ways to measure whether "you're a liberal."

1. A liberal has tolerance—he bears no ill-will to those who do not share his views, but on the other hand, "He ceases to tolerate at whatever point tolerance itself is threatened."

2. He should have an open mind, but "not open at both ends." New ideas "should not be entertained merely as transients." Dr. Davies warned against those who believe that once an idea is put in an open mind that openmindedness will then be lost.

3. He must be willing to choose and willing to change, even "when the ideas are not welcome." Often principles of truth and justice are "not comfortable," he warned.

4. He "must be flexible" and even though holding strong convictions face reality, realizing that a step in the right direction often is more practical than waiting forlornly for a broad change.

5. The liberal "should be free from prejudice or pre-judgement, active in uprooting his own prejudices as well as those of others.

Speaking at the annual meeting of Unitarian Laymen's League in his church, Dr. Davies defined a liberal as a person who believes in liberation from bondage, ignorance, injustice, restrictions, barriers of race and class, poverty and security and turns this faith into purpose and the resolve into deeds.

The league elected J. Gay Seabourne president at the meeting. Other officers are Russell B. Adams, vice president; Edwin H. Blakelock, secretary and A. M. Draisner, treasurer.

the family told them there had been "domestic trouble for a month."

Both Foy and his wife were in the bathroom when Robert found them, police said, and a 7.65 caliber Mauser pistol lay on the bloody bathroom floor.

Neighbor Investigates

The boy called police almost simultaneously with William E. Miller, sr., a neighbor, who lives at 1814 22d st. se. He told police he heard what sounded like "three thuds" and went to investigate.

Robert Foy told William E. Miller, jr., 15, of finding his parents and said that "it was horrible." He became hysterical afterward at the Miller home.

Police said that three shots had been fired, one of which lodged in the bathroom ceiling.

Neighbors said the family has lived in the home for about nine years. They described the girl as "very attractive" and said that she has served as a "teen age" model for a downtown department store.

Police said they were told the family came here from North Carolina several years ago.

A brother, Elmo R. Foy, lives at 1223 17th st. ne.

Shaw President Of Society For Crippled Children

Robert A. Shaw of 1511 Sharon dr., Silver Spring, was elected president at the newly organized Montgomery County Chapter, Society for Crippled Children and Adults, last night.

Other officers elected at the board meeting, held in the Community Chest and Council Building in Silver Spring, include: Rev. Raymond P. Black, Rockville, first vice president, Dr. Merle Ansberry, Bethesda, second vice president; Dr. Irene Barrett, secretary, and Mrs. Stephen Fuler, treasurer, both of Chevy Chase.

They were named by Mrs. Wesley McCune, chairman of the nominating committee, and elected unanimously.

It was announced that contributions of $5 or more in the current Easter Seal drive carries membership in the county chapter, and that funds collected in the county will be disbursed in the county.

Bruce Eberwein, executive secretary of the State organization, told the board last night that more than $4700 has been colected in the county during the present drive.

Treasury Plans To Borrow New Money Next Week

By the United Press

Launching a new deficit-financing program, the Treasury disclosed plans yesterday for borrowing new money next week for the first time since last September.

Secretary Snyder announced it will sell approximately one billion dollars in 91-day bills to pay off some 900 millions in similar bills maturing April 13 and provide an extra 100 millions in cash.

Next week's operation will mark the start of a borrowing program made necessary by expectations that the Government will run nearly four billion dollars in the red during the next three months and $5,100,000,000 deeper in the succeeding 12 months, which make up fiscal 1951.

AF to Set Up Crash Wards

Emergency crash awards like the one pioneered at Bolling Air Base hospital here have been ordered set up immediately at all Air Force hospitals and active bases.

The order for the standardized medical service to rescue victims of air accidents was made public yesterday by Maj. Gen. Harry G. Armstrong, USAF Surgeon General.

The Air Force program is patterned after that provided in the 16-bed crash ward set up 2½ years ago by Maj. Howard R. Lawrence, then Flight Surgical Chief at Bolling's base hospital.

Ready and waiting for instant alert, the Bolling crash ward has received the injured from three major air crashes in the area. Of the total of 29 victims admitted, 27 are living today.

The standardized crash wards, like Bolling's, will be specially equipped to give immediate and extensive medical treatment to survivors of air accidents, General Armstrong said. Each will contain equipment for administering oxygen and large scale infusions of plasma, whole blood and other fluids.

Christoffel Freed in Bail Pending Appeal

The Federal Court of Appeals yesterday ordered Harold Christoffel freed on bail pending outcome of his appeal from his second perjury conviction after he denied to a congressional committee he ever was a Communist.

The three-man court acted unanimously. It set bail at $10,000.

Christoffel, former head of a labor union local in Milwaukee, has been in the District of Columbia jail since his second convictio February 23. He was sentenced to a two to six-year prison term.

He was convicted on charges of falsely telling the House Labor Committee in 1947 he had never been a Communist.

There was no indication how soon the bail money would be raised and Christoffel freed. Prior to his conviction he had been free on $5000 bail.

Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts had denied a motion that Christoffel be freed on bail and also denied another motion for a new trial.

Christoffel was first convicted in 1948 on the same charges but won a reversal by the Supreme Court. It ruled it had not been proved in his first trial that a quorum or majority of the committee had been present when he testified.

In his second trial, the government presented testimony from 14 members of that 25-man committee that they had been present.

The committee had been checking into Communist infiltrations into labor unions.

Commission Delays Action on Police Findings Pending Study of Matter

By Richard L. Lyons
Post Reporter

Commissioner John Russell Young yesterday received a report on the Police Department's Richitt affair and promised to make it public after the Commissioners decide what to do with it.

Daniel B. Maher, special assistant corporation counsel, handed the long-awaited report to

The Federal Diary by Jerry Klutz starts on Page 1 today.

Young just after noon, five weeks after the blowup that followed Capt. Anthony Richitt's disciplinary transfer from the White House Precinct"—No. 3—to Precinct No. 8.

Young would not comment on the report beyond saying it deals with matters in the Third Precinct. He said the report was made to the Board of Commissioners, and that he cannot make it public until he has consulted with Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young. Maher would not discuss it.

Later in the afternoon Richitt visited the District Building and talked with Charles Stofberg, special assistant to J. R. Young. Stofberg said Richitt asked him about obtaining a low-number auto tag.

The report presumably deals with reported erasures in Third Precinct records and perhaps other aspects of the differences between Richitt and his chief, Maj. Robert J. Barrett.

Richitt has claimed he was transferred because of information he gave to the House District subcommittee investigating crime. Richitt said he told an investigator of a conference with a reputed gambler who disclosed confidential committee information on gambling reportedly given him by Barrett.

Barrett denied this and said Richitt was transferred because of failure to submit a report promptly and other instances of insubordination.

Richitt and Barrett both told their stories to the House District Subcommittee, and a few days later Barrett announced he had discovered "significant" erasures in the Patrol System Signal Book of the Third Precinct. Barrett claimed the erasures proved Richitt was not where he said he was at a disputed time and "proves some persons perjured themselves."

Eyes Gleam Bright, but H-Bomb Foes Weaken in Fifth Day of Week-Long Fast

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

An eight-day candle burns in Northwest Washington. Its flickering flame casts ghostly shadows on the faces of men and women not eating, hoping thereby to stop the bombs from falling.

At Inspiration House, 1867 Kalorama rd. nw., the week-long fast for peace completed its fifth day yesterday.

Among the faithful 44, energy, like that candle's flame, began to flicker. But spirits stayed high, eyes gleamed brighter with devotion.

Not From the Same Mold

Who are these 44, who hope to stop the great explosion . . . who have been calling at the White House asking the President to call off the H ("for Hell") Bomb and at the Soviet Embassy asking Panyushkin to transmit to the Russian people an appeal to rebel against the armaments ordered by the Commissars . . .

They appear to be a spectacularly varied lot.

Varied in age, 17 to 67; in color, from white to Negro to one Hopi Indian chief; in education from grammar school graduate to doctor of philosophy.

Varied from a sweater-wearing college girl from New York to an aging woman who had to use her burial money to get here from California on a bus.

Pacifist a Month

Lucie Lord is statuesque and 22, a Hunter College (New York) philosophy and French student:

"I've only been a pacifist a month. I'd been seeking something for a long time. Then I found it in the idea: 'Do good if possible but never do evil.'"

Mrs. Katie Voorhies is a blind Negro woman, 67, with curly black-and-white hair. She is even going without water. She took the 140 silver dollars she had saved for her funeral and used them to come from her home in Tracy, Calif.

Juanita Nelson, who hails from Cincinnati, Ohio, was just as bright-looking and alert as though she were on a picnic.

The younger ones are bearing up quite well physically. Howard Douglas, 17, Glen Gardner, N. J., was able to change a flat tire on the third day.

Two Take to Their Beds

But two of the older ones took to bed on the fourth day.

One was Mrs. Walter Longstreth, 62, wife of a Philadelphia attorney . . . "an old Philadelphia Quaker name. . . ."

She has been anemic and her doctor warned her sternly against the East. Mrs. Longstreth told him: "The issues involved, Doctor, are so important I'm willing to take the chance."

From another bed in another room, came a voice like that of the prophets, from a gaunt face:

"Today is as in the days of Noah, when people were eating, drinking, marrying and giving in marriage until the days that the floods came and took them away. . . ."

It was A. J. Muste, 65, Presbyterian minister, national secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation . . .

Indian Observes Fasters

Differently indeed spoke Paula Waxman, 25-year-old secretary at Columbia University, who was carrying a Lillian Smith novel under her arm.

"My being here is not from religious convictions. To me pacifism opened up a whole new way of life . . ."

Dan Katchowgva, full-blooded Hopi Indian, was not fasting but being in town for Indian affairs was on hand at Inspiration House as an observer.

Some of the fasters looked for a miracle. The eyes of Bayard Rustin, secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation youth division, gleamed as he spoke:

"In history it's the very small thing which turns the course of history. Jesus and his disciples. Now, a small band of adherents dedicated to nonviolence."

Down the hall, in the chapel of Inspiration House, the eight-day candle flickered and flared, flared and flickered.

Fast Time Tossed Back To Congress

Poll Completed, City Heads Return Issue to House, Now in Recess

Washington's Commissioners yesterday tossed back to the House the issue of District daylight-saving legislation, just as the House took time out from legislating.

The Commissioners announced they are instructing Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West to report to the House District Committee the three-to-one majority favoring daylight-saving time here shown in the Commissioners' poll.

Timing of the poll, it developed, may have been such as to keep daylight-saving time from being on time this year. But there is still a chance it can start April 30 when other major cities set their clocks ahead one hour.

Because the poll was in progress, the House District Committee passed up a chance to send the daylight-saving time legislation to the floor and get it passed before the House's Easter recess which started yesterday.

The next opportunity for House District Committee action will come after the House returns to sessions April 18.

District Chairman John L. McMillan (D., S. C.) has told his committee colleagues he will call a special meeting on the daylight-saving bill of Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.). The meeting could be held in time to get the Klein bill to the House floor for action in the one remaining District day of this month—April 24

Klein's bill would let the Commissioners put daylight-saving time into effect April 30 (or later) and continue it not later than the last Sunday in September, the 24th.

Citizens Group Urges Health Permit to Pools

The Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association focused its attention on the swimming pool problem last night at a special meeting, and adopted two motions unanimously.

First, the group advocated that three of the six pools be for the exclusive use of white children. Second, it urged that a compulsory health certificate be required before admittance to any pool as a safeguard against communicable diseases.

Meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Helen Fritz, 900 Evarts st. ne., the association also backed the 5-day, 40-hour week for the Metropolitan police force and urged that Congress appropriate funds for 100 more policemen.

Northeast Council

An alternative to the Recreation Board's proposal that McKinley pool be restricted to Negro use was offered by the Northeast Council of Citizens Associations.

The group unanimously favored the use of the pool on a split-week basis by both races. The meeting took place at the Twelfth Precinct Station House with Ralph Donnelly in charge.

Repairman Injured Between Rail Cars

A 26-year-old car repairman was seriously injured yesterday when he was crushed between two railroad cars at the Fruit Growers Express repair yard near Alexandria.

Cecil V. Hawkins, of Annandale, suffered multiple fractures of the pelvis when one of the two cars shifted as he attempted to step between them, Fairfax County police said. Fellow workmen had to move one of the cars to free him.

Hawkins was reported in good condition at Alexandria Hospital last night.

Dupont Circle Open to Traffic Easter Sunday for 24 Hours

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

Dupont Circle, closed to traffic nearly 25 months ago, will open to limited vehicular use at 7:30 a. m. Easter Sunday—but only for 24 hours.

At 7:30 a. m. Monday, the roadblocks again will go up until next Wednesday or Thursday, now set as the permanent opening dat for surface travel from all approaches.

Word that the holiday opening will be limited, one-day proposition was disclosed last night by Highway Director J. N. Robertson, who explained the strip of concrete poured yesterday at the south end of the circle—above the tunnel underpass—will not be usable by Sunday.

Therefore, drivers may not make a complete swing around the circle if they plan a Sunday visit to the project. The second closing early next week has become necessary, Robertson explained, to permit workmen to lay asphalt on the south end road strip.

But Robertson reassured the area's businessmen the circle will be in shape for their planned Easter parade along Connecticut ave.

For motorists figuring on a trial run through the circle Sunday, they will find only these routes possible:

Connecticut ave., for both north and southbound travel. Southbound motorists also may pass through the circle on 19th st. nw. and New Hampshire ave.

Those entering from other approaches can make only a partial swing around the circle.

Robertson said he is "very disappointed" all the surface work will not be completed by Sunday as he had previously hoped, but pointed out he had never promised area merchants any more than surface travel on Connecticut ave. and adjoining sidewalks. This promise will be kept, he said.

April 25 still is the hoped-for opening date for the underpass, Robertson said last night, adding that a rainy spell conceivably could cause a slight delay.

For Sunday and probably until the underpass is finished, the present one-way detours around the circle will remain in effect, but on an "optional" basis, George E. Keneipp, District traffic director, said last night.

He urged all except "local traffic" (persons shopping or working in the immediate Dupont Circle area) to continue to by-pass the circle until the entire job is wound up. The two surface lanes on Connecticut ave. cannot handle the roadway's normal traffic lead, he explained.

For northbound cars, the detour route is via 18th st. to R st. nw.; for southbound traffic it is Florida ave. to 21st st. nw.

The circle yesterday was crawling with workmen and hundreds of sidewalk onlookers.

North of the circle is virtually completed with the final touches of blacktop surface laid yesterday afternoon.

South of the circle where two 300-foot strips of concrete were poured yesterday—the project bottleneck—last night's expected freeze gave workmen an added job.

Several truckloads of baled straw were spread over the new concrete to protect it from freezing while still moist.

Connecticut Avenue Parade To Top Show of Easter Finery

Easter finery will be on parade throughout the Washington area Saturday and Sunday.

In the District, an Easter parade and "fashion hunt," sponsored by the Connecticut Avenue Association, will be the top event Sunday.

From 12:30 to 4:30 p. m. the promenade and judging area will extend from Lafayette Park on the south to Florida ave. on the north along Connecticut ave.

Prizes totaling between $1500 and $2000 will go to "best-dressed" winners in 15 different categories. Among them are best-dressed family, husband and wife (under 60), husband and wife (over 60), mother and daughter, father and son, boy and girl twins, matrons and misses, bachelor, young lady with escort, young lady with escort (in uniform), most exciting bonnet, and best-dressed dog.

Judges will cruise the promenade area in cars, pick their winners and take them to one of the two central headquarters, the Mayflower Hotel or the Dupont Plaza Hotel.

Winners will be given cards entitling them to "claim their prize at their convenience" from the shop that donated the award.

Another feature will be several sidewalk radio interviews.

Horace J. Meyers, president of the Connecticut Avenue Association, and Alfred Pasternak, chairman of the parade committee, are handling arrangements for the event.

Silver Spring's nattiest dressers are in for cash awards in the community's Board of Trade second annual Easter promenade.

Four prizes of $25 each will be awarded the best-dressed man, woman, child and family who take part in the event, sponsored by the board's retail merchants committee.

The promenade will take place between 1 and 2:30 p.m. along Georgia ave. from the District line to Colesville rd. and along Colesville rd. to Fenton st.

Roberta Rule and Jackson Weaver of Station WMAL, and Frazier Webster of the Marjorie Webster School, will join the parade.

In Falls Church, Va., the outburst of Easter finery is set for Saturday. A parade, under auspices of the Greater Falls Church Chamber of Commerce, will be held from 1 to 4 p.m., featuring floats, bands and marching units of Scouts and civic groups. Line of march will begin at S. Washington and Cameron sts., and end at the Falls Church High School on Hillwood ave.

Brig. Gen. S. R. Hinds, United States Army (ret.) will be grand marshal. Chairman is Francis A. Wagner.

On Sunday, the National Negro Opera Company and several Negro civic groups have scheduled an Easter parade, starting at 3:30 p. m. It will move along U st. nw., from 10th to 15th sts. up 15th to Corcoran to 14th sts. nw. There the group will proceed to an Easter symposium program at the John Wesley A. M. E. Zion Methodist Church.

The program is part of a $250,000 fund drive to establish an opera headquarters building here.

Rape Attempt Suspect Shot As He Tries to Flee Police

Brought down while fleeing by a policeman's bullet, in his back, a man was in critical condition in Gallinger Hospital yesterday. He was under police guard, charged with assault with intent to commit rape.

The defendant is Benjamin Lewis, 27, of 742 7th st. ne.

About 12:30 a. m., near Half and K sts. se., Police Pvt. T. R. Thomas, walking his beat, heard a woman screaming. As he approached, a man fled. Thomas said he pursued, firing in the air twice, as a warning to stop.

When the fugitive kept going, Thomas said, he fired once at the man and shortly afterward found him on the ground near a filling station in the 1100 block of S. Capitol st. Thomas summoned an ambulance.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Helen Carroll, 32, of 217 I st. sw., mother of nine children. She told police she had left the home of friends and walked to the bus stop to meet another friend. When that person did not arrive, she said, she started to return to the home where she had been. Then, she said, the attack occurred. She said she was not injured.

Lieut. E. E. Scott, head of the robbery squad, said Lewis has a long police record including robbery, housebreaking and attempted safe burglary.

Cherry Fete, Easter Due To Attract 250,000

Combination Called A 'Natural' for Bringing in Visitors; Traffic Plan Drawn

Blossoming cherry trees, the Easter Sunday holiday, and the Cherry Blossom Festival—a combination even the staid Board of Trade calls "a natural"—were expected yesterday to draw 250,000 visitors to Washington over the week-end.

Meantime, National Capital Parks made plans to spray the trees today or Saturday. Park Police outlined plans for traffic in the Tidal Bason area.

The Greater National Capital Committee arranged for four searchlights to play over the trees beginning today. And even the weather could be counted on, with warm and mostly fair predicted.

The cold snap that hit Washington Wednesday night and all day yesterday shouldn't hurt the cherry trees one bit, reported George W. Harding, chief horticulturist for National Capital Parks.

Harding's only worry was when to spray. Today would be the logical day, if the blossoms have reached the proper stage for spraying.

Harding was afraid that crowds around the Tidal Basin would make things difficult Saturday.

He revealed, incidentally, that it's not a "hormone" that's sprayed on the trees.

It's a growth-regulating acid called napthalene-ascetic acid, and it works best on younger trees, helping to preserve the blooms five to eight days longer.

The searchlights that will be turned on beginning tonight are Army anti-aircraft lgihts of 800-million candle power each. Three come from Fort Meade, and one from Fort Belvoir. A Fort Meade unit will operate them.

They'll be turned on every night—from dusk until about 10 p. m.—as long as the blossoms are in bloom.

Park Police Chief M. H. Rasberry warned motorists that "very little" parking space will be available in the cherry-tree sectors of the city. He suggested that District and nearby residents use public transportation as close as they can, then go the rest of the way on foot.

Motorists will be prohibited from "stopping, standing or parking." Plainclothes policemen will be detailed, Inspector Rasberry said, to see that blossoms aren't picked. The penalty is $25.

Parties Secondary With Mrs. Mesta

By Marie McNair
Post Reporter

Mrs. George Mesta, American Minister to Luxembourg, and Mrs. Henry F. Grady, wife of the United States Ambassador to Greece, womanlike, went shopping on their first day back on home soil.

Perle Mesta brought Paris frocks back with her, but she shopped for American-made shoes in New York yesterday before entraining for Washington where she's staying at the Sulgrave Club.

Mrs. Grady who flew in from Athens, was met by her daughter, Mrs. John Davies, and the two headed first thing to the hat department at Garfinckel's where Lucretia Grady bought one hat, and followed that purchase with lots of shoes.

Washington's No. 1 hostess before her diplomatic appointment eight months ago, Mrs. Mesta is returning for conferences at the State Department. She'll have a desk there and will report every day. Mrs. Mesta says she's very happy in her job, and tremendously interested. She looks younger than when she went away, even if a bit plumper.

Interviewed in New York yesterday before train time, she was more anxious to talk about economic conditions than her social life in the Luxembourg capital.

"Can't we get away from that question about parties?" she said. "I'm trying to do a job over there."

Luxembourg, Mrs. Mesta explained, is in good shape economically, with its steel industry, the sixth largest in the world, operating at 80 percent of capacity. "Everybody works," she continued, "and everybody likes to work. There are no lazy people."

Asked whether she preferred Luxembourg to Washington or Newport, she replied that she didn't miss Washington at all, and she added that she is not looking for any change of post, that she is grateful to President Truman for the appointment.

Welcome home parties already arranged for "our Perle" include a dinner to be given by the Luxembourg Minister and Mme. LeGalais on April 17 and another dinner by retiring Undersecretary of Commerce and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney on April 19.

Mrs. Grady faces a schedule that might stagger Mrs. Roosevelt. Here for the Greek Cavalcade of Fashions which she conceived in Athens last fall and which will be shown April 13 at the Mayflower, Mrs. Grady has a list of parties in her honor which would almost reach back to the Greek capital.

If there was a Democrat at Mrs. Howard Coffin's tea yesterday, he came in by way of the back door.

The hostess, Republican National Committeewoman for the District of Columbia, entertained for Guy Gabrielson, Republican National Committee chairman, and Mrs. Gabrielson, and for Mrs. Gifford Mayes, new assistant chairman of the GOP. Former Representative Coffin came to his wife's party and Clyde Garrett, District National Committeeman, accompanied Mrs. Garrett.

Mrs. Coffin, first in the receiving line, introduced guests to Mr. and Mrs. Gabrielson, Mrs. Mayes and Miss Bertha Adkins, recently appointed executive director of the women's division of the Republican National Committee.

Assisting at the tea table were Mrs. Owen Brewster, Mrs. Harry Cain, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. Robert Taft, Mrs. James Kem, Mrs. Eugene Millikin, Mrs. Homer Ferguson, Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, Mrs. Carl Mundt, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, Representative Katherine St. George, Mrs. Bourke Hickenlooper, Mrs. Carroll Kearns, Mrs. Robert Hendrickson, Mrs. James Wilkes, Mrs. Joseph McGarraghy, Mrs. Davis Elkins, Mrs. William S. Culbertson, Mrs. Burks Summers, Mrs. Roy St. Lewis, Mrs. Parker West, Mrs. Emil Hurja, Mrs. Carl Stefan and Mrs. Clarence Brown.

Guests of Honor

The Norwegian Ambassador, Wilhelm Munthe Morgenstierne, dean of the Diplomatic Corps., and Mrs. Morgenstierne, were the guests in whose honor the de Thomen entertained at dinner last evening.

Others were the Ambassador of Italy and Signora Tarchiani; the Turkish Ambassador, Feridun Erkin, without Mme. Erkin, who is ill; the Paraguay Ambassador and Senora de Boettner; the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Charles Brennan; Senator Theodore F. Green; the Governor of the Central Bank of the Dominican Republic and Senora de Troncoso; Mme. Vladimir Rybar; Mr. and Mrs. Max Truitt; Dr. and Mrs. William A. Morgan and Senorita Olga Finke.

The Argentine Ambassador, Jeronimo Remorino, was host at dinner last evening in honor of the newly appointed Dominican Ambassador to the Argentine, Joaquin Salazar and Senora de Salazar. Senor Salazar has been serving as Dominican Minister to the Organization of American States.

In the company also were the Argentine Minister of the Treasury, Ramon Cereijo and Senora de Cereijo; the Counselor of the Argentine Embassy and Senora de Errecart; the Counselor of the Argentine Embassy and Senora de Quiros; the Counselor of the Argentine Embassy and Senora de Anchorena; the Alternate Delegate to OAS Enrique Ferrer Vieyra and Senora de Vieyra; and Paulino Feijo.

Bethesda Man Fined for Contempt

Baltimore, April 6 (Spl.)—A bankrupt Bethesda meat buyer and salesman was arrested today, and fined $100 for contempt of court by a Federal judge.

John S. Shoemaker, of 4517 Harling ln., was arrested by a deputy United States marshal on orders of Chief Judge William C. Coleman, after he had failed to appear in court yesterday.

Shoemaker had been ordered to show cause why he should not appear in the court today and be adjudged in contempt of court for failure to turn part of his assets, an automobile, over to C. Damer McKenrick, trustee in Shoemaker's bankruptcy case.

When both Shoemaker and his counsel failed to appear, Judge Coleman dispatched the deputy marshal to arrest the man in Bethesda. Court records noted that Shoemaker had previously ignored two letters and a telegram from the trustee, and a bankruptcy referee's order, in addition to the order of the court.

Shoemaker contended he had given the keys to his car to one of his attorneys, Samuel Gordon, of Takoma Park, on Wednesday night, and that he thought the attorney would take care of delivery of the $1250 car.

The trustee told the court he had been advised of the delivery of the keys, but said Gordon disclosed he had another court matter to attend to today and would be unable to attend the proceedings here.

Gordon, reached last night, admitted receiving the keys, and said he had informed McKenrick's office that the car could be picked up in a lot behind his office at 8237 Georgia ave., Silver Spring.

"As far as I am concerned," the lawyer said, "this is all an unfortunate misunderstanding, and much ado about nothing. I couldn't be two places at once, and I had a prior commitment in District Court."

Judge Coleman announced he would issue an order calling on Gordon, and Ellis Klein, Washington counsel for Shoemaker, to show cause why they did not attend the hearing here today. Klein could not be reached last night.

A schedule filed in the bankruptcy matter disclosed that Shoemaker's liabilities amount to $111,618, while his assets, including the cash surrender value of insurance policies and the automobile, are worth $5161.

Senate District Chairman Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.) yesterday ordered a public hearing for next Tuesday on three bills he introduced to revise District labor laws.

One bill would increase the scale of unemployment benefits from $20 for 20 weeks to $30 for 26 weeks, and make other revisions in the law.

Another bill would provide for at least semimonthly pay days in private employment here. A third bill would apply the District minimum wage law to adult males to keep them from competition with women and minors now covered by the law.

The Tuesday hearing is to start at 10 a. m. It will be conducted by the full Senate District Committe in its hearing room in the Capitol Building.

Traffic Lights Near School Are Refused

On the recommendation of traffic officials, District Commissioners yesterday refused the request of the Oyster School P-TA for a traffic signal light at 29th and Calvert sts. nw.

George E. Keneipp, director of Vehicles and Traffic, reported traffic counts showed a light is not justified at the intersection adjacent to the school. Keneipp said his record showed no school children had been injured in a traffic accident there since 1947, and that only one accident out of nine there could have been prevented by signals.

Cuba Asks Both Sides Be Told in Caribbean Controversies

By The Associated Press

Dr. Ernesto Dihigo, Cuban minister of state, yesterday called on the organization of American States to tell both sides of the story in its report on unrest in the Caribbean.

A Five-Nation Committee, which recently investigated a series of plots and counterplots, found that Cuba along with Guatemala and the Dominican Republic were to blame for the disturbances and feudings.

Dihigo said his government has asked this fact-finding committee of the OAS to amend draft resolution No. 2 which says that there existed in Cuba in 1947 "armed groups of various nationalities . . . for the unconcealed purpose of overthrowing" the Dominican government.

This, the minister contended, does not present all the pertinent facts.

Amendments sought by his nation would state that:

1. The activities of the armed groups were ended by the Cuban government;
2. A breach of treaties resulted from the grant of war powers to President Trujillo of the Dominican Republic;
3. The Dominican government interfered in the internal affairs of other American republics.

"The main cause of all the trouble in the Caribbean is the lack of democracy in some places," Dr. Dihigo said.

He added that "exiles are one of the main causes of our trouble."

Explaining that the Cuban constitution offers asylum to all political exiles, the Minister said their activity is unrestricted as long as they obey the laws of the land.

"We have full freedom of expression," he declared, "and we do not intend to cut that freedom at all.

"I told the council (of the OAS) yesterday that between abuse of that freedom and censorship, we prefer abuse."

Riegel Has Three-Under-Par 69 to Lead Masters

The Washington Post Sports
4B Friday, April 7, 1950

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

AUGUSTA, GA., April 6.—For the cowards in the clubhouse who had no heart for the chill and the wind of the opening day of the Masters, Gene Sarazen had at least a novel answer when they asked, "How'd ja do out there?"

"I shot a fast 80," said Sarazen, who put together a pair of even 40s. Sarazen meant, he said, that he got his 80 without delay, and a minimum of fussing around.

POVICH

He wasn't sure, he said, if the boys play better golf these days, "but they play slower golf. Demaret and I teed off six minutes ahead of Stranahan and young Kirkwood. There was a four-hole gap when we finished."

They want everything but a meteorological report before they step up to a shot on or near the green, Sarazen declared. "I don't mind 'em studying their putts from all angles, but they've got every 100-shooting duffer in the country going into the same kind of a clinical study and soliloquy because they think it's fashionable."

DEMARET, who tied for second with his 70, finished in a dead heat with Joe Kirkwood, jr., for the sartorial lead. Demaret was practically illuminated in a cherry-red turtle neck sweater, lemon-green slacks, pea green socks and yellow suede spiked shoes. Kirkwood was aglitter in a rainbow ensemble all his own.

Technicolor missed out on its greatest shot of all time, on the second hole when Kirkwood hooked his brassie to the left of the green, into a flower garden abloom with azaleas. Against the reddish background, with his eight-iron glinting in the sun, and his own red-yellows busting out all over, Kirkwood was a splash of color.

Sarazen, who last won this tournament 15 years ago and is now crowding 50, did not find the day a total loss despite his 80, which left him 11 strokes behind Skee Riegel, the leader. Gene suddenly discovered he was a successful author. Today was the publication date of his book, "Thirty Years of Championship Golf," and the gallery gobbled up the books that were on sale near the first tee at $2.50 per copy.

EVEN AS YOU and I, Sarazen said he was hitting the ball well, played better than his scoring showed. "Too many three-put greens. Ordinarily, putting is 50 percent of golf. Today, on those greens, yes, and even putting against crosswinds, it was 65 percent of your scoring."

Sammy Snead was happily content with his 71 of the opening round, despite the three short putts he missed, which cost him the lead. Snead's pleasure was one of contrasts. He was talking about the bad start last year when he opened up with 73, followed with a 75 only to finish with two 67s to wind up on top and win his first Masters.

"A year ago tonight, after the opening round, I felt like picking up my marbles and going home," said Snead. "I think I'll stay around a while." Snead is reaching for a particular kind of fame in the Masters. Nobody has ever won it two years in a row. He'd like to be the first, for the pleasure of that distinction which carries with it a $2000 check, certified by the bigwigs who run the Masters.

IT WAS THE Snead-Byron Nelson duo which carried 70 percent of the first day's gallery, although there was a special sort of reverence when little Ben Hogan teed off. In fact, Hogan was the only golfer in the field who drew spontaneous applause as he stepped on the first tee. Everybody remembered that a year ago he was flat on his back in a Texas hospital, and wasn't supposed, ever, to play golf again, even if he lived.

Hogan shot a smart 35 on the first nine and finished with a respectable 73 that left him only four strokes behind. Too many fives, four of 'em on the last nine, indicated that the sure touch was missing.

But he's the sentimental if not the actual favorite and if he stays close, the big galleries of Saturday and Sunday are certain to adopt him.

How fleeting can be the fame of winning the Masters, though, was demonstrated when Herman Keiser (1946) and Claude Harmon (1948) played their first-round twosome. Their gallery consisted of their respective caddies, who were paid to accompany 'em.

NBA May Hold Open-Air Playoffs In Syracuse

Syracuse, N. Y., April 6 (AP).—Open-air basketball for the finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs appeared a possibility tonight.

Syracuse University's Archbold Stadium may be the scene of one or more of the games between the Syracuse Nationals and their NBA championship series foes.

Transfer of the site to the orange football field would permit the Nats to accommodate nearly 40,000 spectators. The Coliseum has housed 10,700. The weather is the biggest question.

Baksi, Reynolds Clash Tonight

New York, April 6 (AP).—It's being billed as the "battle of the last chance," the 10-round meeting of heavyweight Joe Baksi and Bernie Reynolds at St. Nicholas Arena tomorrow night.

Both had golden chances in the talent-starved heavyweight division and both kicked opportunities right out the door. (The fight will be televised in Washington by WNBW and broadcast by WMAL, at 10 p. m.)

Baksi, the 28-year-old husky of Kulpmont, Pa., is rated a 1 to 2 favorite over the 24-year-old playboy-fighter from Fairfield, Conn.

Parnell Hurls Nine-Inning Four-Hitter; Ted Homers

Jacksonville, Fla., April 6 (AP).—Mel Parnell, smooth-working lefthander who won 25 games last season, became the first Boston Red Sox hurler to go nine innings today when he turned in a four-hit performance as the American Leaguers shut out the Jacksonville Tars of the Sally League, 12-0.

Parnell never was in trouble and didn't seem bothered by the chill winds which swept the field during the game attended by 2100 fans.

Antonelli Puts Out the Fire

Columbia, S. C., April 6 (AP).—Boston's Braves, aided by clutch pitching of bonus lefthander Johnny Antonelli, shut off a ninth inning rally by the Cincinnati Reds to win the opener of a northward exhibition tour, 8-7, today.

With one out and runners on first and third, Antonelli took over before 2867 chilled fans. Lloyd Merriman forced Johnny Wyrostek at second as Bobby Adams scored but Antonelli then got power getting Ted Kluszewski to foul out and end the game.

Tuzo Say No to Kansas K.O.

NEW YORK, APRIL 6 (AP).—The mystery of who took the 10-count last night in Wichita, Kans., deepened tonight when Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez stepped forth to insist he wasn't the man.

"I never hear of Kansas, I never hear of this fellow Williams," the unmarked, curly-haired Costa Rican told the Associated press in outraged Spanish.

Meanwhile, a hunt went on for the 152-pounder who, using Portuguez' name, was kayoed in 2 minutes, 33 seconds by Alvin Williams, 161-pound Wichita Indian.

"I haven't been out of the city. I haven't fought anybody since Paddy Young," Portuguez, a Madison square garden headliner, said.

"I'd like to find this fellow," he said. "It embarrasses me much in my home country."

In Wichita, commission and fight officials said they only knew that a man registering as Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez signed to fight Williams. The battler took the count, collected his money and checked out. He hasn't been heard from since.

L. D. (Mike) Leland, inspector for the Kansas State Athletic Commission, said a probe was being started.

SUSPICION FIRST reared itself during the fight when the man listed at Portuguez came out, threw a few powder-puff blows and then was banged to the canvas.

Sports writers at the ringside were the first ones skeptical of the fighter's identity. Could this be the man who fought three Madison Square Garden fights and even stopped Paddy Young in one of them, they asked.

The fighter knocked out had the words "Dolores" tattooed boldly in his chest. Nobody ever had seen a tatto on Portuguez.

"See, no tattoo," the Costa Rican said as he stripped off a tan gabardine jacket and red sports shirt in the Associated Press office to reveal an unpainted, muscled chest.

Kuzava Spins 2-0 One-Hitter

Houston, Tex., April 6 (AP).—Lefty Bob Kuzava yielded only one hit in the first nine-inning exhibition trick by a Chicago White Sox pitcher as the Hose nipped Houston of the Texas League, 2-0, today.

Houston's sole blow was Nick Adzick's double down the left field foul line in the fifth inning. The hit was fair by inches. Kuzava's brilliant performance developed after a shaky first inning. He walked two batters in the first, but escaped trouble through a double play.

Terp Lacrosse Team Romps

Maryland's lacrosse men administered a 17-2 walloping to visiting Harvard yesterday at College Park, at one time scoring at the machine-gun pace of four goals in 1 minute 50 seconds.

The burst came in the second quarter in which the Terrapins added six goals to a two-goal first session for an 8 to 1 intermission lead.

Bucs Devalue $100,000 Paul Pettit

New Orleans, April 6 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates knocked their $100,000 bonus baby pitcher, Paul Pettit, all over the lot today as they defeated their New Orleans farm club, 10-7, for their fifth consecutive exhibition win.

Pettit, the 18-year-old Californian who was purchased a few weeks ago by the Bucks, gave up six runs in the first inning. He loaded the bases with three consecutive walks, gave up three singles and a double, uncorked a wild pitch, had a balk and was the victim of a double steal.

The youngster was allowed to stay in the game for three more innings and came through them unscathed.

Five Shoot 70 to Tie For Second; Snead Posts 71, Hogan 73

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

Augusta, Ga., April 6 (AP).—Swaggering Skee Riegel, who recently gave up the life of a nomadic golf amateur to join the ranks of the pros, outdid all the money-winning tourists today in the opening round of the fourteenth Masters tournament.

Riegel, who now hails from Tulsa, Okla., fired a round of 33-36—69 early in the day and made it stand up as the more celebrated rivals battled the biting wind and the difficult Augusta National course.

Four of the top-rank pros, including Jim Ferrier, who was paired with Riegel, and one younger player, shared second place one stroke behind. Besides Ferrier, they were two-time Masters winner Horton Smith of Detroit; Lawson Little, the Monterey, Calif., veteran; gaily-garbed Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., and 26-year-old Herchel Spears of Huntsville, Ala. Little collected an eagle three on the fifteenth hole.

Defending champion Sammy Snead, hampered by an aching back as well as the weather, had a 71 to share the next spot with Toney Penna of Cincinnati. Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., was the only one who exactly matched par 36-36—72 for the tree-lined, rolling 6900-yard course.

Fazio Ties Hogan

The sentimental favorite, Ben Hogan, still not fully recovered from his near-fatal automobile accident over a year ago, came in with a 73 to tie National amateur champion Charles Coe of Oklahoma City and George Fazio of Woodmont Country Club, Washington, D. C. Hogan, after going out in a one-under-par 35, slipped to a 38 on the back nine.

At that, he didn't have quite as much trouble as his playing partner, Norman von Nida of Australia. Von Nida figured in a minor "rhubarb" when he drove on the short sixteenth before Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., in the preceding twosome, had decided what to do about his drive, which had landed in the water.

The Australian's ball landed within a few inches of Heafner's and the North Carolinian argued that he couldn't tell which was which. It took a bit of debating by the tournament committee before the matter was settled.

Riegel won't be eligible to collect prize money in P. G. A.-sponsored events until next June, when his six-months probationary period ends, but he can pick up the cash here. The Masters doesn't come under P. G. A. restrictions.

Winner of the National amateur championship in 1947, the stocky, 180-pound Riegel, a former football player at West Point and Lafayette, has been touring with the pros since January, but hasn't finished among the leaders in any tournament.

Today, his low, wind-splitting drives were just what were needed to counteract the gusty winds that chilled some 6000 spectators.

Riegel's Putter Hot

But it was Riegel's putter hot on the big, slick greens that counted the most toward producing birdies. He sank several putts of 15 feet or more and barely missed other long ones.

After going out in 33, three under par, Skee slipped over twice on the back nine, both times because he missed putts by narrow margins. These slips came on the tenth and eighteenth holes, for his only five of the round. Good approach shots gave him birdie fours on the long thirteenth and fifteenth holes.

Ferrier, matching Riegel stroke for stroke and putt for putt most of the way, ran into some trouble on the last five holes.

Snead, playing rather erratically, birdied the eighth, ninth, thirteenth and fifteenth holes to shave one stroke off par. He was over regulation figures on three par four holes for a 35-36—71 card. Followed by the largest part of the gallery, Sammy's swing seemed to lack some of its old smoothness.

Harrison Picks Up After Water Trouble

Augusta, Ga., April 6 (AP).—Dutch Harrison withdrew from the Masters golf tournament today in the first round, just four days after winning the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N. C.

On the outgoing nine he shot an acceptable 38, two over par. Then came the deluge—literally. He hit the water on No. 15 and twice more on No. 16 with that he called the round off.

—Harris Playing Percentages—

It'll Be Weik by Night, Nagy by Day

By a Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., April 6.—Bucky Harris, who sadly admits he'll have to scrouge and scramble to get some good out of his Washington pitching staff, today announced a couple of new steps in that direction.

"I'm going to start young Dick Weik in the first night game we play and pitch him only at night if I can," Harris stated. "And Steve Nagy will work only the day games, as I plan it."

It's all a matter of trying to take advantage of the percentages, Harris declared.

"I can't kid myself about young Weik being wild," he said. "He is. But with all that stuff he can fire, he has a better chance of winning at night when the hitters are more apt to be swinging at the close ones.

"Weik has been walking too many, but he hasn't been missing the plate by much. A lot of those close pitches the batters take in the daytime, they can't afford to take at night. Under the lights they don't judge a ball as well. Weik pumps hard, and I figure he won't tire as much at night, either."

In Nagy's case, Harris is banking on the hot daytime sun to make him more effective. He's an older man, and he likes the daytime heat for the good it will do his shoulder. I'm not worried about Nagy's control. He always did have it. But it would be a disadvantage to have him working after sundown, unless the night is warm."

As another measure to extract the absolute maximum from his dubious pitching staff, Harris today put in a requisition for a pair of electrically-heated overjackets for use by his pitchers between innings and while waiting in the bullpen.

"Those jackets could be a smart investment at a cost of $100 each," said Harris. "We used 'em when I managed the Yankees. They are insulated electrically and the pitcher who wears one on the bench or in the bullpen, simply plugs in a cord and gets the heat to keep his arm limber.

"Joe Page used to use one while waiting to be called from the bullpen on cold days. And if we happen to have a big inning at bat, a 15-minute inning say, our pitcher might stiffen up during the long wait. With the jackets, he can at least keep his arm loose."

IN SHORT . . . The Nats were put through base-running and cut-off play routines by Harris again today, on their third consecutive gameless day." . . . Tomorrow they face another open date before swinging into two final games with the A's at Tinker Field . . . Sid Hudson was throwing the ball hard today, and happily saying he was rid of his back trouble . . . Pending the success of starting pitchers, Ray Scarborough, Hudson, Haynes, Nagy and Weik, Manager Harris is saving southpaw Mickey Harris for relief roles . . . If too many of his starters flop, the Nats' boss will promote Harris to a starting job quickly.

Consuegra 'Joins' Nats, Miffs Griff, Unjoins Them

Orlando, April 6.—A small item of $3000 today sent Sandalio Consuegra, rookie Cuban pitcher, back home before he had a chance even to put on a uniform.

Consuegra, who reported along with fellow countryman Roberto Oritz last night, asked President Clark Griffith for an audience. After a short huddle, the bewildered Griffith said: "I've just lost a pitcher before he even started."

It seems Consuegra signed with an outlaw Venezuelan team and received $3000. Then he decided to cast his lot with the Nats but he had spent his bonus and wanted the Nats to compensate the Venezuelan club. Griffith decided he wasn't worth it and sent Consuegra packing back to Cuba by the first plane today.

Eddie Robinson, currently setting the hottest batting pace among the Nats with a .433 average, was confined to his home with a heavy cold today. It was variously diagnosed as grippe or virus, but it was said his condition wasn't serious and he'll be ready for the weekend test against the Athletics which winds up the training season here.

6-Year-Old Wins After Long Layoff

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., April 6.—Walter M. Jeffords' Loyal Legion, carrying the money of a legion of backers, came back to the races after a long lay-off to win by two lengths in the Jefferson Purse, featuring a windy, cold turf afternoon.

Winner of $83,120 and 6 of 17 starts in 1948, Loyal Legion went amiss in his third unsuccessful outing of 1949 and today was his first appearance since last year at Delaware Park. The 6-year-old had worked well, however, and his condition was known to the regulars who were satisfied when he returned a $5.80 mutuel.

Loyal Legion, carrying only 109 pounds, was clocked in a creditable 1:12 for the 6 furlongs over the fast track that has been so susceptible to record-breaking at the meeting. A crowd of 8762 saw him win.

Alan T. Clarke's King Mowlee, named for the Kentucky Derby, Chesapeake Trial and Chesapeake Stakes, bounded out of the maiden ranks in the third race, a test for 3-year-old nonwinners. The big son of Alaking took the verdict via the camera with Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Dashing Son second and Arthur Klee's Black Yankee third.

King Mowlee, lightly campaigned last year, was handled by Bobby Mitchell and paid $22.60 after running the 6 furlongs in 1:13 1/5.

The much-broken and equaled 4½-furlong record was matched again today. Cedar Farm's Zagging hung up time of .53 2/5. to become a coholder of the mark along with Tom Q. Ronnie Nash booted the $12.20 shot to the wire.

Those who coupled Zagging with Kerry Airs, owned by E. D. Talbert, jr., of Washington, D. C., collected a $61 daily double on the 8-and-1 combination. Kerry Airs paid $7 and was another winner for Willie Downs, leading rider of the meeting.

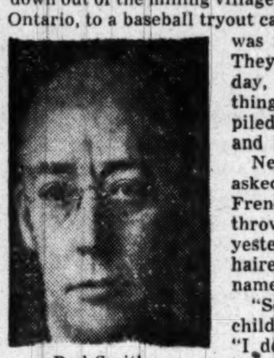
What Can Phil Marchildon Say When Shipped Down River?

By Red Smith

NEW YORK, April 6 (NYHT).—In the spring of 1939 a couple of kids in an old Ford rattled down out of the mining village of Penetanguishene, Ontario, to a baseball tryout camp that Dan Howley was running in Toronto. They worked out one day, nobody said anything to them, and they piled back into the Ford and started home.



Red Smith

Next day Howley asked, "Where's that wild Frenchman that was throwing aspirin tablets yesterday? The black-haired kid, what's his name?"

"Something like Marchildon," Dan was told.

"I don't see him. Guess he quit."

Dan got into his car and drove to Penetanguishene, followed Phil Marchildon down into the mine where he had returned to work, and hauled him back to Toronto. Two years later, Marchildon was pitching for the Athletics.

He was shy and nervous and wild and fast. In 1942, his second season in the major league, he won 17 games for a team so inexpressibly dreary that Connie Mack, late in the season, offered a bonus to the pitcher who could avert the club's hundredth defeat.

Next thing, Marchildon was in the Royal Canadian Air Force riding a light bomber over Europe. One night he was shot down in Kiel Bay. He swam for something like five hours in the dark. He had given up when a light blinked. He blew the whistle that he wore for such an emergency and a Danish fishing boat picked him up, turned him over to the German authorities on shore.

The first prison camp, for Air Force officers, wasn't too bad. The prisoners had an escape committee that forged identification papers, furnished maps, made plans. Sometimes an escape party would make it. Sometimes they'd be caught and killed.

Out of scraps of contraband, the prisoners built a radio, using a piece of fat for a condenser. They kept changing its hiding place, burying it in the earth under a floor, for example, and it would be tuned in once a day for a British newscast. Rats kept finding it, and eating the fat, but although the Germans knew there was a radio somewhere they never located it.

Marchildon was moved to many camps. The regular German soldiers often were decent guys, but the SS troops and special guards—well, Phil saw things like this:

There was a corral with a low inner fence beyond which prisoners were forbidden. A guard stood by while a German soldier outside the corral invited a prisoner over to the outer fence to swap cigarets for food through the wire. The prisoner stepped over the inner fence, and the guard cut him down with a submachine gun burst.

Moved from place to place ahead of the advancing allies, Marchildon slept outdoors through the last few months. At night he heard Lancasters overhead; by day they were the B-17's. When, at last, the allies caught up with them, the prisoners were told to point out the murderers among their guards. This one, they said, and that one, and that. No further trail was required.

A Lancaster flew Marchildon across the channel—he was terrified, swore he'd never get off the ground again—and they started feeding him up in a nursing home. He'd been starved down, but a miner has a hard core of bone and muscle, and he picked up fast. When he went to visit a sister living in England, he was given ration cards equivalent to the allotment for two expectant mothers.

Back to Canada by ship, he was on a train toward home when he passed a camp for German prisoners of war. His fingers ached for a machine gun. The first night back in Penetanguishene, he couldn't sleep in his bed. Took his blankets outside and slept in the yard. A year later, he would wake out of a sound sleep, swimming in Kiel Bay.

He had a good deal of soft fat when he rejoined the Athletics in midseason of 1945 and he was more nervous than ever, but boisterously happy to be back. He won 13 games in 1946 and 19 the next year.

Then, inexplicably, he lost the touch. In 1948 he won nine games and was ill a good deal with some internal disorder. There was some suspicion that a bug he'd picked up in prison camp had stayed with him, but that was hard to believe in view of his two good postwar seasons. Last year he couldn't win a game.

In West Palm Beach a few weeks ago, Connie Mack was enthusiastic about him. Said Phil didn't look nervous, didn't look strained, "he just looked like a pitcher."

Today the announcement came that Marchildon had been sold to Buffalo. Obviously, all American League clubs had waived on him. "We went along with him as far as we could," Connie said.

The dispatch added that Marchildon, "stunned, didn't say a word." What could any guy say, after breaks like Phil's?

Colonials Commit 9 Errors

GW Wallops Dartmouth, 11-4; Lehigh Loses, 7-5, to Hoyas

George Washington University committed nine errors, but Don Druckenmiller socked a bases-loaded home run and the Colonials whipped Dartmouth, 11-4, on the Ellipse yesterday.

Bones Becraft, who pitched GW's other winning game, turned in a seven-hitter, striking out eight. Three singles, three walks and Frank Cavallo's two-run triple gave GW six runs in the fourth inning.

The Colonials had a 7-4 lead with two out in the home eighth when Chet Pietras singled and Bob Cilento and Joe Famulette walked. Then Druckenmiller cleared the bases with his homer to deep left field. It was the second win in four games for the Colonials. Dartmouth has won three and lost seven.

500 ACRES, located in the zone of 7 new gateways to Washington. South Capitol st. gateway is open for traffic with the capacity of 50,000 automobiles a day. That brings this 500 acres within 12 minutes of the White House. The other gateways coming in from Alexandria over the Potomac to this neighborhood. Another gateway, East Capitol St. Bridge will be built real soon. Another gateway, the Baltimore Blvd. is also coming into this neighborhood. The Penna. Ave. Bridge and the 11th St. Bridge are already in operation in this neighborhood. This makes the greatest gateway into Washington. If you want to make value comparison with the Virginia bridges across the Potomac, the 14th St. Bridge South where the Hot Shoppe is located in Virginia is worth a million an acre. The Key Bridge across the Potomac in Georgetown is worth a million an acre in the shopping zone. The Memorial Bridge is also worth a million an acre in the shopping zone. Doesn't that convince you that property where they have 7 gateways should be worth a million an acre before many years. If you want to make money in acreage—you got to get active. See this property, stop your car at the Maryland line and South Capitol st. If you will look ahead 4 squares you will see this 500 acres. Look to the right and look to the left—you will see a hundred million houses and apartments under construction. If you are a subdivider, you can make millions. I am in my 83d year and this subdividing is a young man's job. I am settling my own estate, otherwise I would not sell. Reach me at my home, WO. 0933. Fulton R. Gordon, owner. Brokers' attention.

Circuit Judge Delays Decision In Maryland Pollution Suit

Prince Fredercik, Md., April 6. (AP).—Circuit Judge John B. Gray announced today he would visit the plants of a Prince Georges County sand and gravel company before deciding on the injunction request by the Maryland Water Pollution Commission.

Judge Gray heard arguments by attorneys for the A. H. Smith Gravel and Sand Co., and the commission, which has accused the firm of dumping waste material into Indian Creek.

It was the first case instituted by the commission since its establishment in 1947. Assistant States Attorney Kenneth Proctor handled the proceeding for the commission.

He contended that the company was causing pollution of the creek—a tributary of the northeast branch of the Anacostia River—by discharging silt and mud into it. And he urged granting of the injunction to stop the discharge.

Several experts called as State witnesses testified the percentage of mud and silt in the creek was many times above the permissible maximum.

Paul McKee, executive secretary of the commission, told the court several chemists had taken samples from the stream in the past few months and found considerable pollution.

Waldo Burnside, attorney for the gravel company, contended that other factors were causing the pollution. He said the creek's condition is substantially unchanged since the firm set up operations 27 years ago.

Judge Gray, chief judge of the Seventh Judicial Circuit, withheld a decision, saying he wanted to inspect personally the Branchville plants of the defendant.

Pope Pius XII—Priest and Statesman

Mother Cabrini First American Raised to Honor

Kees Van Hoek, a native of The Hague and now an Irish citizen, has been a correspondent in London, Geneva and the United States. His first biography of Pius XII appeared in 1939. After much research and a private audience with the Pope last fall, Van Hoek has written in "Pope Pius XII, Priest and Statesman," a full and vivid description of the man and his career, from a delicate boy in Rome to supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic world. The biography is presented by The Washington Post during the present Holy Year in 24 daily installments.

Chapter XX—The "Pastor Angelicus"

IT IS understandable that in a life story of the Pope aimed at a wide public, the statesman predominates over the priest, all the more so in such historic times as those in which we live. But a Pontificate is more lastingly marked by his rule in the spiritual than by that in the temporal realm.

First of all come the encyclicals which lay down his views and counsels on all matters of great import. One of his first encyclical letters, "Sertum Laetitiae," of November 1939 was addressed to the hierarchy of the United States; no single body of Catholics is so important in the world today as the faithful of North America. In his encyclical "Mystici Corporis Christi" he reactivates the interest in church liturgy; and the encyclical "Modiator Doi" sets new tasks for Bible research and for a wider reading of the Scriptures.

The most noted and quoted are his great encyclicals of the problems of our time, like "Summi Pontificatus," in which he outlined his policy at the beginning of his reign, or "Que Madmodum" on the needs of postwar times.

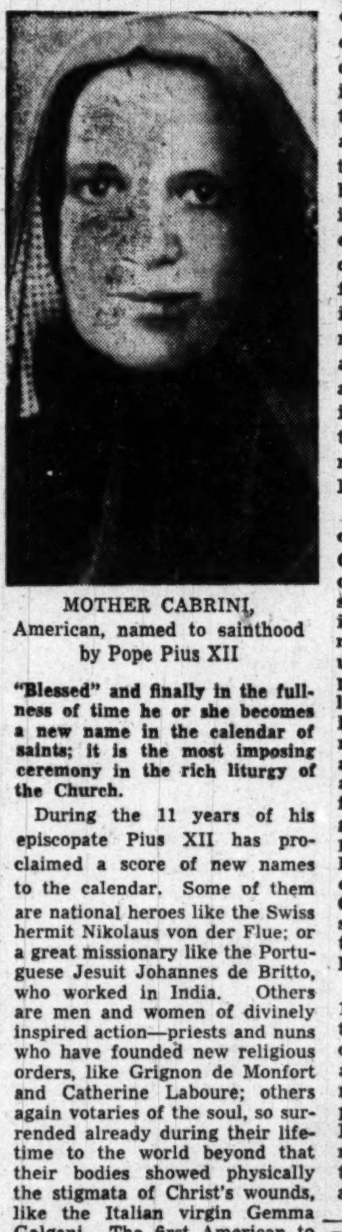
The number of cardinals had been raised to the total of 70 by Pope Sixtus VI in 1586, but not for a century and a half had any Pope filled every vacant seat, as Pius XII did with one single list after the war—and never before had a new nomination been shared by so many nations.

In fact, for the first time in the history of the Church, the Sacred College has a majority of non-Italians. One Red Hat went to Africa. Central America and South America saw their representatives much increased. New metropolitan sees in the United States, like Detroit and St. Louis, were raised to an importance which so far only New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia had known. Thus, the Pope stressed the growing interest of all the Americas in the Church.

One For China

ONE Red Hat went to China. Two of the three new cardinals nominated were not holders of sees normally associated with a cardinalate—as is the privilege of great Catholic centers of population. The Bishop of Berlin, Count von Preysing, was made a cardinal to stress the lasting importance of Berlin, although it has ceased for the time to be the capital of an independent Germany. Count Klemens von Galen, the Bishop of Muenster, was honored as the most courageous anti-Nazi among the many German churchmen who had challenged the brown heresy at every turn. For the first time in Church history the Pope conferred the ceremonial of the heavily tressed Red Hat (which is never worn, once the Pope himself has placed it on a cardinal's head) in the great Basilica of St. Peter. When on that occasion Cardinal von Galen, physically a giant, proceeded to the papal throne the multitude broke out in enthusiastic clapping, as all the world had admired his faith and his fight on the Nazis.

The highest privilege of a pontiff in his final decision—after due and very thorough preparation by the appropriate Church tribunals—on the elevation of great paragons of virtue, outstanding workers for the faith, or martyrs for Christ, to the supreme honor of the sainthood. The Church knows three different stages, first a person is declared venerable, then can follow his beatification, which gives the name the prefix "Blessed" and finally in the fullness of time he or she becomes a new name in the calendar of saints; it is the most imposing ceremony in the rich liturgy of the Church.



MOTHER CABRINI, American, named to sainthood by Pope Pius XII

During the 11 years of his episcopate Pius XII has proclaimed a score of new names to the calendar. Some of them are national heroes like the Swiss hermit Nikolaus von der Flue; or a great missionary like the Portuguese Jesuit Johannes de Britto, who worked in India. Others are men and women of divinely inspired action—priests and nuns who have founded new religious orders, like Grignon de Monfort and Catherine Laboure; others again votaries of the soul, so surrended already during their lifetime to the world beyond that their bodies showed physically the stigmata of Christ's wounds, like the Italian virgin Gemma Galgani. The first American to be raised to the honor of the altars—Mother Francisca Cabrini, founder of the missionary sisters of the Sacred Heart, nuns who serve in hospitals—worked and died in the United States in 1917.

Revised Rules

PIUS XII also specified more closely a number of existing regulations. For instanee, he classified the fact that the laying on of hands is the act which officially ordains a priest or consecrates a bishop. Very interesting is the change which he made in the rules before the election of a Pope. Up to now it needed two-thirds of all cardinals present, but if a sharp two-thirds majority had been reached, it was necessary to ascertain that the successful candidate had not voted for himself, as that would have invalidated the election. By the new rule, two-third-plus-one-vote are necessary for election and as a result of this measure the voting papers have been substantially simplified, as a possible need for identification is no longer required.

Although rigorous in matters of dogma on which the Supreme Guardian of the Faith can admit of no compromise, Pius XII has shown great worldly understanding. When China ceased to be a missionary country and became under its own hierarchy a proper province of the Church, he allowed the Catholic Chinese to honor Confucius and to bow in reverence to their forefathers—at the same time distinctly dissociating both acts from their former pagan meaning. He has gone equally far in allowing the persecuted Church of Yugoslavia, Hungary, and Czechoslovakia to continue rendering their dues to Caesar. The authority in these states was not disputed except in their attempts to infringe these human rights which are God's.

Proclaiming the Holy Year of 1950, the pontiff made it clear that he wants it foremost a year of sanctification for the faithful, a year of conciliation between man and his Creator, a year of prayers, and of a great pardon. He has asked the faithful to remember his own personal intentions: defense of the Church against the great enemy communism; promotion of social justice which alone can defeat communism and the security of the Holy Places in Palestine, the land where Christ was born and lived and of which so many places from the Bethlehem of His birth to the Jerusalem of His death and resurrection belong to all Christendom.

Let Me Repent

How many scourges have I laid . . . Upon His flesh and bone? . . . How often have I gone my way . . . And left Him all alone? . . . How many are the cruel thorns . . . That crown His humble head . . . To expiate the sins of all . . . The living and the dead? . . . I crucified my God upon . . . A place called Calvary . . . As much as all the populace . . . That now is history . . . He gave His life that I might live . . . And my immortal soul . . . Might gain the golden glory of . . . Its everlasting goal . . . Then let me kneel in penitence . . . And hang my head in shame . . . And let me now sincerely ask . . . Forgiveness in His name.

Make It a Colorful Easter Dinner

By Lucia Brown

AFTER everyone's been to church and back, the youngsters have gathered their Easter eggs, and Peter Cottontail has hopped off down the bunny trail, what sort of dinner will your family enjoy?

If you follow along with tradition, it will be one featuring rosy baked ham, the Easter favorite for many a year. The rest of the meal should reflect all the color and gayety of spring.

Here's our suggestion for an Easter dinner—one that can be prepared largely in advance to spare you effort on the holiday. The ham can be baked a day ahead, and so can the cake. The salad can be molded, and the fruit cocktail mixed. Use biscuit mix for the biscuit and cream of celery soup with the peas. Buy ice or ice cream if you wish, or make it in your own refrigerator in advance. If you can't find new potatoes in your market, buy the little canned ones.

Pineapple and Orange Mint Cocktail
Baked Ham
Parslied New Potatoes
Green Peas in Celery Sauce
Herb Biscuit — Butter
Molded Asparagus Salad
Lime Ice — Tulip and Daffodil Cake
Nuts — Coffee — Candies

HERE'S the recipe for the Pineapple and Orange Mint Cocktail:

1 cup diced pineapple (fresh or canned)
Skinned sections from 3 oranges
¼ pound after-dinner mints

Combine fruit and mints. Chill for an hour or more. Serve with a sprinkling of confectioner's sugar over the top.

To make the herb biscuit, add 1 tablespoon each chopped chives, watercress, and fresh mint to each package of biscuit mix. Otherwise, prepare according to the recipe on the box.

To make the celery sauce for the peas, add about ½ cup of milk to 1 can of cream of celery soup. Heat thoroughly. Add hot cooked peas—frozen or canned—to the sauce a few minutes before serving.

ASPARAGUS SALAD

½ cup cold water
3 cups chicken stock
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
Salt and pepper
1 cup chopped, cooked asparagus tips
½ cup minced green pepper
⅓ cup finely chopped red pepper

Soften gelatin in water and dissolve in hot chicken stock. (Make it with chicken bouillon cubes if you wish.) Add lemon juice and rind, salt and pepper to taste. Two whole cloves may be added. Strain mixture into rectangular dish and, when it begins to set, stir in remaining ingredients. Chill until firm, slice and serve with mayonnaise. This recipe makes six servings.

TULIP AND DAFFODIL CAKE

1½ cups sifted sugar
1¼ cups egg whites (10 to 12)
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cream of tartar
4 egg yolks
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla

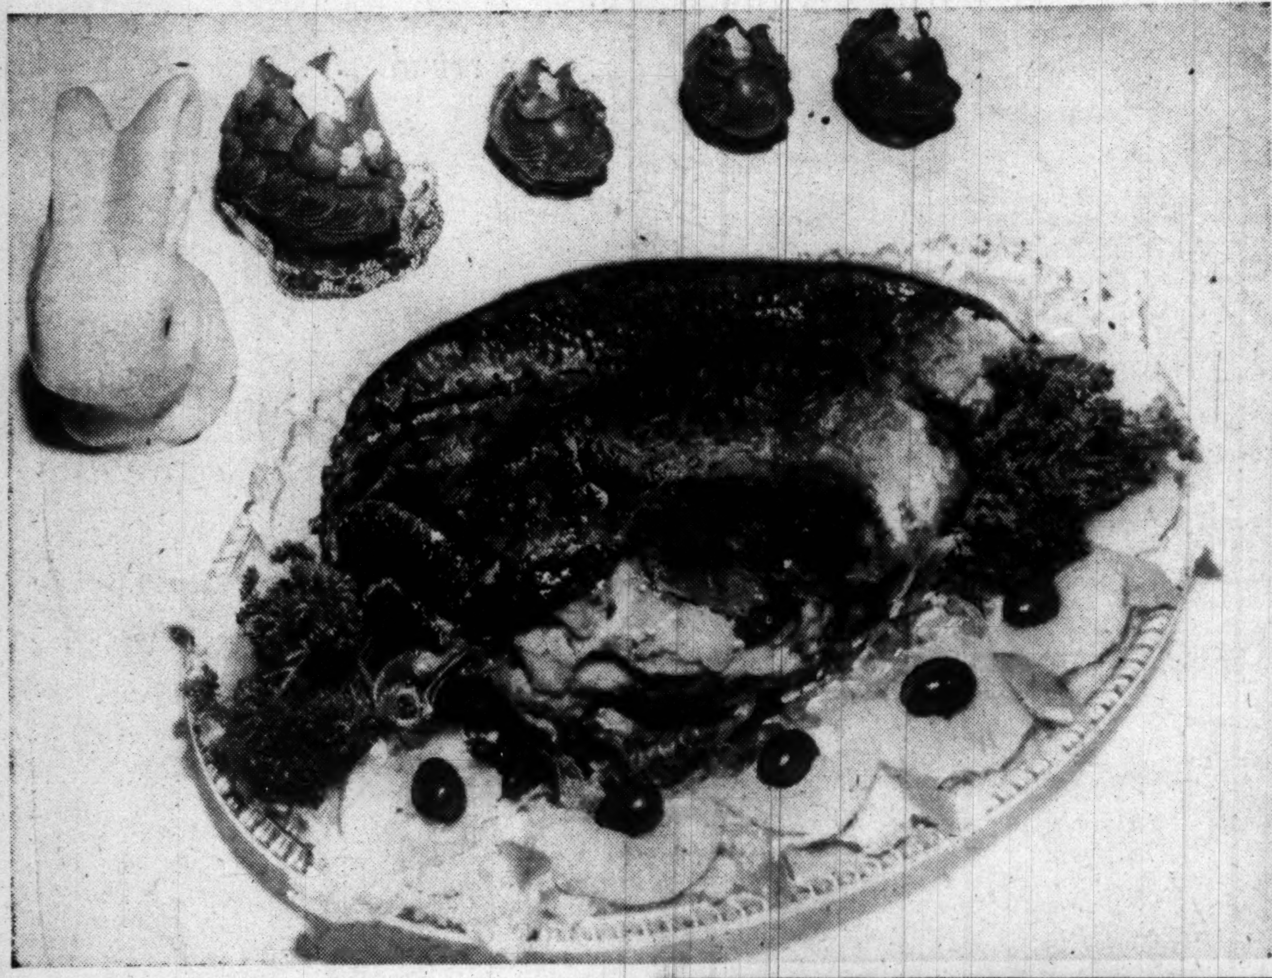
Let eggs stand at room temperature an hour or two before using. Sift flour once before measuring. Sift sugar, too. Then sift both together four times. Beat egg whites and salt with rotary egg beater or flat wire whisk until foamy. Sprinkle in cream of tartar and continue beating until egg whites are stiff enough to hold up in soft peaks but are still moist and glossy.

Sprinkle remaining 1 cup sugar over egg whites, 4 tablespoons at a time, beating 25 strokes or turns after each addition.

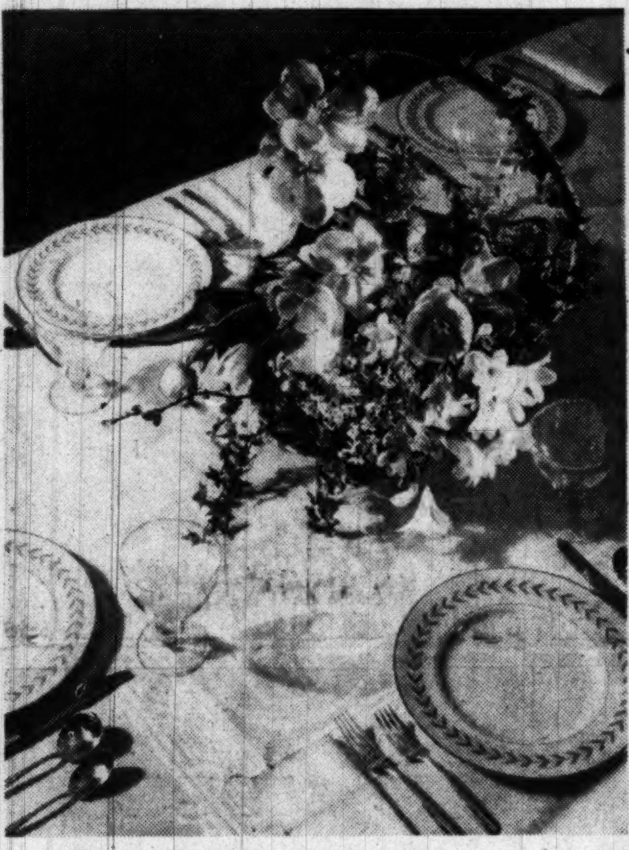
Sift flour mixture over egg whites, ¼ at a time, folding in lightly with large spoon or flat wire whisk. Turn bowl gradually and use 15 foldover strokes after each addition. With last amount, use 10 to 20 extra strokes.

In another bowl, beat egg yolks, grated rind, juice and 2 tablespoons sugar with rotary egg beater until very thick and light. Fold in ½ of cake batter, using 15 strokes. To remaining cake batter, add vanilla, using 10 foldover strokes.

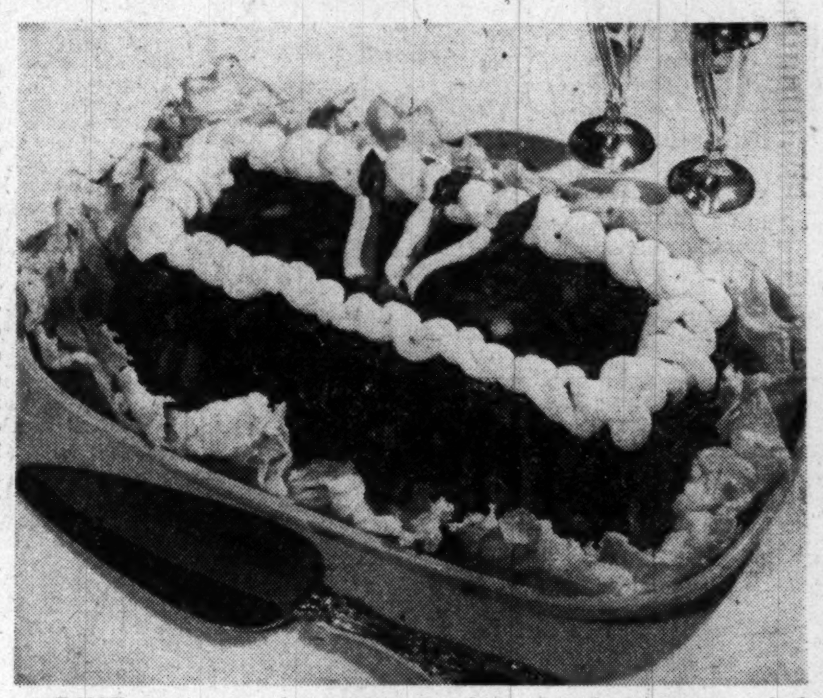
Put batter into ungreased 10-inch tube pan, alternating yellow and white mixtures to give marbled effect. Finish entire top with white batter. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) 35 to 40 minutes. Remove from oven and invert pan 1 hour, or until cake is cool. Top cake with sweetened whipped cream and garnish with strawberries cut part way through and spread out to resemble tulips. Use mint for leaves.



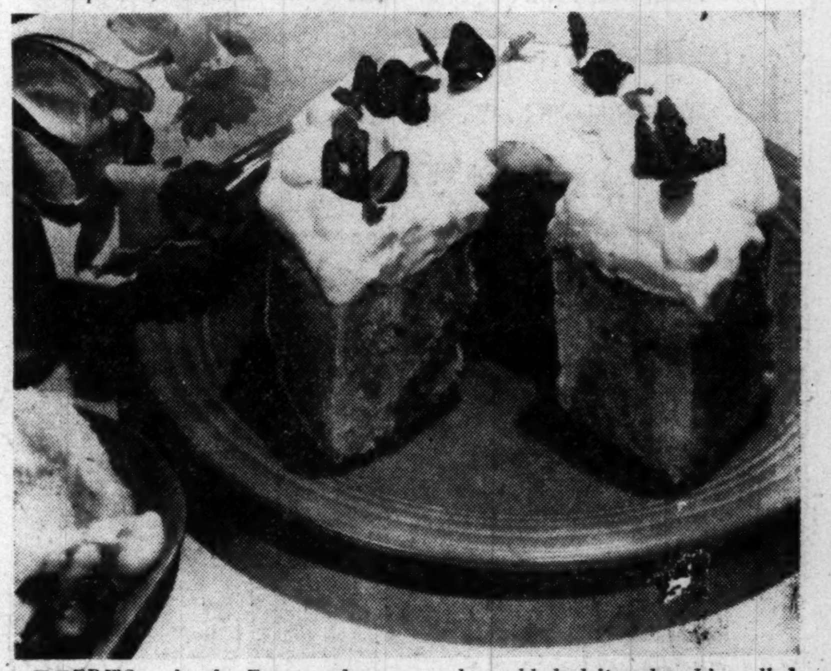
QUEEN of the feast of Easter time is a succulent baked ham, colorfully garnished in honor of the spring-time holiday. Whether it's an old-time country ham or a modern, easy-to-cook one, the slices blend well with the flavor and color-scheme of your meal. With it, serve green peas, asparagus salad, lime ice and tulip and daffodil cake



THIS lovely Easter table is centered with a brilliant pot-pourri of spring flowers arranged in generous profusion in a large garden basket with ivy twined about its handle



IF YOU want to serve the asparagus salad in festive fashion, unmold it on a platter, surround with lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise applied with a pastry tube. Slice and serve at the table



HERE'S a lovely Easter cake to top off the meal, light as down, and marbled delicately. It's called Tulip and Daffodil Cake

EASTER BREAKFAST

Orange Juice
Rich Waffles — Slivered Ham
Coffee — Milk
Cereal with Sliced Bananas
Maple Syrup

RICH WAFFLES

Ingredients: 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 eggs, 2 cups buttermilk, 1 cup butter or margarine (melted).

Method: Sift flour, baking soda and salt. Beat eggs with rotary beater (hand or electric) until they begin to get thick; add buttermilk and beat again to blend. Add dry ingredients and beat until smooth; stir in melted butter or margarine. Bake in waffle iron.

Market Memo . . .

EASTER HAMS AND EASTER EGGS are both much cheaper this year than in 1949. You'll find ham some 8 to 10 cents lower on the pound, eggs about 15 cents less a dozen. Ham prices range from around 49c to 53c a pound.

LAMB—which used to rate as traditional Easter food—has about fallen from grace because of its high price. It's a little less than at Easter time last year, but expensive compared with other meats.

TURKEYS are a fine current buy in the poultry line. Present supply in this country is huge, and the prices about 20 cents a pound under last year. Chicken prices are about the same as in '49. One of the nice forms you can buy chicken in this Easter is 1-pound frozen packages of drumsticks, breasts, thighs or liver—whatever you prefer.

VEGETABLE prices are tending downward as the spring crop comes in. California and Carolina asparagus is a good buy for the time of year. Plenty of new potatoes are reaching the market, and lettuce, peas and beans are fairly abundant.

CITRUS FRUIT for the holiday meal has declined in price, with Valencia oranges coming in from California. Ice cream to top off the meal is being featured in spring fruit flavors. One company even has mouth-watering pictures of strawberries and other fruits all over its packages.

Cooking Cues . . .

Thin leftover mashed potatoes with a cream sauce, season with finely grated onion, add a little canned whole-kernel corn and you have a hearty chowder for lunch or supper.

To vary a casserole of macaroni, serve with links of sausage arranged spoke-fashion on top.

Salads should be tossed lightly or the ingredients will be broken up and the greens bruised.

Richer Tarts From Fruit

When using canned fruit for the center of tarts, cook the fruit with sugar until syrupy and thick before putting into the pastry to bake. This is the only way to have rich tarts from canned fruit.

Youngsters love a dessert made of banana slices sandwiched with peanut butter. Serve with a custard sauce if you want to add to their daily milk quotient.

Because liver, kidney and heart are high in vitamins and minerals, have little waste, and are easy to prepare, they should be used often in family meals.

For the Fashion Parade

Lilly Hums a Sonnet About an Easter Bonnet

LILLY DACHE fashions a lily-white hat for Jinx, humming while she works: "In this season of the year, the women who come in are the happiest. Young or old, there is a spirit in them—they are gay, joyeux, extravagant with colors. Oh, it is wonderful to make hats for Easter! Before all the mirrors, underneath the talk, you hear the hum of one song: 'I could write a sonnet, About your Easter bonnet . . . dum-da-dum da-dum-dee . . . the Easter Parade!'"

By Tex McCrary and Jinx Falkenberg

THE velvet charm of a French accent has survived twenty-five years of New York in the crackling conversation of Lilly Dache. Neatly, she pronounces each syllable of a word like "technically" — "teck-neek-ka-lee . . . a bonnet is a hat which frames the face closely, with little brim which comes out in front. But I do not split hairs! At this time of year, all hats, bonnets, chapeaux, they all become only one thing — beau-catchers! A hat is to catch the eye of a man!"

And in the seven-story house where Lilly and her husband live, 200 women and twenty men work overtime these days to meet the demand:

"The flowers this year! Come with me, see for yourself!"

And she took us into a back room on her fifth floor where mountains of pink and yellow and purple and flaming red flowers were stacked like fruit in bins:

"You see! For two years, no flowers on Easter bonnets, out of style, passe. Now, this spring, the style is once again flowers, and women have starved for them—they go now for flowers with revenge! No! That is not quite right! I feel it is wrong . . . with a vengeance . . . yes, that is what I mean. With a vengeance!

LILLY has made her own hats since she was 6, and she has never once bought a hat for herself . . . well, there was one near-miss:

Lilly had been working late on hats for other people—she had a very special date, and no hat in the shop which she could wear to match the occasion. She dashed across the street to another milliner, walked right in, started shopping for a hat. The milliner snorted suspicion: "Aren't you the woman in that shop over there?"

"Why, yes, I am pleased to meet you," said Lilly.

An immediate bellow of rage: "Out!"

"Out! Nobody steals ideas from me!"

And so that evening, Lilly Dache went out without a hat: "Very, very humiliating."

Lilly will never forget to her dying day the first Easter after her shop opened in New York—things were very quiet a few days before Sunday, so quiet that Lilly felt it was safe to leave her partner in charge while she wandered out into the spring sunshine to find a cozy place for lunch. An hour later, she returned—there was a huge mob outside her shop.

"People looking — policemen whistling—a big, big crowd! Right away, I thought, fire! I cried out, 'My shop—my hats—let me through.'

"I dug into the crowd, squirmed and wriggled through the ranks of women, and got finally into the door of my shop. First thing I noticed firemen had not yet broken the windows—that meant the fire must be in the back! A policeman stood in my way, to block me from going further.

"'This my shop,' I told him, 'I must help save my hats from the fire!'

"'This is no fire, lady—haven't you ever seen a hat shop two days before Easter?'

"I heaved a big sigh of relief and went back into my shop to help my partner—she was half-crazy with crowd. By 5 o'clock, the shop was all cleaned out and we were success. In America, things happen very fast."

P.S. FROM TEX:

Stubbornly we pressed Lilly Dache for details about price; reluctantly, she yielded a few figures: her most expensive hat cost $18,000—made of sable! Current prices range from $42.50 and up. Average price is about $60.

While we were scribbling practical notes about prices, there was a sudden rushing in the foliage of a window box; Lilly smiled and explained:

"Forgive them—they are lovebirds—they have a nest out there and we can hear them every spring. What could be more significant!"

How can a man keep talking about prices . . . above the rustle of lovebirds?

Mary Haworth's Mail

Mentally Anguished by Parents' Cynicism, Teen-Ager Asks How to Avoid Becoming Like Them; They 'Use' Friends, Care for Nobody

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My parents are in their thirties, but they are so cynical and selfish about other people, and their attitude causes me great mental anguish.

I am in my teens and therefore keenly conscious of everything that goes on around me, and I think my home especially has a great influence on me. The things I am going to mention may seem trivial but I have to tell you.

For example, our bathtub was waterlogged and my mother said, "Well, let's shut off all the water in the apartment and maybe the waste water will go to the people in the front apartment." They'd been having the same trouble. I said I thought that was very mean, whereupon my father said, "Who the hell cares about them? Nobody cares about us. Nobody helps you in this world. We are all out for ourselves."

For another example, when I've been to the dentist and we get a bill, my father says, "Why don't you ask your friends to pay the bill? No, you know they won't. Everything comes out of my skin and bones."

Dad's Rude to Guests

WHEN any friends come to the house my father acts ugly and makes them feel uncomfortable. If I offer them refreshments he curses under his breath about "charity begins at home." Also if we are ever in financial difficulty, mother always tells him, "Get money from your brother or mother." Both of them are just all-around mean and petty and think friends should be used and that's all.

I don't know how to change their views or give them advice, because if I try they say my ideas don't count because I haven't lived. Please help me as fast as you can, for I can almost feel myself getting like them.

C. S.

Girl Is Alert to Real Danger

DEAR C. S.: Your father's niggardly hostile philosophy isn't the fruit of manly experience. Rather it is a primitive belief born of self distrust and stark fear of want, that was dinned into him by his own parents (or comparable authority) in years when he wasn't primed to resist wrong indoctrination.

In that time he probably was less fortunate than you are today, on the score of aids to enlightenment. Perhaps you've had opportunities he's never had, to study and to know brave good folk schooled in a tradition of generous behavior and self reliance which makes possible "love of neighbor" and social cooperation—the only brand of behavior that can prosper the human race.

Obviously your father was suckled on emotional fare that contained little, if any, of the milk of human kindness. His psychological constitution is twisted for lack of it.

But owing to the spread of mental health teaching, it is your good fortune to be more alert to threats to mental health than he was in his youth, when the slow poison of negative attitudes overtook him unawares. Your enlightened awareness in this respect can be your salvation, your potent inner protection against his barbs of poisoned feeling.

A Typical Cross in Adolescence

FOR THE REST, you aren't so very different from the average teen-ager in any walk of life, in feeling that your parents are a heavy cross to bear. Around 15, adolescents grow very uneasy of themselves as a rule, and until they plow through that phase, they are hypercritical of their home situation and their parents' shortcomings, for fear these "extensions of self" may make a damaging impression on boys and girls who come to call.

In all probability your parents have about the same virtues and frailties that the neighbors have, since persons tend to settle amongst their own kind. So my advice is to relax in the knowledge that they aren't freaks by community standards—and try to bear their flaws in a calm, kindly way, neither arguing with them nor voicing anxious apologies to friends about paternal crudities you can't prevent.

Anne Guides an Arlington Reader Who Seeks a Convenient Class For Help on Refinishing Furniture

DEAR ANNE:

Where can I obtain instruction—free or otherwise—on refinishing furniture? I should like a class in my own community if possible. J. K. L., Arlington.

A class in restoring small furniture is being held at the Arlington Recreation Center, 3700 Lee hwy., each Wednesday at 1 p. m. The fee is 50 cents per lesson. For further information, call Owens 8888.

DEAR ANNE:

Regarding recent letters in your column about education of preschool children: This seems to be a much larger and more important subject than most parents realize. The writer has been studying this problem from the viewpoint of the parent of a 5-year-old and collected considerable material. I would like to exchange information and problems with other interested parents who wish to call me at Wisconsin 4953.

S. D. S., Washington.

DEAR ANNE:

Can you tell me if anything has been published giving information on furs, having to do with identification, wearability, quality. I would like to educate myself before I venture into the unknown again.

J. W. H., Arlington.

You can obtain such a leaflet by sending the small sum of a nickel to the Consumer Education Department, Household Finance Corp., 919 North Michigan ave., Chicago 11, Ill. Ask for their booklet on "Better Buymanship, Use, and Care of Furs."

DEAR ANNE:

Can you let me know how to clear up scratches on dark cordovan mahogany furniture? M. A., Washington.

Dark furniture stain or a scratch stick in the proper shade can be used to touch up these scratches.

DEAR ANNE:

Water running off our copper screens has stained the outside of our white frame house. How can we remove the marks and prevent its happening again?

C. E. D., Bethesda.

On a paint composed only of white lead, such stains will wash off. On paint containing zinc, the stain will be more permanent.

Try washing them off with a solution of ½ cup of trisodium phosphate in 1 quart of water. Since this solution is destructive to paint if allowed to remain in contact for any considerable period, the washing should be over a small area at a time, followed within seconds with plenty of water flushed on with a big sponge. If the stain is seen to become lighter, the process is repeated.

Stains from copper can be prevented by covering the screens with a coat of spar varnish. Clean screens thoroughly with dry cleaning fluid before varnishing. Use varnish thinned with half-and-half mixture of linseed oil and turpentine. Varnish may fill meshes, so follow immediately with a dry brushing.

DEAR ANNE:

Where could I find information on caloric value of commercially prepared soups and other canned goods?

Karlian M. Alde, Arlington.

The National Canners Association has compiled a list of the nutritive value of 42 different canned products. You can obtain this by writing the association, 1133 20th st. nw., Washington, D. C.

ATTENTION M.L.U.: On a tip from a reader way down in Goldsboro, N. C., we have contacted several of the smaller bakeries here and find they will sell raw bread dough by the pound. You usually have to order it a day in advance. Prices range around 10 or 15 cents a pound. You can carry the dough home, pop it in your refrigerator, then take it out and let it rise and bake when you want hot rolls. Check with bake shops in your neighborhood. It may be they can provide you with the dough.

THESE four "hand-thrown" ceramics will be among the 117 pottery pieces by Gertrude and Otto Natzler to be shown here beginning Easter Sunday. The two center pieces are examples of the rough-appearing but smooth-to-the-touch "crater" glazes of these California masters of the ceramic art. The bowl on the left has an amber reduction glaze and the free-form bowl on the right a gray pearl glaze. The showing opens at 3:30 p. m. Sunday at the Glass House, 1642 Connecticut ave. nw., and will continue for four weeks

California Dean Urges Generalized College Education

A movement toward more generalized college education, particularly in the first two years, is mounting in California.

Dr. Tempe E. Allison, dean of women at San Bernardino Valley College, who has been visiting in Washington, reports that several of the State's leading educators are launching a study of ways to halt or modify the general trend toward highly specialized college training.

The study, which will continue for three years, is being conducted by the University of California with a special grant from the American Council of Education.

Dean Allison, who's been with the California college for 20 years, hopes the study will reveal methods of teaching citizenship during the first two years of college.

"We should concentrate on building responsible citizens during the first two years and then begin the professional training," she maintains.

The brush and timber jumps on Martin Vogel's rolling Broadview Farm are ready for this spectacular and hazardous race, a classic of the Virginia Hunt Circuit. The owners of other nearby estates are also ready to open their doors for weekend guests, luncheons, and cocktail parties.

Their guests will be Miss Marilyn Himes and Dr. John Keeler of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Pool of Princeton, N. J., and Mrs. Montgomerie-Charrington, from England.

Mrs. Neil Philips and Mrs. Henry Atherton, cochairmen, report that acceptances now total several hundred.

Among the many who will attend Martin Vogel, jr.'s, cocktail party immediately following the races will be the Brazilian Ambassador Mauricio Nabuco, Mr. and Mrs. Constantine de Stackelberg, Senator and Mrs. James P. Kem, all of Washington, and State Senator and Mrs. Harry Byrd, jr., of Winchester.

The julep cups at Crestone, the delightful hillside home of Mr. and Mrs. J. North Fletcher, near Warrenton, are being polished again for the lunch party that has become a traditional curtain raiser for their many friends journeying down for the Gold Cup.

Another luncheon will be given by Mr. and Mrs. William Rochester, jr., at their new Warrenton home. Mr. Rochester is a well-known amateur rider and expects to be astride his horse, Black Slave, in the steeplechase classic.

Still another luncheon scheduled is that of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith and Mrs. Kennedy Moulton at Ridgelea. Among the guests from Washington will be Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Jock Merriam, Mr. and Mrs. William Merriam, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Orme, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams.

Inconsistent Hollywood

By Howard C. Heyn

HOLLYWOOD (AP).—Jane Greer was talking about inconsistencies in movie scripts.

"In one picture," she recalled, "they left me hanging by the hands from a tree. They shot that scene on location, and followed it with a sequence on a train which explained how I got out of the dilemma.

"But meanwhile I caught the flu. In the train scenes I couldn't read my lines for laughing; I must have had a fever. Finally the director let me go home for three days to recover. I didn't do it deliberately, of course, but the hysterical laugh was one way to get sick leave.

"Well, when I came back I learned that they had cut the entire train sequence, to save the cost of reshooting it. That left me right out on the limb—the revised script never did explain how I got out of that tree. As far as the story is concerned, I'm still hanging there."

Jane is perfectly amiable about such incongruities, and she has quite a repertoire of them. She tells them wholly for fun, and she's one of the best storytellers in Hollywood.

At present she is playing a girl on parole from a theft charge, in "The Wall Outside," and she found a couple of script peculiarities in this one, too, she said. For instance:

"My wardrobe consists of one change of blouses. As a parolee, naturally, I'm too broke to get any fancy ideas about clothes. In one scene after another I complain to Lizabeth Scott, 'I've simply got to have a coat.' It's cold, you know.

"So what's the first thing the script has me buy when I get out of jail? Another dress. No coat. I kept telling the director that wasn't logical. And this time I won. The writers finally gave me a coat."

Once Jane was cast as a nice, sincere girl who tries to persuade her brother-in-law to go back to his wife.

"I had always played a dance-hall tramp or a gun moll or something, and this was my first part as a sweet young thing. I was very happy about it. But the writers soon fixed that: they switched me from a sister-in-law to a designing sweetheart. Instead of appealing to his better nature, I was to shake him down for $2000.

"Worse still, I had to chase him all the way to Mexico to do it, and the way I traveled it was perfectly obvious that I'd spend more finding him than the $2000 I expected to get."

Sooner or later, this was inevitable:

Two Western pictures were shooting simultaneously on Universal-International's back lot. Shooting—with both cameras and guns. The assistant directors did their best, but the general whooping and hollering of the "Winchester 73" company finally overlapped with the general whooping and hollering of the "Saddle Tramp" company.

Distracted, the respective directors took the only possible course. Both ordered "quiet" at the same time, and the silence was deafening. Then the din started all over again, on both sides. At last a set of signals was worked out for the two companies, a quarter-mile apart.

* * * *

Eddie Quillan is coming out of a five-year retirement to take a role in "Sideshow." The picture's director is Jean Yarbrough, with whom Quillan worked in such films as "Follow the Band" and "Hiya, Sailor."

* * * *

Behind the Scenes

What movie audiences don't see: Cornel Wilde, Richard Basehart and Jeff Chandler, in "Triumph to the Morn," fight a bloody battle to keep Indians out of an adobe fort. But what audiences won't know is that the "fort" is already full of Indians.

The studio rented an entire pueblo at San Idlefonso, N. Mex., and called it a fort, agreeing to let Indian families remain in their quarters if they kept out of camera range.

Thus, some of the braves sat quietly inside with their squaws, while others, garbed as murderous Apaches, found themselves assaulting their own doorways.

A genuine 1875 Baldwin locomotive, still boasting the letters A. T. & S. F. in faded gold leaf on its cab, will figure in "Winchester 73." The engine rolls along an eighth of a mile section of track on the studio lot, but not under its own steam. An unseen winch will pull it, because California boiler inspectors decreed that the engine's tubes were too rusty to be fired with safety.

No Time for Lunch

A PUNCH in the nose is likely to be Eddie Albert's answer to anyone who asks him what he does with his spare time these days.

Eddie left the cast of the Broadway show "Miss Liberty" to co-star with Lucille Ball in the film, "The Fuller Brush Girl.". He works before the cameras all day, and at 7:30 each evening he tapes his daily half-hour radio show.

After the taping session he confers with the writers of his own educational films, which he produces independently. And, in three weeks, he made 16 guest appearances on other people's radio shows.

AT PRESENT Jane Greer is playing a girl on parole from a theft charge in "The Wall Outside," soon to come to Washington

Girl, 16, Gets Job As Technical Adviser

Hollywood (AP).—A few eyebrows are being raised over the hiring of a 16-year-old high school girl as technical adviser for "Louisa."

But the studio says this girl, Corinne Beringer, knows her stuff. She's giving 40 young extras, of both sexes, the low-down on how teen-agers act in love seats of a movie house.

Publicity Man Tells One About D. Niven

Hollywood (AP).—David Niven says he didn't know it, but apparently he and Edgar Allan Poe are almost doubles.

A fan mailed a letter with only a Poe stamp and the words Hollywood, Calif., on the envelope. The letter said: "I just wanted to see if our postoffice department recognized the resemblance as easily as I."

Well, it did. Niven got the letter. His publicity man swears he did.

'As Good as Ever,' They Say

Crawford Still Giving With the Cheesecake

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, April 5 (AP).—Joan Crawford was at it again this week—posing for cheesecake.

In fact, she calculated that she was posing for leg art for the eight-thousandth time. I don't know how she arrived at this total, but, as any photo editor will tell you, that's a lot of cheesecake.

"As long as the public wants it," she volunteered, "I'll give it to them."

This has been going on since Miss Crawford arrived in Hollywood, back in the days when the Charleston and the ukulele were going around the first time.

"I was posed being shot out of firecrackers for the Fourth of July," she recalled between scenes of "Lady of the House." "I was a female Santa Claus coming out of a chimney. I was in a track uniform running the 100-yard dash. I thought I would never get before a movie camera."

She finally did make the movies, although she was sometimes as scantily clad as she was in the publicity picture. She became the symbol of the flaming flapper.

Now, many years and an academy award later, she is still willing to display her form. And with men who know cheesecake best, she's as good as ever.

Miss Crawford pooh-poohed the glamour girls who have been turning up their noses at leg art. She indicated there must be something wrong with them, and added: "Let the public decide." So far the public demand for babes in bathing suits has not ebbed.

Since she is an experienced hand (or should I say leg?) at cheesecake, I asked her if there are any tricks to the trade.

"No," she replied. "I just pull in my tummy, throw out my chest, and let 'er go."

However, she did demonstrate a few helpful hints. A gal should not stand with her legs too far apart, except when wearing sporty clothes. Miss Crawford added that a gal with knobby knees (hers aren't) or bowed legs (hers don't) should not be photographed from the front, but from the side.

"Actually, there are two kinds of cheesecake," she expounded. "There is the upstairs kind, which can be shown in costume pictures, and there is the downstairs kind, in musicals and comedies."

Upstairs or downstairs, la Crawford can still hold her own with the starlets of today.

Film Shorties

SAYS pint-sized Mickey Rooney: "It's no handicap to be short in the movies."

"It's a lot easier for them to make you look taller on the screen than shorter," he reasoned. "Why, I look a lot taller in pictures than I really am. "There are just as many short guys on the screen as tall ones—Alan Ladd, Jimmy Cagney, Bing Crosby, Gene Kelly, Humphrey Bogart, to name a few."

Terry Moore, Rooney's co-star in "Freddie the Great," is just his height. It's the first time she has had a leading man under 6 feet. "It's nice to look someone in the eye and not stretch my neck to do it," she commented.

CRAWFORD, THEN AND LATER—Joan, shown left above in a fairly recent pose, was giving with the "cheesecake" (right) way back there, about the time the Charleston was first being perpetrated in this country. She is still obliging with the leg art, on demand

Glen Echo Park Opens Saturday For 40th Season

In the valley, there's Glen Echo, and it opens Saturday at 1 p. m. for its fortieth season which they say will be terrific.

At any rate, the amusement park in Montgomery County near the Potomac River will have the usual number of carnival attractions.

For dancers there will be some nightly except Sunday, with Sammy Ferro and his Glen Echo Orchestra. Additionally, Ralph Case, an expert, will be around on Thursdays for "Square Dance Night."

Although the park, for which there is no admission charge, opens Saturday, the park's Crystal Pool will not start operations until May 25, according to Gerald P. Price, new general manager of Glen Echo.

Silver Spring Optimists Elect Ralph Lutz

Ralph P. Lutz, assistant manager of the Montgomery County Liquor Control Board, has been elected president of the Silver Spring Optimist Club.

Virginia Allots Fairfax $471,676 For Road Work

Fairfax County will receive $471,676 from the State Highway Commission's 21-million-dollar allocation for secondary highway maintenance and improvement, it was announced in Richmond yesterday.

The allocation was determined by a four-factor formula which considered the county's secondary mileage, rural population, rural area and vehicle miles on the secondary basis, officials said. (Arlington did not come under the secondary system under the Byrd Road Act of 1932, and receives their share on a different basis.)

GIVE-AWAYS

"Perfectly adorable, affectionate, gentle tiger kitten with perfect manners." (Trinidad 3782 after 2:30 p. m.)

"Very nice 1-year-old Maltese mother cat and her twin tiger kittens; all housebroken." (Sterling 9200, Extension 2829, during office hours.)

TELEPHONE LINES

The phone company puts out a bang-up house organ called "The Transmitter."

It's chock-full of such interesting facts as the statistic that during each minute of the year, the company handles 91,700 telephone calls; and it usually gets its facts straight.

But the current issue comes a cropper. It refers affectionately to the Kanawha River as the "Big K'noy." And it ain't any such thing. It's the "Big K'noya." Ask anybody between Charleston and Gauley Bridge.

To penalize "The Transmitter" for this grievous error, I am going to swipe one of the jokes off its humor page.

It's the one about the man who calls a business acquaintance at home. The small voice that answers announces that the man of the house is out.

"Tell him Mr. Brown called," says the businessman.

"Wait till I get a pencil and paper," answers the small voice. Then: "How do you spell Brown?"

"B-r-o-w-n," says the patient caller. But from the other end, there is deep silence. Then a plaintive:

"How do you make a 'B'?"

LANE LINES

Traffic Director George Keneipp has answered my recent criticism of traffic delays on Connecticut ave. nw. resulting from the painting of lane lines in the streets.

He is careful to point out that no main street is ever completely blocked off. But of course nobody charged any such thing to begin with.

The issue is that when a busy artery such as Connecticut ave. is reduced to one lane of traffic in each direction, there is bound to be a jam.

I suggested that perhaps lines could be painted on one side of the street one day and on the other side another day, leaving more lanes open at all times.

Keneipp says this isn't practical and, without even asking him to explain why, I'll accept his verdict. He has demonstrated that he usually knows what he's doing.

He also says that it's impractical to paint the lines at night, because the dew interferes with the drying of the paint.

On the strength of Keneipp's standing as an expert in his field, I'll buy that one, too. But it is interesting to note that when I've raised this same issue with other officials in the past, I've gotten such varying replies as: "We don't have the funds to pay night differentials to the crews," "We can't get the men to accept night work," and "Oh, didn't you know? We do a great deal of night painting whenever it's practical."

I got the impression they just weren't very enthusiastic about the idea.

The one point on which I still take issue with Keneipp is his statement that it would take nine policemen (three for each crew) to expedite traffic at effected intersections, and that so many officers just aren't available.

I contend that even one motorcycle man assigned to each of the three crews would be a vast improvement over the present system of letting motorists stew in their own juices.

And if we can't spare three policemen for such needed work then I'm at a loss to understand how the Commissioners suddenly found so many men available to conduct and tabulate a city-wide straw poll.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

How can I get a list of the names of those Congressmen who have not signed the discharge petition for the Home Rule Bill?

Bill Plampin
4108 Tunlaw ter. nw.

Dear Bill:

The names of those who have signed are not revealed until the quota is reached. Therefore our only information regarding the status of such a petition comes from "unofficial" sources.

Some Congressmen make no secret of the fact that they have signed, or will refuse to sign. Home Rule Headquarters (Lincoln 7-1828) tries to keep track of these unofficial revelations, and will probably be able to help you.

By the way—which side are you on? Do you want to urge the holdouts to sign or to stand fast?
Bill

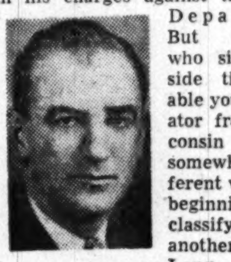
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

McCarthy Is Called Kingfish II

By Drew Pearson

Most newspaper readers, even though disagreeing with Senator McCarthy, consider him sincere in his charges against the State Department. But Senators who sit alongside the likeable young Senator from Wisconsin have a somewhat different view, are beginning to classify him as another Huey Long.



McCarthy

Like the Louisiana Kingfish, Joe McCarthy has an engaging manner, great personal charm, tremendous energy and an insatiable desire for putting headlines ahead of public welfare. Also, like Huey, McCarthy is getting the reputation of picking up almost any ball and running with it, if it brings enough publicity. This, colleagues explain, was why he smeared the United States Army for giving the death sentence to 12 SS men responsible for massacring 350 unarmed American prisoners of war at Malmedy during the Battle of the Bulge.

Malmedy was one of the most gruesome and ruthless murders of the war. The 350 Americans were prisoners, had no way to defend themselves, had not been guilty of espionage. Yet they were lined up and shot in cold blood. With them were shot 100 Belgian civilians.

Came the end of the war, and the 73 Nazi Storm Troopers responsible for the massacre were tried and found guilty. Most of them confessed. "The atrocities," according to a Senate report, "were committed by the combat group Peiper who were members of the Waffen SS . . . which had a long, notorious military record on both the Western and Eastern Fronts."

Despite this record, despite the cold-bloodedness of the murder, and despite the fact only 12 of the 73 got the death penalty for killing 450 men, Senator McCarthy put on a terrific campaign last year to get the convictions reversed.

McCarthy Rebuffed

In speech after speech on the Senate floor, he charged that the United States Army had extorted confessions from the murderers. His campaign was much like that now aimed at the State Department, and he was so insistent that a subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee finally was appointed to make an investigation.

It wrote a unanimous report upholding the Army and inferentially condemning McCarthy. The Senator from Wisconsin, the committee indicated, had been sold a bill of goods by the National Council for the Prevention of War and other outfits with close German connections.

McCarthy's Senate colleagues also urged the Justice Department to investigate the "unusual activity in this case of certain organizations and individuals," and even asked the Defense Department to probe the "possibility of a plan to revive German nationalistic spirit by discrediting the American Military Government and to determine whether this is a part of a larger plan to bring Germany into closer relationship with the Soviet Union."

Thus McCarthy's own colleagues implied that he might be lending himself to the same Communist goals that he now condemns in the State Department. They also raised the point that such able SS men as those found guilty at Malmedy should not be released and be permitted to affiliate with "the Communist forces of Europe."

McCarthy's campaign for the Malmedy slayers was played up in German Communist papers, which featured reports that United States officers had put match sticks under the fingernails of Nazi prisoners, had tortured their sex organs. Though completely untrue, these reports seriously undermined United States military prestige in Germany.

In the end, a Senate committee ruled unanimously against the Senator from Wisconsin, who has now shifted to the State Department in his untiring effort to remain in the limelight.

Note—As a result of McCarthy's intimidation of the Army, it is still holding up the execution of the 12 Nazis responsible for shooting 350 American GIs and 100 Belgians.

Gas Go-Round

The hottest backfire against the Kerr gas bill is going to be in the President's home State, where it may defeat Truman's handpicked senatorial candidate, Emory Allison. Missouri is a big gas-consuming State, and GOP Senator Forrest Donnell has been making the most of Democratic support for the so-called "soak-the-consumer" Kerr bill . . . Missouri Congressman Moulder's last-minute switch to the gas companies will help him. Moulder, a Democrat, was one of four votes changed at the last minute. Congressman Tom Pickett of Texas, a Speaker Rayburn scout, arranged his switch.
